Lancaster County Foundation Presents Scholarships

BY SALLY BAIR
Lancaster Co. Correspondent
LANCASTER — Twelve Lancaster County residents received scholarships worth $1,000 each to study agriculture or home economics from the Farm and Home Foundation of Lancaster County. Selected on the basis of financial need, scholarship and leadership, the scholarships will help these 12 seniors during their freshman year of college. Now in its 24th year, the money for the awards comes from a fund established by the late Elmer Esbenschade. Garden Spot and Solanco High Schools accounted for three recipients each, with the others coming from throughout the county. Those scholarship winners from Garden Spot include: Gretchen A. Frederick, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald L. Frederick, Blue Ball. A member of Grassland Future Farmers of (Turn to Page A32)

Last Sunday a group of farmers and agriculture officials from Germany visited an Amish farm and had lunch at John and Barb Brubaker's farm at Christiana (Lancaster County). The German Embassy in Washington, D.C., had requested the visit through contacts with the Pennsylvania Farmers Association. So Lancaster County Farmers Association sponsored the luncheon and arranged the visits. The Germans praised Lancaster County farmers for their friendliness and hospitality. In the photo, Stefan Dabbert (left), an Agriculture Economist with the touring group, presented a book about the German countryside to the Brubakers. Bovine Leukosis Potential Killer In Our Midst

LITITZ (Lancaster) — There is nothing more frustrating and heart-breaking for a dairy farmer than to see one of his top cows go down for no apparent reason. And that, after weeks of seeing her production dwindle, her appetite die, and her health diminish. The veterinarian, shakes his head sadly and says, 'I'm sorry, I don't really know, but I think it's BLV.'

BLV. Just three letters to describe a disease that, while not as lethal as Johnes, is just as insidi-

Poultry Expert Comes To Lancaster

LANCASTER — If you want to sit down and talk turkey, John Schwartz is the man to see. Of course, he also will be happy to talk broilers and layers too.

Schwartz is the newest addition to the Lancaster County Extension office. A multi-county agent, he is the poultry expert for Lancaster, Lebanon, York, and Adams counties. He plans to spend the first few months on the job finding out what the industry sees as its top needs and problem areas. Then he plans to help provide solutions.

To do this, Schwartz intends to spend a good deal of time out of the office talking to producers and allied industry members. "I'm a firm believer that the extension is a (Turn to Page A29)

ous. More than 25 percent of adult dairy cows in the United States have the bovine leukosis virus (BLV) in one of its various stages. In Pennsylvania the figure is 33 percent, New York is 15 percent, Alabama is 40 percent, and Wisconsin is 20 to 25 percent.

The first stage of BLV is the carrier state. "The cow has the virus in her system and is perfectly healthy," explained Dr. Lawrence J. Hutchinson, professor of veterinary science extension at Penn State. "Production isn't affected in this stage. In the second stage, persistent lymphocytosis, the cow develops a high white blood-cell count. She is still healthy, but is in what's known as a pre-tumor stage, going toward leukemia."

The final stage is termed bovine lymphosarcoma, and in this clinical stage, the cow most often will develop cancer in the lymphoid tissues. Lymph nodes are found around the head, back, flank, hip, shoulder, neck, heart, uterus, spinal cord, and digestive tract, especially the abomasum.

"Often, the only sign is the enlarged lymph glands usually around the head, neck, back, or flanks in what seems to be healthy animals," noted Hutchinson and associate, C.W. Burns in an extension newsletter. "At other times, the lymph nodes become so large, pressure is applied on adjacent organs. Then the animals may exhibit signs of diseases related to the disturbed organ."

Death usually occurs within two to eight weeks of the sudden enlargement of the lymph nodes.

According to current statistics, the clinical stage of BLV occurs in less than 5 percent of the infected cows. In other words, less than 1 percent of all adult dairy cows.

"This percentage seems awfully

Marketing Officials Meet

BY EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

LANCASTER — Members of the Northeast region of the National Agricultural Marketing Officials held their annual meeting at the Willow Valley Resort here this week to prepare for the July National meeting in Los Cruces, New Mexico. In addition, the group discussed the 1989 National Food and Agriculture Exposition to be held in Boston's Hynes Convention Center next May 15-17. A series of video presentations outlined the National Food and Ag Exposition's benefits and gave testimonials of satisfied exhibitors. Boyd Wolfe, Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary, and Jay Erwin, Lancaster County Agent, welcomed the group on Monday.

Wolfe had earlier announced that PDA would sponsor a state pavilion at the Boston Exposition. He suggested the timing and location of the food show presents a unique economic development opportunity for Pennsylvania's food and fiber producers. "The (Turn to Page A22)

Acres Corn Update: Corn futures today closed higher from 1/2 to 1 cent after a lower opening, as buying resumed midday on dry weather concerns Forecasts this morning for rain moving into the midwest triggered selling, which was reversed when noontime maps failed to firm coverage Spillover strength from the beans also added support along with strong stoppers on the May deliveries

Acres Soybean Update:
Soybean futures closed higher after a sluggish start with fresh buying enthusiasm triggered by renewed weather worries The lower opening was dictated by forecasts for showers moving into the midwest, but the midday maps did not confirm the earlier reports. Support also came from activity in the soymeal with buying related to tight supplies New contract highs again today were posted both in the beans and meal.

Acres Wheat Update:
Wheat futures closed from 4-1/2 to 6 cents higher this afternoon as crop deterioration worries encouraged buying Deferred months neared contract highs on today's rally as talk of streak mosaic spurred further buying Technical strength and professional fund buying added to earlier gains, with offsetting pressure from a nearterm slack export outlook The July option closed 5-3/4 cents higher at $3 31-1/2, just shy of today's session high

Acres Cattle Update: Live cattle futures closed higher with a new contract high posted for the August live cattle late in the session Buying this afternoon was in response to strength in the cash fundamentals, along with the impression that packers would be willing to pay top dollar for high quality stock There exists the sentiment that the market will decay once retailers have completed their memorial day purchases Activity in the feeder cattle pit mirrored live cattle with cash market strength generating fresh buying.

CME FEEDER CATTLE SETTLE
MENT PRICE 5/14/88- $81 52 up 28
ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK cash
-steady to higher futures-steady.

Acres Hog Update: Live hog futures closed from 10 lower on the August to 32 higher on the April 89 option Prices had traded higher throughout the morning but started to decline midday on lower product values and ideas cash markets would be weaker tomorrow. Support early in the session was tied to ideas receipts would be lower and spillover from the cattle pit.

Consumer Customers Deserve The Best

A food contamination report could undo in a day all the good promotion efforts that has taken years to develop. We believe this could happen over reports of sulfa residues in milk and meat. The Food and Drug Administration has found traces of sulfamethazine in the national milk supply. Sulfa, as the drug is commonly called, is suspected of causing cancer. Pork producers had their warning several months ago. Now both the National Pork Producers and the National Milk Producers have recommended that use of the drug be suspended until more is known about the problem.

At the recent Western Dairy Conference in Utah, James Camerillo Jr., President, National Milk Producers Federation and Western Dairyman Cooperative, Inc., said that drug residues could halt the growing demand for dairy products. "We have to clear that up (drug residues) right now," Camerillo said. "If the press reports on drug residues in milk, culled cows, and veal calves, the 2% increase in consumer demand could go out the window overnight."

The FDA study found sulfa in 36 of the 49 milk samples they took from retail outlets in ten cities nationwide. According to Chris Lecos, a Washington-based spokesman for the federal agency, 25 of the positive samples contained less than five parts per billion; the largest level detected was 40 parts per billion. These amounts of sulfa do not present any health hazards to people. Nevertheless, the agency which oversees the safety of much of the nation's food supply is concerned about the findings.

Actually, sulfamethazine is not technically approved for use on dairy cows producing milk. "It's there and it shouldn't be," Lecos said.

Of course, the tests are preliminary because the FDA conducted the study primarily to evaluate a new testing method to detect drug residues in food. But a word to the wise is sufficient, as the saying goes. Each individual farmer, feed company, and pharmaceutical company must take responsibility to keep residues out of the food supply. The consumer's concern about healthful food will continue to be a factor in the marketplace. Let's not blow a good reputation with careless use of drugs that leave residues. Your consumer customers deserve the best product you can produce. In this case the best is free from drug residues.

NOW IS THE TIME

To Recognize Stage of Maturity

Harvesting at the proper stage of maturity is the most important factor in the process of making top quality hay or silage. Many farmers allow their crops to become too mature before cutting. This is very easy to do early in the spring when weather conditions are poor for making hay. The legumes such as alfalfa and clover are at their peak when in the bud to early blossom stage. The grasses are highest in feed nutrients at heading time. Winter grains contain the most feeding value when made into silage in the blossom stage. The crop may be easier to cure later in the spring but not contain top feeding values. The making of crops into silage, instead of hay, early in the season is one way to preserve maximum nutritional value.

To Be Aware of Rabies

Pennsylvania has had cases of animal rabies for many years but the last several years has seen a real increase. Rabies is transmitted through the bite of a rabies-infected animal, also through exposure of an open wound, a fresh abrasion, scratch, or mucous membrane to virus infected saliva from a rabid animal.

The symptoms of rabies in animals may vary from a quiet depressed state to a furious erratic behavior pattern. If you are bitten by any animal, wash the wound thoroughly with lots of soap and water; then immediately see your physician for medical treatment.

A valid human exposure of a suspected wild animal should be humanely killed and the head taken to the laboratory for examination. Be sure it's packed in ice and delivered within 24 hours so as not to damage the brain. Wear plastic or rubber gloves to handle the animals. Deliver to Department of Health, Pickering Way and Welsh Pool Road, Lionville, PA 19343. Phone ahead for more instruction -- 215-363-8500. Large animals (dog size and larger) should go to B.A.I. Laboratory at Summerdale, PA 17093 -- phone 717-787-8808.

There is a danger that unvaccinated pet animals could contact the disease through exposure to rabid wild animals. Since there is no practical way to eliminate the potential contact, have your pets vaccinated by a veterinarian.

To Check Stored Pesticides

The shelf life of most pesticides, when stored in their original container, is usually several years. The greatest problem with stored pesticides comes from freezing temperatures. Cold over-winter temperatures may cause a breakdown of the emulsifier in liquid materials. These materials may not mix properly when added to the spray water.

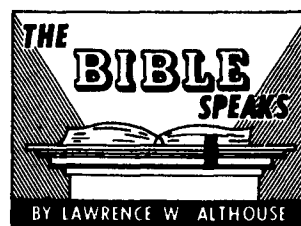

To determine if the pesticide will still mix properly with water, follow this easy procedure: (1) place ½ pint of water in a small container, (2) add ¼ teaspoon of the pesticide, (3) shake or stir thoroughly (you should get a milky mixture), (4) let stand for about one hour. The spray mix should remain an even milky mixture. If an oily scum or layer forms on top, or if a layer of curds appear on top, don't use the material. To Be Aware of Ticks

It seems like there is a season for everything... well the tick season is here. These pests may be on almost any dog or person that walks through uncultivated fields or woody areas from May to September.

Ticks await their victims on low-growing shrubs and on tall grass. They attach to, and feed on the blood of dogs and humans as well as many other animals.

To control the American dog tick, first clean the area of tall grass and weeds on which ticks await their victims. Also treat bushes 20 to 30 feet on either side of paths with either Sevin, Diazinon or Lindane. The dog should be treated with a 5% Sevin dust at weekly intervals, or as needed, to control ticks.

THE ROLE MODEL May 22, 1988

Background Scripture:

Devotional Reading: Philippians 4:7-16.

Discipline — who wants it?
That's easy: no one. Who needs it?
That's just as easy: everyone.

My own personal position on discipline is that I think it is very necessary — for other people! In some of my most lucid moments I may even admit that I need it, but that doesn't mean that I want it. In fact, if I run true-to-form, I will probably avoid it, resist it and run away from it if I possibly can. My progress in trying to escape it may be hindered only by those who — like yourself — are also running away from it.

In retrospect, we are usually able to see that discipline has been good for us. There is hardly anything that we have learned or gained that did not require discipline — either that imposed by others or ourselves. As the writer of Hebrews so aptly observes: "For the moment all discipline seems painful rather than pleasant" (12:11). I can't even remember rejoicing when my parents disciplined me. As a youth, I never celebrated the daily hour of practicing at the piano, nor the afternoons of drudgery on the high school football field. I never thanked the school principal for giving me detention (and he was never surprised that I didn't!).

LOOKING BACK

Yet, looking back I realize that without these experiences of discipline, there is much that I would not have learned and later enjoyed. So, I can agree about discipline with Hebrews: "later it yields the peaceful fruit of righteousness to those who have been trained by it."

It is possible to learn without discipline, but for most of us it is not very probable.

Closely akin to discipline is something else we need, but resist: commitment. Actually, it is commitment that provides the basis for self-discipline. We have to commit ourselves to the learning, growing process and stick to it for the sake of the rewards we hope to win. My parents made me practice the piano every day when I was a child. Not liking it, I gave it up as soon as they would permit me to do so. Later, while in high school, I decided that I really wanted to learn to play the piano and so I committed myself to the discipline of study and practice. Along the way there were times when I didn't want to take the time to practice, but I stuck to my commitment.

That's the way it is in life, we've found. Life requires both discipline and commitment and we cannot accomplish much of anything without them. Still, we struggle to avoid them as much as possible. We live in an era marked by a reluctance to make commitments. Some people call it "hanging loose," but it is resistance against commitment because often commitment means discipline, standing fast in a situation that gives us short-term discomfort, pain, or limitation.

TEMPORARY REWARDS

I guess that's the key, isn't it — the choice between short-run pleasure and long-term satisfaction, between temporary rewards and ultimate prizes. It's like the old Aesop's fable of "The Tortoise and the Hare." The hare took his enjoyment all along the way, while the plodding tortoise kept his mind and heart set on the goal of winning the race. The hare's satisfaction was short-lived, while that of the tortoise was long-lasting.

Hebrews reminds us that we have a perfect role model in Jesus, "the pioneer and perfecter of our faith, who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is seated at the right hand of the throne of God" (12:2).

FARM FORUM OUR READERS WRITE

Editor:

As plant life emerges I cannot help but notice the hearty Multiflora rose. I am no friend of this plant due to its hearty growth and fast multiplying ways. While some areas have none, other areas are being overtaken by them. I am told the game commission has planted them on state game lands as cover for game and bird food. The birds eat the seeds and spread them over the whole surrounding area. And for this reason many people feel the state should pay for spray or pellets to kill these plants on all lands.

These plant's flowers have a pleasant aroma or smell, but underneath they are very prickly. The Bible teaches us to do unto others as we want them to do unto us. If we let our roses grow and get new seeds for the birds to spread to the neighbors who are working to rid their place of roses, are we obeying the golden rule? This includes the state as well as the farmer or land owner.

The multiflora rose was declared a noxious weed but if the state lets them grow, what power has it to require extermination by others?

I would suggest the state take bids from the chemical companies for lowest bids and then sell the product at cost. I believe this would be a start in the right direction.

COMPARING LIMESTONES CAN BE LIKE COMPARING APPLES AND BANANAS.

Both are fruit, but that is all that you can say.

Limestone is a term for a geological deposit containing calcium, magnesium and a varying amount and number of impurities. Based upon its original natural formation, "Mother Nature" determined its purity, hardness, mineral levels and the availability of those minerals. Chemistry has determined if a given "limestone" deposit is used for making concrete, spread on roads, spread on farmers' fields, used in toothpaste, or fed to poultry and livestock. Limestones high in silica are adapted to the Construction industry; dolomitic (high magnesium) and "hard" calcitic (high calcium) limestones are used for soil neutralization and "soft" calcitic limestones are used in toothpastes, poultry and animal feed sources of calcium.

Only soft calcitic limestone is used in the production of YORK
CALCIUM CHIPS - 38% Ca - 94+% acid solubility.

More and more egg producers are discovering that YORK CALCIUM CHIPS are their most economical source of large particle size calcium. Good shell quality and improved feed conversions are positive benefits, especially in low priced egg markets.

Ask your feed supplier to add YORK CALCIUM CHIPS to your formulas and be certain that you are using a least cost feed.

Don't Let Profits Die with the Summer Heat!

Help keep your poultry cool by installing a Miller-Picking SPOT COOLER. The Miller-Picking SPOT COOLER is a newly developed cooling device which can be used with any source of cold water such as a spring, well or city water supply. The Miller-Picking SPOT COOLER can be installed permanently or because of its handleability, can be made portable by using only standard garden hoses. When the temperature is moderate, simply shut off the water source and use only the fan for circulation.

While circulating fans only move hot air around, a Miller-Picking SPOT COOLER can be supplying cool fresh air where and when you need it most.

Landscaping Hints For Spring Chores

HUNTERDON — Now is a good time to remove any dead or dying trees on your property. You will find it easier to schedule skilled tree workmen on your property at this time of year. Later in the spring, workers will be very busy with fertilizing, spraying and pruning. They may find it difficult to get time to remove your tree.

Soil conditions and plant growth habits also favor tree removal during winter. With no leaves on deciduous trees, it can be felled easily. And it can be removed with a minimum of damage to the lawn and shrubs.

Hire an expert if you don't have the proper tools and skills. Call an arborist with liability insurance. Then you won't be in danger of damaging yourself or your property.

If you need to replace a tree or design a windbreak, now is the time to draw up a landscape plan. Locate windbreaks in relation to the prevailing winter winds: north and west. A double row is effective but if space is limiting, a single hedge is better than nothing. Evergreens make the best windbreaks but plants with dense twigs and strong branches that form a thick growth even when bare, are effective.

The hottest time of the day in summer is not noon, but between 2:30 and 4 p.m. Locate a shade tree close to the southwest corner of the house. The tree can increase the usefulness of your outdoor living area and cut down on cooling bills if the foliage shades the roof of the house.

Consider your Hunterdon County Soil Conservation District for quality plants at bargain prices now during their seedling sale.

Five species of needled evergreens are available: eastern white pine, Douglas fir, Norway spruce, Colorado blue spruce and Canadian hemlock. All are available as four-year-old transplants with an excellent root system and average 16 to 20 inches in height. For moist sites consider Norway spruce, blue spruce, and especially white pine and hemlock. Fir trees are slower growers and prefer a more well-drained site. All these evergreen transplants will serve well as sight and noise buffers, provide protection as windbreaks, attract wildlife and beautify your property.

Other plants available include shadbush, northern red oak, sugar maple and white flowering dogwood. These two-year-old transplants will average 10 to 18 inches. Shadbush, or service berry, reaches a height of 20 feet, has white flowers in May, small black fruit in late summer and provides food and shelter for birds and other wildlife. Red oak matures to a 65 foot tall tree with a rounded crown and has bright red fall color. It transplants readily because of negligible taproot. Sugar maple matures to 65 feet in height with an upright oval crown. Fall color is brilliant yellow, burnt orange and limited red tones. Both red oaks and sugar maples are excellent shades and lawn trees. The flowering dogwood is a popular native small tree, about 20 feet tall. The white bracts appear in April to May with red fruit ripening in September (birds love it) and red to reddish-purple fall leaf color. It also has a beautiful winter silhouette. Avoid poorly drained soils and hot, open, sunny areas. Dogwood and shadbush are very pleasing in a naturalistic planting, at the edges of woodlands and also blend well with an evergreen background.

Contact Jane Griffin at the Soil Conservation District, (201) 788-1397 to request an order form or for more details about the sale.

National Mastitis Council Summer Meeting

ARLINGTON, Va. — The National Mastitis Council Summer Meeting is scheduled for August 4 at the Hyatt Regency Westshore, Tampa, Florida. The meeting will be held in conjunction with the International Association of Milk, Food and Environmental Sanitarians Annual Meeting, July 31-August 4.

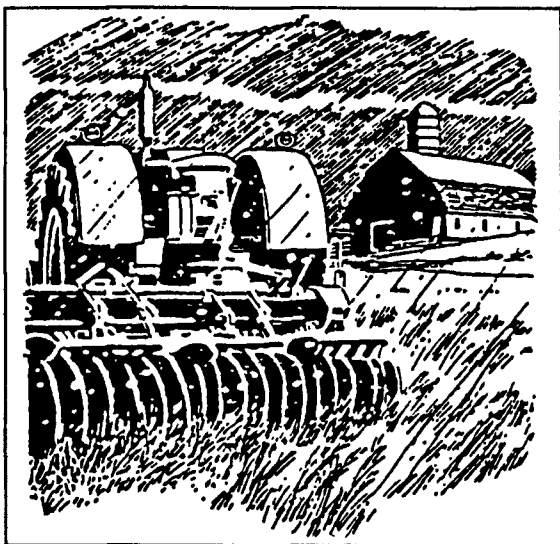

The theme of this year's program is milk quality. Topics to be covered include antibiotic residues in milk, teat dip residues, and other drug related issues. Other speakers will address factors affecting milk quality including cow management, environment, and milking systems. Tests for raw milk quality will also be discussed.

For more information, contact the National Mastitis Council, 1840 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, VA 22201; (703) 243-8268.

current dollar exchange rate opens new exporting doors," Wolfe said. "And the proximity of the Boston show should make it easy for potential Pennsylvania exporters to take advantage of this marketing help from the department.

While the exposition is the fourth annual event, it's the first time the exposition, sponsored by the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture, is to be held in the Northeast. Companies participating in the show may be eligible to receive financial assistance for export promotion and marketing programs from the value-added product promotion program sponsored by the U.S.

Department of Agriculture Foreign Agriculture Service.

"One Pennsylvania exporter, Goldenburg Candy Company in Philadelphia, has received promotional funding after registering for the exposition," Wolfe said. "Goldenburg was awarded a $30,000 federal grant to increase export sales of their confectionary products in Europe and the Middle East."

Marketing directors from state departments of agriculture throughout the ten-state Northeast region attended the meeting. Ronald Gaskill, Director of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Markets in the State Department of Agriculture, was the coordinator.

National Ag Marketing officials met in Lancaster this week to plan for the 1989 NAS-DA Food Exposition in Boston and discuss other marketing issues. The annual meeting of the Northeast region included a team of Lancaster Co. Food Processors. The group stopped for this photo at Anderson's Pretzel Plant.

Northeast Cooperative Starts Milk Price Campaign

WESTMINSTER, Vt. — The Council of Northeast Farmer Cooperatives today announced a grass-roots campaign to stop further cuts in federal dairy price supports. "Dairying in the Northeast is threatened by Agriculture Secretary Lyng's reliance on "shotgun" price cuts to discourage surplus milk production in other regions. Such cuts cannot be "targeted" to just those who are overproducing, however. If we are to succeed in our efforts to stem the loss of farms in the Northeast, we must convince the Secretary to use a program of targeted supply management instead of indiscriminate price cuts," said C.N.F.C. executive director Steve Kerr.

The 1985 Farm Bill authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to initiate a new whole-herd buyout or milk diversion program in order to prevent a build-up of surplus milk. Both programs have been used successfully in recent years to bring U.S. milk production into line with commercial demand, reduce dairy program costs and strengthen farm prices.

The Farm Bill also requires cuts in the milk support price, however, if production is not kept in line with demand. Estimates of total milk supplies for 1988 and 1989 indicate that, unless the Secretary acts soon to reduce production, another price support reduction of $.50/cwt. will be made on January 1, 1989.

A new surplus of milk is developing because of rapidly growing production in southern and western states. "It makes no sense whatsoever to allow surpluses to trigger farm price cuts when those cuts could be forestalled - and farm prices instead strengthened - by the expeditious use of tools that the Farm Bill's authors explicitly included in the law," remarked Kerr. "It makes even less sense when one realizes that those price cuts will reduce production in the wrong regions."

Farm prices are now more than $2.00/cwt. lower than they were in 1983. Production costs have begun to rise after several years of moderate declines. The "cost-price squeeze" that is developing will cause net farm income for Northeastern Dairy Farmers to average 20% less in 1988 than last year.

The price cuts are accelerating a structural shift of historic proportions in the U.S. dairy industry. Growing regional surpluses are forcing milk prices down nationally. Farm numbers are consequently falling in the traditional Northeastern dairy states, in spite of the fact that supplies in those states are very tight.

While the C.N.F.C. supports the use of a program that will obviate further price reductions, it wants to structure them in a way that will preclude excessive reductions in farm numbers and milk volume in the Northeast. "It is vital that any supply control be targeted to the regions which overproduce, as Senator Pat Leahy, Congressman Jim Jeffords and other Northeastern members of Congress have urged," Kerr cautioned. The C.N.F.C. therefore proposes the use of a targeted buy-out, one which would remove production capacity in those regions with more milk than they can market. A targeted buyout would strengthen farm prices nationally without taking too much milk out of the deficit regions such as the Northeast.

Casey Signs Coyote Bill Into Law

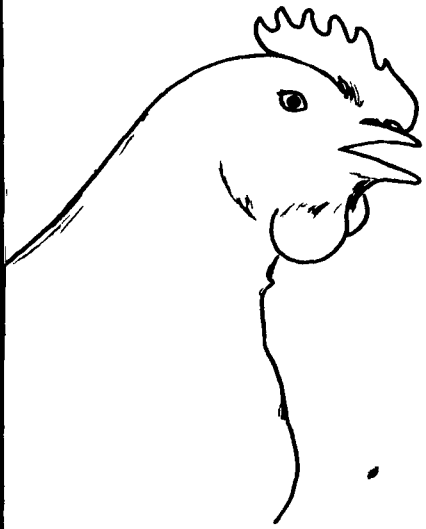

HARRISBURG — "The Coyote Bill" was signed recently by Pa. Gov. Robert P. Casey, thus culminating a successful three-year effort by the PA State Grange. The effort was aimed at aiding Pennsylvania livestock and poultry farmers to recover from devastating herd and flock losses caused by coyotes.

The bill creates a coyote indemnity program that provides for up to $20,000 annually to recompensate farmers for livestock and poultry injured or killed by coyotes. The funding for this program will come from the existing Dog Law Fund which generates more than $3 million annually.

The effort began in 1985 at the grassroots level, when members of the Oak Hill Grange in Clearfield County expressed concern over the serious problem of farm animals killed each year by coyotes.

A subsequent 1985-86 Penn State University study documented at least 128 sheep killed by coyotes in 1985. More recently, 80 sheep were killed in Greene County, while 20 sheep were killed in Bradford County.

State Grange Master, Charles E. Wismer, Jr., said of the Bill signing, "We (the Grange) are very pleased to be the initiator and the driving force in securing aid to Pennsylvania farmers through our efforts in getting this legislation enacted."

Swine Producers Reach Agreement On Pseudorabies Action

HARRISBURG (Dauphin) — Secretary of Agriculture Boyd E. Wolff announced today that the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and swine producers have reached agreement on action to control pseudorabies, a disease that has threatened swine herds in some areas of Pennsylvania.

The agreement was the result of months of discussions between the department and its Swine Health Advisory Committee, appointed by Secretary Wolff last year.

"After years of frustration, the Swine Health Advisory Committee reopened communication in an effort to protect the swine industry," Wolff said. "That communication resulted in a proposed agreement that will protect the interests of all hog producers."

Under its provisions, producers in pseudorabies-free counties of Pennsylvania would be allowed to move feeder pigs without testing for the disease.

Currently, most feeder pigs in the state would be exempt from the testing requirement, since pseudorabies presently is confined to herds in Lancaster County.

Feeder pigs in areas of known high risk in Pennsylvania would have to be tested and certified free of the disease before they could be shipped to market or otherwise moved.

In addition, testing and certification would be required to bring in feeder pigs from states that lack proper surveillance programs.

Wolff said the committee felt the changes would keep Pennsylvania in step with control measures adopted or planned by other states and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Once the revisions receive clearance from state Agriculture Department lawyers, they will be published in detail and time will be allowed for public comment.

Dr. Max Van Buskirk, director of the department's Bureau of Animal Industry, said that feeder swine from Lancaster County — or from other counties where outbreaks occur — would have to be individually tested or be from a herd monitored and found free of pseudorabies within the past year.

Feeder swine from all other counties could be moved on the basis of the herd owner's identification, address and a herd identification number issued by the department, Van Buskirk added.

The Swine Health Advisory Committee, formed last September by Secretary Wolff to help the department review its programs dealing with pseudorabies and other swine-health concerns, includes producers, slaughterers and processors, and authorities on swine health.

A Strong Economy Needs A Healthy Dairy Industry

BY PAT PURCELL

INTERCOURSE (Lancaster) — No man is an island and that goes for the dairy farmer as well. That was the message to representatives from area banks, feed and machinery companies on Wednesday at a luncheon hosted by the Atlantic Dairy Cooperative at the Harvest Drive Restaurant in Intercourse.

A healthy and thriving dairy industry means a strong local and national economy. Glenn Shirk, County Extension Dairy Agent emphasized that dairy farming is big business, especially in Lancaster County which is third in the nation in milk production. Due to the prominence of agriculture in the state what's good for dairy farmers is good for the state's economy.

Lancaster County produces one-sixth of all milk in the state and the Atlantic Dairy Cooperative (ADC) handles one-half of the milk in this area. According to Jim Fraher, Economist with ADC, although nationally prices are down with milk producers receiving less than $12/CWT, the lowest since 1978 and the picture of the dairyman's future looks gloomy, however Fraher said that is not quite the case in the northeast portion of the country.

More positive things are happening closer to home, according to Fraher, with approximately 50 percent of ADC's fluid milk being sold in class I sales. Class I sales which earns more dollars/CWT for the producer has experienced a lot of growth in sales this year and Pennsylvania farmers are at an advantage by being close to a growing market for fluid milk.

Locally producers are dependent on the fluid milk market sales, although it does not give them much flexibility it does earn 50-cent-over-order premium on Class I sales and which results in approximately a 25-cent over order premium for over all products. That market lacks flexibility because transportation costs limit hauling distances.

Several questions were raised about the effects of grain prices on feed costs for dairy farmers.

"I don't look for dramatic changes in feed costs," said Fraher. "California will continue to be in a relatively favorable position primarily because of their stable fixed costs and their productivity. California producers are getting more milk per cow. And although Pennsylvania producers average a little more than the national average, we lag behind some areas of the country in milk per cow production. This is what makes producers more efficient."

David Walker of the Economics and Cooperative Relations Department of Federal Order 4 noted that farmers most likely will be hit with another 50-cent cut in the milk support price by January 1, 1989 due to the Credit Commodity Corporation purchases which are predicted to reach nearly eight billion pounds by the end of 1988. But with the bad news he stressed that strong cooperatives have been effective in negotiating prices and have secured over order premiums for their members which help to

Fraher reiterated the importance of cooperatives in the price bargaining process. ADC is the seventh largest milk producers cooperative in the state and is responsible for nearly three percent of milk production in the United States. The coop represents approximately 4,000 dairy farmers who average 65 cows per farm.

ADC has paid out to members $24 million to date and are working to provide greater returns to farmers through more efficient hauling by consolidating routes and through cutting operating costs.

"More income to dairy farmers is the original reason for cooperatives and our goal is to give members a greater return," said Fraher.

All-Breed 1988 Junior Judging School

STATE COLLEGE (Centre) — The 1988 Edition of the Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Judging Schools are ready to begin. All Junior breeders, regardless of breed orientation, are invited to attend one of the schools closest to their home.

The schools run from 12 noon to 12 noon. Eight to ten classes are judged, each person who attends has an opportunity to work one on one with an experienced judge on giving reasons. All the basics of judging dairy cattle are covered by our school official.

The locations and officials for our 1988 schools are as follows:
Eastern School, July 6-7, noon to noon. Hosted by Columbia/Luzerne Holstein Club; School official, Dr. Michael Barnes, VPI.

Western School, July 8-9, noon to noon. Hosted by Armstrong/Indiana Holstein Club; School official, Dr. Michale Barnes, VPI.

The cost is $25 for those staying overnight which includes the hotel room and evening meal. For those that commute the cost is $15.00 which includes their evening meal.

This year a second member of the family who attends will receive $5 off their registration cost.

To attend simply fill out the entry form below and return it by June 22, 1988.

30 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

— Cool wet weather retarded field activity for the second week in a row. Keystone State farmers are now anxiously awaiting fields to dry up so they can continue planting oats and prepare seed beds for other crops.

In Lancaster County field work resumed on Monday, although conditions for working the soil were far from ideal. However, the time is running short for tomato growers and corn planting.

Tobacco plants in seed beds made slow growth because of the cool weather.

— Milk production in Pennsylvania set a record in April despite a decline in the number of cows.

The 601 million pounds produced exceeded April last year by five percent, and April 1956, by three percent.

The estimated 936,000 cows in Pennsylvania herds during April represents a drop of 2,000 head from the month previous and 6,000 fewer than a year earlier. Reports indicate no let-up in the trend toward fewer but larger herds as mechanization continues.

— A group of 12 girls met at Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Denlinger's on May 3, 1958, for their first 4-H meeting.

The members are: Nancy Denlinger, Elouise Denlinger, Joan Barge, Nancy Groff, Maran Herr, Joan Martin, Lousie Wenger, Joyce Hershey, Judy Loar, Kathryn Fenninger and Kathy Hooper.

— (Political ad) How about LIVENGOOD? He's the man you know with the best qualifications and most abilities for GOVERNOR. He does not have to be told about State Government — HE KNOWS IT! Livengood is the only Republican who can win in November. Look for his name and vote it. Support a winner! Support a loyal and regular Republican Tuesday, May 20.

— Pennsylvania Flying Farmers responded to excellent flying weather Saturday for a luncheon meeting at Warners Dairy, Warners Airport, Red Lion.

Approximately 38 aircraft and 95 persons attended the luncheon and business meeting, presided over by H.G. Kimmel, Enon Valley. There were visitors from New York State and Maryland.

PA Milk Production Up; Cow Numbers Down

HARRISBURG (Dauphin) — Milk production in Pennsylvania during the first quarter totaled a record high of 2.55 billion pounds, one percent above the comparable period in 1987, according to statistics recently released by the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service.

Milk production per cow for the quarter totaled 3,543 pounds, 53 pounds more than in the first quarter of 1987. Total milk cows in Pennsylvania averaged 720,000 head during the quarter, down 4,000 head from the first quarter

Production costs for Pennsylvania dairymen for the year ended March 31, 1988 averaged $11.98/hundredweight of milk.

Milk production in the nation during the January-March quarter totalled 36.1 billion pounds, up four percent from the comparable period in 1987. Milk production per cow for the quarter totaled 3,509 pounds, up 169 pounds from the first quarter of 1987. Total milk cows in the United States averaged 10.3 million head during the quarter, down one percent from the corresponding period in 1987.

Connecticut Dairy Farmers Visited

BY BOB WILLIAMS
RCMA Writer

HEBRON, CONN. — Who are those five Connecticut dairy farmers who ran full-page ads in support of RCMA in major farm weeklies this Spring?

"Join us in RCMA," they urged independent dairy farmers in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and elsewhere in the Northeast. And they told why in an economical, no nonsense 114 words.

The Connecticut Yankees invited fellow dairy farmers to call, even collect. Many did. I decided to drive from Pennsylvania to meet them.

It was 820 miles round trip, but well worth it. These guys are hard working, hard driving dairymen. All have big numbers on milk shipped per cow and per man. All remember or heard from their Dads about those 85-cent premiums paid by the Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency in the 1970s. They believe.

John Nye is the youngest of the group and chief instigator of the ads. "That first Farmland ad made us all mad," he explains, referring to anti-RCMA ads run by the New Jersey milk processor. "We got together at the county Ag Center the same night and wrote our ad."

It was a Monday. As Nye recalls, "Everybody fired ideas at Dad and he wrote them down on an easel. Then we tacked the pages up on the walls and worked them over. We didn't leave that night until the ad was written."

"The next day the ad was typed up and mailed to New York and Pennsylvania farm weeklies. Some appeared the same week," Nye said.

John, his father and brother-in-law are the only full-time help on his 600 acre, 160-cow operation. Buildings and land are rented. John and his wife, Maria, own the cows and equipment.

Maria is the herdsman. Or is it herdsman. Herd average is just over 19,000 pounds and gaining. High producers are milked three times daily, the rest twice. When I was there, Maria was scrubbing the double four parlor. She's eight months pregnant.

"If you don't work 100 hours a week you're part-time," John Nye grins.

A full 350 acres of corn is no tilled in a 35-mile radius of the farm. "It beats picking rock," Nye says. They get a new crop every year when they plow.

Corn silage and high moisture ear corn goes in tilt-up concrete bunks that John and Maria built. So does 60 acres of alfalfa and 140 acres of grass haylage. Only calves get baled hay. Horse people buy a bunch, making it a nice cash crop.

David Jacquier helped with the ad writing. So did his father, Bob. They both farm up along the Massachusetts line.

"I always wanted to farm," Jacquier says as he works on a disk harrow. "I borrowed $7,000 and went on my own while still in high school."

That was in 1968 on a rented farm and with equipment borrowed from his father. "I was shipping 1,000 pounds daily when RCMA was shelling out those big premiums in 1973," he recalls. "Wouldn't you like to be getting them now? Something like 11 percent on top of the federal order price."

It would be very important to Dave, his wife and four children. He has 235 milk cows and ships 1.3 million pounds per man annually. Crops are grown on 305 acres across the line in Massachusetts.

And how's this for a cash crop — corn silage. Jacquier sells 100 acres of corn (2,200 tons) at the field or out of his bunk, and grosses $550 an acre. Dave will also deliver. His best customers are small dairymen and sheep flock owners.

When Jacquier expanded his herd, he added a second double four parlor parallel to his original. "We picked up used equipment and pipe line where we could," he explains. It works fine.

Where's the heifer barn? "Heifers are bred at 12 months, and turned out in the woods," he says waving toward Canaan Mountain to the south. They're fed daily along a homemade fence line feeder. That's a stout wooden fence, with a concrete pad and two-foot curb.

Ned Ellis farms in Hebron, a town sprouting houses like corn seedlings in May. He points at an emerald green field across the valley. "The town fathers say I can't spread manure on the field anymore. They found nitrate in the wells."

Cows come first at Mapleleaf Farm. DHIA average is 19,700 pounds for his 190 Holsteins. Ninety-five percent are registered. The big black and whites lounge on rubber mats that are scrapped daily and kept fresh with kiln dried shavings. These cows are clean.

Head lady is Cooperflatts Mapleleaf Cascade, an excellent 90 with a 33,000 pound record. A recent flushing produced 35 embryos. There are 10 calves on the ground and 25 recipients ready to deliver.

"When you have a cow like that you want to make the most of it," Ellis says.

These Connecticut dairy farmers are big on concrete trench silos. Ned's 210 acres of corn silage and 70 acres of alfalfa end up there. "We chop everything," he says. Corn silage averages 22 tons an acre.

"We use to fertilize for 30 tons," he explains. The best buy is chicken manure, delivered at $3-$4 a ton.

What about the ads plugging RCMA? "We had to do something. There's too much at stake," Ellis insists.

Ed Platt beats the high-priced labor in hilly, rocky western Connecticut by growing all grass and holding his herd to 60 cows. And casual labor is expensive; McDonald's pays $8 an hour, for instance.

All grass means no rocks to pick. No plowing, either. Last time Platt seeded was 1983 or 1984, and then right in the sod.

Platt and his son, Matt, also spend less time feeding or spreading manure than most dairymen. His cows run on pasture all spring and summer. Still, the father-son team ship over 17,000 pounds per cow. Or about 1.2 million pounds per year.

Equipment costs are also low for his 180 acres, in line with Ed Platt's conservative management. The biggest tractor is an IH 784.

The Platt family took title to the farm in 1773 and over the years survived wars, panics and depressions. The biggest threat today is the floodtide of people seeking rural retreats, Platt says. One neighbor commutes to downtown Manhattan in two hours. And eager buyers are loaded. Connecticut's per capita income is the highest in the nation. Such people pressure can only reduce farm services.

An immediate crisis for Platt is plunging milk prices. But he remembers those RCMA premiums of the 1970s. Says Platt, "That 85 cents was big money then. I bought a Plymouth Scamp that year for $3,100. Just the options cost that much now."

Bill Peracchio is 20 minutes east of Hartford. Brother Tom was milking when I arrived. Bill was shaping a giant manure pit with a farm crawler. An addition to the milkhouse was framed out.

It's a pretty farm and the partners work to keep it that way. Tidy red buildings with new evergreen plantings. Latest rolling herd average is 20,367 pounds on 165 cows. The brothers ship over three million pounds, or a million pounds per full-time man.

Bill and Tom's grandfather grew vegetables in the 1940s and 1950s, with a few cows around to keep the family busy over winters. Their father went all dairy in 1960.

Bill Peracchio took ag at the University of Connecticut. "I should have taken business," he figures now. "It's one thing to produce milk, it's another to make a profit."

He reports dealer unrest in New England over the decision to pool Order 1 milk with Order 2. New England dairy farmers received 37 cent premiums on September milk and 30 cents for October. When Order 1 and Order 2 pooled, premiums fell to 16 cents for November. The most recent premium paid by RCMA was 15 cents on February milk.

Still, New Englanders believe in RCMA. Really believe.

"All I see is a continuing slide in supports no matter who's elected president," Bill Peracchio says.

Federal Order 36 Agency Plans Unveiled

COLUMBUS, Oh — An informational meeting was held Wednesday, May 4 at the Sheraton Inn in West Middlesex, Pennsylvania to inform and update dairy processors of the 1988 program plans and budgets for the Federal Order 36 Advertising and Promotion Agency and Mid East United Dairy Industry Association. Representatives from dairy processing plants from throughout the eastern Ohio-western Pennsylvania marketing area were present at the day long meeting, where promotional plans and market strategies were unveiled.

Scott Higgins, Mid East UDIA General Manager conducted the informational session. "The processors voiced that they see a need to work closely with the F.O. 36 Agency staff in order to best serve the needs of the dairy marketplace," noted Higgins. Following the meeting, one attending processor commented, "I learned things here today that I only wondered about before."

The Mid East staff reviewed each of the major program areas including Media Advertising, Retail Market Development, Foodservice Development, Dairy and Nutrition Council, Food Publicity and Communications. Higgins explained that "Milk, America's Health Kick" will continue as the theme of the strong message for fluid milk throughout the summer on both television and radio. Media support will also air for the special summer promotions, "Get Mooovin' with Milk" and "Have Your Veggies Willard's Way, with REAL Butter."

Cindy Weimer, Dairy Marketing Specialist, outlined the quarterly sales promotion programs developed by Mid East UDIA and the F.O. 36 Agency. "Special merchandising campaigns, including point-of-sale materials are placed in high-traffic supermarkets and convenience stores for spring and fall cheese, summer butter and holiday promotions and summer fluid milk and related product promotions," Weimer noted. She added that the upcoming summer butter and fall cheese promotions will feature national spokesman, Willard Scott, weatherman on NBC's "Today Show." The sales promotions also receive media support through television, radio and print ads.

Mid East Director of Foodservice Development, David Kramer, reviewed his plans to contact food distributors and restaurants to build greater usage of real dairy products in away-from-home eating establishments. Kramer is also building additional support of the "REAL" Seal™ program through foodservice outlets. Fritz Lindquist, Area Director of the Dairy and Nutrition Council-Mid East, outlined the nutrition education and research programs for schools, health professionals and consumers.

Processors were also informed of Mid East UDIA's communications plans by Director of Communications, Lenore Meila. Communications efforts include newsletters and special publications, food publicity and provision of materials and assistance to volunteer dairy promotion groups throughout the territory.

The Federal Order 36 Advertising and Promotion Agency, and Mid East United Dairy Industry Association (UDIA), which administers the Agency, serve as the communications links between dairy producers, processors, retailers, wholesalers, distributors and restaurants in a comprehensive effort to increase dairy product sales. Together with UDIA member organizations, Mid East UDIA supports a total dairy promotion program through its divisions of the American Dairy Association, National Dairy Council and Dairy Research, Inc. The Columbus, Ohio-based association serves dairy farmers in Ohio, western Pennsylvania and parts of West Virginia, Kentucky and areas of adjacent states.

NEW PURSUIT® HERBICIDE. NOW APPROVED FOR EMERGENCY USE IN PA, MD, NJ & DE.

Since the banning of dinoseb, many growers have been left virtually defenseless against the tough broadleaf weeds found in this area.

Common lambsquarters, smooth pigweed, nightshade, common purslane and other major weeds have been especially difficult to control.

Until now.

New PURSUIT® herbicide has just been granted a Section 18 emergency exemption in Pennsylvania for snap beans, and in Maryland, New Jersey and Delaware for snap beans, lima beans and peas.

A soil application of new PURSUIT not only keeps these weeds from cutting yields and slowing your harvest, it also provides excellent crop safety — protecting your crop against herbicide burn or unnecessary stress. And new PURSUIT won't upset the environment.

For more information about new PURSUIT herbicide, talk to your AgriCenter™ dealer.

Invest In Forage Testing

To Get Your Penny's Worth From Your Feedstuffs

Editor's Note: Since forage testing is such an important part of formulating a balanced ration for dairy cows and since "Lancaster Farming's" Adams County correspondent, Ginger Myers, has testing facilities on her farm, we asked Myers to give our readers some pointers on how to obtain the best results from a forage testing program.

GINGER SECRIST MYERS

Adams Co. Correspondent

LITTLESTOWN (Adams) —

The spectrophotometer has been calibrated with absolute primary standards to guarantee the accuracy of test readings. The shelves are stocked with plenty of reagents for testing calcium, magnesium, phosphorus, and potassium contents. The jugs of acid detergent fiber concentrate, neutral detergent fiber concentrate and a host of other buffers and catalysts stand ready to have their shrink seals broken. If the weather soon cooperates for making the new haylage and rye-lage crop, the drying ovens of feedstuffs analysis labs will be running to capacity.

It takes careful management to seed, cultivate, cut, and harvest top quality forages and feed grains. Once the crop is stored how do you know just how good it is? Looks can be deceiving. To gain every penny's worth of value from your feedstuffs, whether feeding them to your own livestock, selling them, or buying them in, testing is vital.

Who uses the services of a feedstuffs analysis lab? Obviously every farmer, who is formulating rations for his dairy, livestock, or poultry operation, should be having a guaranteed analysis of the feed and forages he is using to have his rations properly balanced. Sampling and sending samples to the lab in these situations is most often handled by their feed representative. But feed analysis is also often used by dairymen who must purchase in all their feedstuffs as a quality control to guarantee the nutrient value of the feed, they purchase. Farmers buying standing crops often use analysis testing to determine dry matter content as the basis of the crop's worth. Feed companies and commodity brokers are regular customers of analysis labs so that protein, fat, and fiber levels of their pre-mixes and bulk commodities can be verified and properly labeled.

Many people question the validity of testing results, especially if they have received two different reports on a sample of hay or corn silage from two different labs. The problem most often in that instance is not the fault of the labs, but in the variation of the sample taken for analysis. Also, if near infrared analysis (NIR) was used rather than total wet chemistry, the results will vary. Check the analysis report for the letters NIR, which means the less accurate of the two methods was used to test the sample. NIR is faster, wet chemistry is most accurate.

A representative sample of what your having tested is vital. Consider that an average sample arrives at the lab weighing about 400 grams, or about two cups. That 400 gram sample is divided into four quarters, each containing approximately the same amount of fines, long stems, grains, etc. One quarter, 100 grams, is then air-dried at 60 degrees centigrade. The air-dried sample is then ground to a fine powder. The powder is again divided into quarters, and a representative 2 gram sample is taken from one of the quarters. This 2 gram sample is then oven dried to determine moisture content and dry matter. From those two oven-dried grams, a sample weighing .25 grams is taken for wet chemistry analysis. That's about a quarter of a teaspoon of dried sample which may represent your entire haylage, silage, or hay crop. Samples should be stored in moisture tight containers such as a zip-lock bag. Loss of moisture can affect the test results adversely.

In wet chemistry analysis, that quarter gram sample is chemically oxidized into simpler compounds. Protein nitrogen is converted to ammonium form; phosphorus compounds are converted to phosphate; and other minerals and metals are rendered water soluable. Carbon, hydrogen and oxygen are eliminated as carbon dioxide.

Once the sample is chemically digested, reagents are added to pre-measured aliquots of sample. The samples are run through a spectrophotometer to determine the percent of transmittance, and the percent transmittance is used to determine the amount of protein or mineral from a pre-determined calibration curve.

The analysis report is returned to you with levels reported on a dry matter basis and on a as-fed basis. Grain and pre-mix samples often return on an as-fed basis only. The crude protein and mineral levels were obtained as previously explained. To convert dry matter basis to as-fed basis, the dry matter results are multiplied by the dry matter content.

One of the most important readings on the analysis sheet is the Acid Detergent Fiber (ADF) result. ADF is a new, more precise method of estimating fiber than crude fiber. ADF is determined in feedstuffs and is used to determine the estimated energy content and the total digestible nutrient content. Adequate ADF is essential in maintaining rumen health and maintaining butterfat levels.

Most samples arrive at analysis labs in the amount shown here in this zip-lock bag. The amount of finely ground powder, .25 grams, shown here in the palm of a hand, is the amount used in the chemical analysis. A representative sample of what is being sampled is vital for accurate results when you consider that this quarter of a gram might well represent someone's entire third cutting hay crop.

Every analysis is checked against the level prescribed in NUTRIENT REQUIREMENTS OF DAIRY CATTLE, Fifth revised edition, 1978. If there are obvious deviations from the norm, these should be noted on the analysis report.

New samples should be taken any time one of your basic feed ingredients change. In the laboratory, all standard calibrations are re-done anytime a new lot of reagent or a new batch of DI water is introduced. This guarantees the accuracy of the test results. To guarantee the accuracy of your feed program, you also need to re-test when a different mow of hay is used or a new silo is opened. Don't lose dollars in performance trying to save pennies on testing.

REGIONAL COOPERATIVE

EIGHT NORTHEASTERN AGRICULTURE COMMISSIONERS ADVERTISE RCMA SUPPORT

BATAVIA, N.Y. — Agriculture commissioners from eight Northeastern states have taken advertising in Lancaster Farming and five other farm publications to show their open support for the efforts of the Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency Inc., an organization of 22,000 dairy farmers from the region.

Signed by Agriculture Commissioners Ronald A. Allbee, Vermont; Kenneth B. Andersen, Connecticut; Arthur R. Brown Jr., New Jersey; Donald Butcher, New York; August Schumacher Jr., Massachusetts; Bernard W. Shaw, Maine; Stephen H. Taylor, New Hampshire; and Boyd E. Wolff, Pennsylvania; calls on "continued diligence" by dairy farmers.

RCMA is a farmer-run bargaining agency designed to give dairy farmers a say in establishing fair farm prices. The federal order prices for milk have been slashed by nearly $2 per hundredweight during the 1980s, while costs of doing business have increased. RCMA over-order premiums have totaled $11 million in six months, but have made up just a fraction of the losses in farm income.

"We're very encouraged by this public show of support by these agriculture secretaries. Each has spoken out before on an individual basis about the importance of RCMA, but by acting as a group they send a clear message: the future of Northeast dairy farming is linked to the success of RCMA," said RCMA President William Zuber.

RCMA is currently involved in efforts to sign-up additional producers to strengthen its ability to market milk at fair prices. Zuber said that dairy farmers are being added at a rate of more than 10 per week to the RCMA membership.

"We have more than 90 percent of the dairy farmers in the Northeast as members. We are working hard to sign-up additional members, particularly in New York and Pennsylvania. Increased sign-up will mean improved income for all hard-pressed dairy farmers," Zuber said.

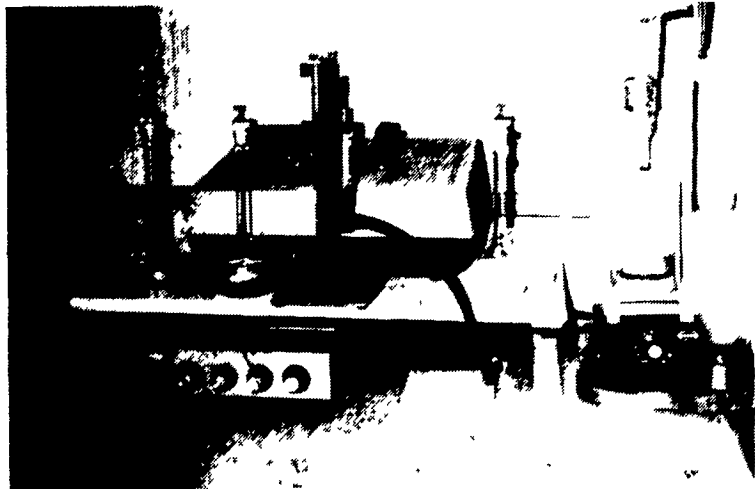

EYSTER NAMED SOUTHERN DIVISION FIELD SERVICES MANAGER

BATAVIA, NY — The Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency Inc. has named David B. Eyster as its Southern Division field services manager.

Eyster will be responsible for member relations and membership sign-up activities in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland. RCMA has 22,000 members in 11 Northeastern states. The organization collects over-order premiums and distributes that money to its member dairy farmers.

Prior to joining RCMA, Eyster served as regional organization director with the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association.

The Shermans Dale, Pa., resident holds a bachelor's degree in business management from Pennsylvania State University's College of Agriculture.

In wet chemistry analysis, the sample is rendered water soluble by the addition of acids and heat. The solution can then have various reagent and concentrations added to it to determine the protein and mineral content with a spectrophotometer. These three sample flasks all appear to be filled with clear water. They are really digested samples of milk, far left, a complete 16% grain mix, center, and wet brewers grain, far right.

grass-roots, bottom-up organization rather than a top-down one," he explained. "And you can't be solving problems sitting behind a desk."

Among the areas he anticipates needing to address are poultry-waste disposal and associated environmental problems; promoting public understanding of poultry production; and developing programs to educate producers on new information so they can increase productivity and product quality.

"Lancaster County is the envy of many other producers, but we can't get complacent," Schwartz commented. "Producers have to stay updated on current issues such as early mortality to keep productive."

Because environment is crucial to the success of a poultry operation, one area that Schwartz hopes to keep producers current on is environmental management.

Schwartz sees his role as an extension agent as a liaison between urbanites and the farming community. "I'd like to help develop an understanding between urbanization and agriculture," he remarked. "I think there are things we in agriculture can do to make urban people happier, but I think there are concessions they can make. Every environment has its advantages and disadvantages: a farm area has open space and tranquility. In order to have this, occasionally there must be some noise and smells. In New York, you have the shopping, but you have parking problems, and so on."

Prior to this job, Schwartz has worked for Clemson University in South Carolina for the past two years as an extension specialist for 4-H and youth development. Before that he was in Colorado working with Colorado Quality Research, a private firm, as the executive vice president in charge of setting up and monitoring research projects on poultry. At the same time he was working on his doctorate at Colorado State in poultry management. Schwartz earned a bachelor's and master's degree at Penn State in agricultural education.

Schwartz and his wife, Kathy, and four-month-old daughter, Katy, plan to relocate to Lancaster to be closer to the extension office.

John Schwartz is the newest addition to the Lancaster County Extension office. He will work with poultry producers in Lancaster, Lebanon, York, and Adams counties. Here he is turning a few chicken eggs and swan's egg.

Pennsylvania Ranked Second In Ice Cream Production

HARRISBURG (Dauphin) — Pennsylvania manufacturers registered a 2 percent increase in ice cream production during 1987, maintaining the state's second-place national ranking among the leading producers, according to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service.

PASS placed the Commonwealth's ice cream production for last year at 90.3 million gallons, runner-up to California's 108.3 million.

Ice milk production in the Pennsylvania totaled 17.7 million gallons, up 10 percent from 1986, while milk sherbet production at 3.7 million gallons was 7 percent higher than the previous year. Other frozen products totaled 0.7 million gallons, half of 1986 output.

The state's processors churned out 57.2 million pounds of butter during the year, 16 percent less than in 1986. Creamed cottage cheese production at 37.8 million pounds was up 11 percent and curd cottage cheese output of 42.8 million pounds represented a 10 percent increase.

Production of cheese, excluding cottage cheese, totaled 223.3 million pounds in 1987, a 2 percent decrease from the year before. Mozzarella production was 134.3 million pounds, up 3 percent, while production of other types of Italian cheeses gained 2 percent to 37.6 million pounds. Swiss cheese production dropped 30 percent to 5.8 million pounds in 1987.

During the year, according to PASS, 3.98 billion pounds of whole milk (equivalent) was used in manufactured dairy products in Pennsylvania, with 32 percent used in the production of butter and 35 percent for frozen products.

Homeowners Can Help To Halt Gypsy Moth

COLLEGE PARK, MD — If the trees in your neighborhood weren't aerial-sprayed during late April or early May for gypsy moths, there's still something you can do to help control this ravenous defoliator of hardwood trees throughout the Northeast.

This is a process called burlap banding. It can reduce defoliation by as much as 50 percent if applied to your trees during the period from mid-May through early July.

Burlap banding should not be confused with sticky-barrier bands, notes John A. Davidson, an entomology specialist for the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service at College Park. Sticky barriers help to prevent young gypsy moth caterpillars from crawling up tree trunks to feast on leaves after they hatch out at ground level. This primary invasion phase of the gypsy moth cycle occurs around mid-April. So it is probably too late to install sticky bands on your hardwood trees for that purpose this year.

But now is an ideal time for installing burlap bands, Dr. Davidson says.

This process takes advantage of the fact that, in most gypsy moth populations, fourth-stage caterpillars spend each night feeding on leaves in the tops of trees. They crawl down the trees to hide on the ground or in bark crevices during the day.

Tying strips of burlap around tree trunks provides a shelter for the migrating caterpillars. The simplest band consists of a burlap strip 12 to 20 inches wide which is tied around the middle. This allows a flap to hang down and provide a place for the caterpillars to hide.

The creepy crawlers must be removed and destroyed daily in late afternoon. They can be squashed, or they can be drowned in containers of kerosene or bleach. Wear gloves when handling the caterpillars to avoid irritation from their hairs. If you find egg masses or adult gypsy moths under the burlap flap, be sure that they are destroyed in similar fashion. Do not allow egg masses to fall to the ground.

More information on coping with the gypsy moth problem is available from local offices of the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service. These offices have the following new leaflets available:

The Gypsy Moth and the Homeowner (Fact Sheet 242, rev. 1988); Controlling Gypsy Moth Caterpillars With Barrier Bands (Fact Sheet 476, new in 1988).

Single copies of the gypsy moth leaflets are available free for the asking. If you don't know the location of your nearest Extension office, look under county government listings in your telephone directory. Baltimore residents should look under city government listings.

Eastern Tent Caterpillars A Nuisance

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Spring is prime feeding time for insects, and this spring the eastern tent caterpillar population has experienced a population explosion. A common species that makes white silk tents in the crotches of trees, the eastern tent caterpillar's increased numbers are causing defoliation of some trees as the caterpillars feed on the leaves.

The white tents seen in trees in early spring are woven by the eastern tent caterpillar, not the gypsy moth. The gypsy moth caterpillar does not form tents, and is distinctively marked with five pairs of blue dots followed by six pairs of red dots.

Eastern tent caterpillars are black with a white stripe down the back, and brown and yellow lines on the sides. This time of year the caterpillars are about 1 to 1½ inches long.

Reproducing only once each year, the eastern tent caterpillar is only active for four to six weeks. The rest of its time is spent as eggs on tree branches. The mature eastern tent caterpillar is 2 to 2½ inches long. Just before they form a cocoon, the caterpillars wander about looking for the ideal place to settle. These large black caterpillars will be seen through the end of May on tree trunks and on the ground.

Although eastern tent caterpillars are a nuisance, and do cause defoliation, control is seldom necessary. This caterpillar has a large number of natural predators and parasites which help keep the population in check. Homeowners can best control the pest by tearing open the nest or tent so that birds and other predators can feed on the caterpillars.

Bloat Control On Pastures Containing Legumes

BY R S ADAMS

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre)

— Each year some farmers lose animals due to bloating on pastures that contain appreciable clover or alfalfa. Straight legume forage is more apt to bloat animals. However bloat also can occur on grass-legume mixtures, particularly in early spring or fall and when the forage has been frosted.

Feeding milk cows about 5 to 6 lb. of stored forage dry matter daily can help prevent bloat. The stored forage should be split into two feedings. Preferably it should be provided as long hay with a low legume content. A grass or mixed mainly grass hay often is used. Corn silage or haylages could be fed to provide more scratch factor to enhance eructation of gas if no hay is available.

A chemical compound, called poloxalene also may be fed for bloat prevention. It is sold under the trade name of Bloat Guard. The daily dose is 2 to 3 grams of active ingredient per cwt of bodyweight daily. (Example: 26 grams for a 1300 lb. cow). It is available from some feed trade supplies and dealers as a product containing 53% poloxalene. Thus 49 grams of this material may be needed daily for a 1300 lb. animal ($26 \div .53 = 49$). As an adjunct to treatment for bloat, poloxalene should be administered at a level of 4 to 5 grams of active compound per cwt of bodyweight.

Poloxalene also is available in special supplement blocks designed for pastured animals and in some specially formulated mineral mixtures. If these products are used, care must be taken to see that cattle are eating sufficient amounts to provide an effective intake of poloxalene.

Feeding 3 to 4 oz. of vegetable oil per head daily also can help prevent bloat. This could be incorporated in the grain mix or sprinkled on supplemental stored forage. The need for oil might be met by feeding about 1½ to 2 lb. of ground soybeans or cottonseed daily. As an adjunct to treatment for a bloated animal, 3 cups of oil may be given via drenching.

Accumulated gas sometimes may be partially reduced by use of a stomach tube. In severe cases an incision may need to be made in the left side of the animal in the area under the lumbar region and between the last rib and the hook bone. However, frothy bloat often occurs and surface tension must be reduced by administration of oils, poloxalene or certain detergents etc. A veterinarian should be called as soon as appreciably bloated animals are noticed.

Reliable Feeding

Both the RD-820 ring-drive silo unloader and the 98B surface-drive silo unloader have a double-hook gathering chain with hardened steel cutters and claws that cut through frozen and packed silage.

- Spring-tensioned powered cutter keeps silo walls free of buildup.
- Adjustable depth-of-cut control makes feeding truly automatic (98B).
- Powerful blowers with adjustable impeller blades for efficient blowing.

We'll show you how to get the most performance for your money.

low," commented Dr. Tom Divers, associate professor of large-animal medicine at New Bolton Center. "It may be higher than that if more culled cows were kept longer, but we don't know this for certain." In many cases, BLV-infected animals in the final stage go to slaughter undetected.

BLV is a disease where almost as much is unknown as is known about it. One of the things veterinarians don't know is what makes a cow go from stage two to stage three. The majority of cows will never enter stage three and live their entire lives as productive animals. Others will develop clinical signs. And, according to Murphy's Law, if it happens, it's usually to the top cows in the herd.

"Predisposition of the clinical stage could be related to family lines," observed Dr. Brian Reed of Hutchison & Trayer Veterinary Associates in Denver, working out of Elizabethtown. "But no one's really proven that it goes in certain cow or bull lines."

Some practicing veterinarians believe that BLV-infected cows suffer from lower performance even though they show no clinical signs. There is much research yet to be done in this area.

BLV is transmitted through the blood. Any time there is the possibility of mixing a cow's blood with another's, BLV can be transferred. Tools that could transmit BLV include common syringes, dehorers, pill guns, ear taggers, rectal sleeves, and tongs. It can be spread through biting insects, colostrum and milk leukocytes, bloody placentas and excretions, and direct contact of wounds.

It is not spread by casual contact when blood is not present.

In tests conducted at the University of Wisconsin, a group of infected animals and negative animals were housed together. "It took three to six months for the animals to become positive," related Schultz. "There is a great deal of difference in relative infectivity of positive animals. If you have a highly infectious animal, she will cause quick infection. We also saw that animals older than two years that were positive were more infectious than those less than two years old."

Although it is almost impossible to find a BLV-negative herd, it is not necessary for the average farmer to eradicate BLV-infected cows from the herd immediately, according to Dr. Ronald D. Schultz, professor of pathobiological sciences in the University of Wisconsin at Madison's School of Veterinary Medicine. The dairy farmer with purebred animals who wishes to export should definitely take special steps.

BLV-positive animals are not allowed into European countries. This would include cows, heifers, embryos, and semen. Currently only the individual animals in question need to test negative, but Divers believes a negative test from the whole herd may not be far away. In addition, "it's likely to become more of a factor in coming years because other countries are becoming aware of BLV and are trying to keep it out of their herds," Divers continued.

These countries could include the Peoples Republic of China, Taiwan, Japan, Saudi Arabia, and the Canary Islands. There is concern that requirements for export may tighten in the future.

Divers also believes that, when economically feasible, BLV should be eliminated because "of the cows that die of cancer, many times they are the better cows in the herd. Although the percentage of clinical cases is low, many cow dollars are involved."

Another reason for eradication that Divers cited was an example of a local farmer who didn't deal with breeding stock, yet whose herd was totally destroyed by BLV. He was unlucky in that he had cows of certain family lines that developed a higher incidence of tumors.

Currently there is no cure for BLV. There is no vaccination either. There are only preventions. Most of the preventative actions that veterinarians advocate are common sense. "My goal is to not provide economic burdens to farmers," said Divers. "We put into play procedures that a good manager readily has available. We recommend doing a really good job on those things we can control and are not economically hard to the farmer."

The first step in eliminating BLV is to test the herd for positive animals. If the percentage of BLV-positive cows is very low, culling might be the answer. However, "culling is not practical for the average dairy herd where one third or more of the adult cows carry the virus," stated Hutchinson. "A great majority of those cows will never move out of stage one. Removing cows is expensive."

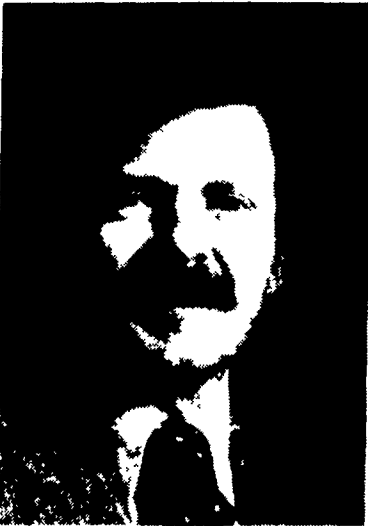

The answer for the average farmer is to prevent further spread of the disease and cull normally. Clinical cases should be culled immediately, of course.

To prevent transmission:

1. Individual needles and rectal sleeves should be used. If needles must be reused, disinfect between usages. Several disinfectants will work; farmers should consult their veterinarian as to which to use.
2. Instruments that do or could come in contact with blood should be disinfected: tongs, dehorers, castration tools, ear taggers, etc. If possible, use electric dehorers.
3. Make sure herd additions are BLV-negative.
4. Have good insect control. It hasn't been proven that biting insects spread BLV, but the possibility is there.
5. Keep heifers separate from cows and positive heifers from negative heifers.
6. Have separate heat-check and maternity pens. At either period there is a chance for blood to be present.
7. Where positive and negative animals are mixed, handle the negative animals first. Any time blood is present, there is opportunity to spread BLV.

Brian K. Reed, DVM

Dr. Lawrence J. Hutchinson

Veterinarians are divided as to whether or not to feed colostrum from a positive dam to negative calves. "Not much is spread in colostrum," related Reed. "But it's

An estimated 33 percent of adult dairy cows in Pennsylvania are infected with the bovine leukosis virus. Many times a cow goes into the disease's clinical stage without ever showing any signs.

probably a good idea if you have the option, of feeding negative milk to a calf."

Divers agreed, adding "if you have a lot of cattle infected, go ahead and feed positive colostrum unless it's obviously bloody. On the flip side, although it's not been proven, the antibodies seem to keep the infection rate to a minimum. Colostrum may help the calf as far as infection by other means."

Once a farmer gets to the point where fewer animals are positive, he shouldn't feed positive colostrum to calves and risk infection.

Some vets are concerned about the state's lack of an indemnity program or even a required negative-free certificate at sales. "This is a serious problem," stated one local veterinarian. "I feel they should have an indemnity program. What is a farmer going to do otherwise? Even if there's a prequisite for BLV-free status at the time of the sale, the owner will just keep the cow in his herd and possibly infect the others. That's why we need an indemnity program."

Another concern is in situations where an apparently healthy BLV-positive cow is culled and someone might take her from the meat pens.

Currently the only state to have taken a formal step toward eradication of BLV is New York. The state has BLV-free certification program. To qualify for the certificate, dairy farmers must have a herd that tests BLV free on three consecutive occasions—the tests can be 60 days apart. After that the herd must test free each year to retain its status. In order to help defray the testing costs, state support reduces the normal $5 fee to $1 for farmers participating in the program.

Milk Market News

STOP Starts

SCRANTON (Lackawanna) — With all the signs already pointing to another 50 cent cut in the support price next January, the National Milk Producers Federation announced their STOP campaign this week in Washington. STOP stands for Standing Together Opposing the Price cut and is intended to be a grassroots effort to stop anymore cuts in the support price that are required by the 1985 Farm Bill when Commodity Credit Corporation purchases are projected to exceed five billion pounds of milk equivalent in one year. Producers are expected to let their Congressmen and Senators know that they cannot afford further reductions in their income from a lower support price. Of course, they must also be ready with alternatives for the elected officials that may include spending more money and buying more dairy products; buying more dairy products and charging it up to welfare programs for the needy or implementing another voluntary supply management program, with or without financing by the producers. All of these are possibilities by NMPF seems to lean toward a voluntary supply management program which can be started by the Secretary of Agriculture within the present Farm Bill. Anything else would require an act of Congress and they're reluctant to change anything now that would increase the cost.

The one possible exception would be to get more butter, powder and cheese to feed the needy. CCC storage stocks have been nearly wiped out for some of these commodities. Butter stocks on March 31 were down to 149 million pounds or 32 percent less than a year ago. Cheese was much lower at 193 million pounds or 76 percent less than last year. More products would move into CCC storages if Congress raised the trigger from five to seven billion pounds of milk equivalent. Such a bill has already been introduced. The other alternative would be a bill requiring CCC to buy whatever was needed above CCC storage stocks from the dairy price support program to meet the needs of the giveaway program. Such a bill may be viewed as separate or new legislation and not as tampering or "opening up" the 1985 Farm Bill.

However, if you're going to get STOP started you better hurry because CCC purchases have already passed the five billion pound trigger for this year in spite of the lower support prices. This could change quickly with increases in feed prices or disastrous weather conditions during the growing season over a large area that affects the national feed supply. Indications are that enough farmers are still willing to produce milk at present prices, plus their over order premiums to exceed the maximum CCC purchases written in the Farm Bill. So, it may be only a matter of time, before STOP can get started, that once again surplus butter, powder and cheese stocks will be sufficient to feed the needy and a voluntary supply management program may be the only viable alternative. But don't hold your breath and certainly don't race for base.

Closer to Home

Little change in the national dairy programs is expected this year but local federal milk marketing orders will see plenty of action this summer. The hearing announcement has not been issued as of this writing but dates and places have already been decided for hearing proposals to amend Federal Order 2 (New York - New Jersey); Order 1 (New England) and Order 4 (Mid Atlantic) starting June 6 in Syracuse. If half the proposals requested are included in the hearing there will still be important changes affecting producers particularly in Order 1 and Order 2. Attracting the most attention is a proposal to replace the Louisville Plan with a Base-Excess Plan in these two orders. Order 4 already has a Base-Excess Plan. There will be proposals to change the transportation differentials in Order 2 and provide for three Classes of milk in all three orders. These are the proposals most likely to be heard but others that may be considered are twice-a-month payments to producers; uniform fluid milk definitions and increasing the handlers' assessment to pay the costs of administering the order from four to five cents. These will be sweeping changes affecting producers from Maine to Maryland and could have included a proposal to merge all three Orders but only Order 2 producers were interested.

As it has been for 50 years, Federal Orders are written by producers to regulate handlers selling milk in a designated marketing area. So, as it has been for 50 years, the hearings will be held and decisions made by an administrative law judge but nothing will change until the affected producers, voting in a referendum, agree to the change. However, they will be voting on a Federal Order with the changes or not Federal Order at all. So, if you're interested in getting your opinion considered then it must be presented at the hearing before a final decision is made. There's a step in between where the judge makes a recommended decision from the hearing testimony that has to be defended against exceptions from the interested parties. Then the final decision is made and this is what is submitted to a mail referendum of all affected producers.

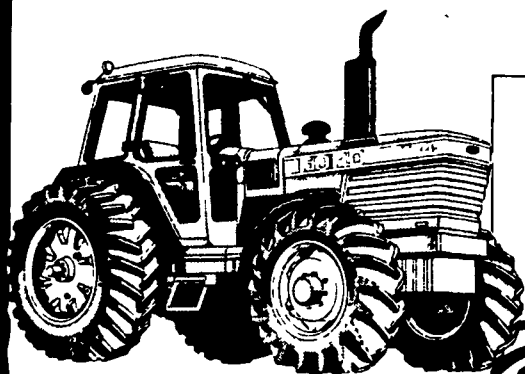

This is the major difference between federal orders and price support programs. Federal orders regulate handlers but must be approved by the producers. Price support programs are written by Congress (who are elected by the voters) for all the producers in the country whether or not they are shipping to handlers regulated by federal orders. It will be months before final decisions are made on these proposals and I'll try to keep you informed each month but start boning up on federal order provisions from reliable sources so you'll know how you should vote when the time comes.

April Prices

The Minnesota-Wisconsin Price Series dropped another 10 cents to $10.33 in April. That's the support price at 3.5 percent butterfat but it could drop even further in May because the target price is the national price for manufacturing grade milk and the M-W is usually 10 to 15 cents higher and market prices for butter and cheese are still below the support price. That $10.33 on the April M-W put your Order 2 Class I price down to $12.88 in June. That will be $1.57 below the $14.45 that RCMA was planning to get if it had the support of more producers. As it is you'll have to settle for an April blend price of $10.92 plus whatever premiums you can get from handlers. That $10.92 is 37 cents less than last month, 63 cents less than last year; and the lowest for April since 1978 in Order 2. Shipments of 967 million pounds are the lowest for the month since 1982 but lower prices will follow in May or June even without a drop in the M-W because of increasing take outs for the Louisville Plan that goes to 40 cents in May and June. Whatever the causes, look for lower market prices and higher feed costs to continue in the future without any effective mechanism for over order premiums that are used to close the gap in other markets.

Top Bid For Ardrossan Bred

BRANDON, Vt. — Pennsylvania Ayrshire breeders were well represented at the 113th Annual Meeting of the Ayrshire Breeders' Association held April 6-9 in Rochester, MN. Numerous Pennsylvania animals and breeders were honored for production awards and a Pennsylvania bred animal topped the 1988 National Sale held April 9.

Ardrossan Farms, Villanova, PA took the bulk of production awards at the convention. Mrs. Scott's Ayrshire herd numbering over 100 head in the milking line received five 25,000 Pound Certificates; twelve 100,000 Pound Certificates; thirty-nine 20,000 Pound Certificates; six 150,000 Pound Certificates; three of the four protein awards and had 53 head with over 800 pounds of fat. In addition, the herd received the French Trophy for the highest production in herds over 100 head (21,461 ME 4%) and the Constructive Breeder Award for highest producing herd in the country. Mrs. Scott's herdsman, Heinz Milke was in attendance to accept the awards for Ardrossan Farms.

Other Pennsylvania herds receiving honors for production were Conebella Farm, Charles Gable, Elverson, PA, the top herd numbering 50 to 74 cows with an ME 4% average of 17,834 on 64 head, and recipient of a 150,000 Pound Certificate for Conebella Betty's Celia 162,236M 4.5% 7327F. He has also earned numerous 800 Pound Fat Certificate, 20,000 Pound Certificates and 100,000 Pound Certificates. Masonic Homes, Elizabethtown, also received a 150,000 Pound Certificate as did Warren Schmuck, Peach Bottom, in addition to several other production honors. Others receiving include: George Gordon, Peach Bottom; Mrs. Ann Young, West Grove; Carol Gable, Elverson; Harold Kulp, Pottstown and Pennsylvania State University. Pennsylvania herds receiving Constructive Breeder Awards in 1987 were: Ardrossan Farms, Villanova; Delaware Valley College, Doylestown and Charles H. Gable, Elverson.

Ardrossan Just Snowing, bred by Ardrossan Farms and consigned by Emil Steinberg, Owatonna, MN topped the National Sale at $3200. This young cow, due with her first calf a few weeks after the sale was undefeated as a Sr. Yearling in Minnesota. Sired by Ardrossan Justin, she was selected by David & Dora Hartford, Charlotte, VT. Other Pennsylvania Ayrshires in the sale included: Ardrossan M FMEC, bred by Ardrossan Farms, and consigned by John R. Rodgers, Belleville. She sold for $1900 to Garry Zumbach Monticello, IA. Charles Gable's consignment, Conebella Larry's Ashley also went to Iowa. She was purchased by Russell Jesse, Pomeroy for $1800. August G. Busch, Cecil, WI selected Ardrossan Pearton Roseline a July 1987 heifer calf for $1375. Mrs. Scott donated the proceeds of this calf to the 1988 World Ayrshire Conference Fund.

Pennsylvania Juniors also did well in 1987 contest. Harold Rader, Jr., Connoquenessing, PA was named the Outstanding Ayrshire Boy in the age group 13-16. Production Awards were won by

Ardrossan M FMEC

Ardrossan Just Snowing

Debra Shetterly, Millersburg, the top two year old for milk; Cynthia Gordon Graver, Peach Bottom, top three year old for milk and fat and George Gordon IV, Peach Bottom, top aged cow for milk and fat. The respective records for these animals were: 2-07 305 18,015 3.8 691; 3-01 305 17,668 4.1 720; and 5-01 304 18,816 4.4 820. Other Pennsylvania Juniors participating in Jr. Production Contest were: Duane Varner, Shirleysburg, PA and Michelle Grodon, Peach Bottom, PA.

The 1989 Ayrshire Convention will be held in Hagerstown, Maryland April 11-15.

Dairy Farmers Will Receive $10.92 For April Milk

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Dairy farmers who supplied milk plants regulated under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders during April 1988 will be paid on the basis of a uniform price of $10.92 per hundredweight (23.5 cents per quart); the price for the corresponding month last year was $11.55 per hundredweight, Market Administrator Thomas A. Wilson also stated that the price was $11.29 in March 1988. The uniform price is a marketwide weighted average of the value of farm milk used for fluid and manufactured dairy products.

The seasonal incentive plan removed $.30 per hundredweight from the dairy farmers' uniform price for April, a total of $2,918,883.40. Deductions will continue through June and will be returned in the August through November uniform price calculations.

A total of 14,135 dairy farmers supplied the New York-New Jersey Milk Marketing Area with 972,961,134 pounds of milk during April 1988. This was a decrease of 2.6 percent (about 26 million pounds) from last year.

The gross value to dairy farmers for milk deliveries was $109,051,921.81. This included differentials required to be paid to dairy farmers but not voluntary premiums or deductions authorized by the farmer.

Regulated milk dealers (handlers) used 376,754,144 pounds of milk for Class I, 38.7 percent of the total. This milk is used for fluid milk products such as homogenized, flavored, low test, and skim milks. For April 1988, handlers paid $13.15 per hundredweight (28.3 cents per quart) for Class I milk compared with $13.82 a year ago.

The balance (596,207,020 pounds or 61.3 percent) was used to manufacture Class II products including butter, cheese, ice cream, and yogurt. Handlers paid $10.24 per hundredweight for this milk.

The uniform price is based on milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat. For April 1988, there was a price differential of 15.1 cents for each one-tenth of one percent that the milk tested above or below the 3.5 percent standard.

All prices quoted are for bulk tank milk received from farms in the 201-210 mile zone from New York City.

USDA Approves CITE Test

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has approved the concentration immunoassay technology (CITE®) test as an official supplement to standard card tests for brucellosis in cattle and bison.

"The CITE® test is a new procedure that permits diagnostic testing in the stockyard, thus providing faster results than if the blood had to be sent to a laboratory," said James W. Glosser, administrator of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

According to Glosser, testing negative to an official brucellosis test is a condition for interstate movements of certain cattle and bison. Official tests also are used to determine eligibility for indemnity payments for animals destroyed because of brucellosis.

The standard card test is the official test used most often on cattle and bison sent to market. In card testing, serum from each test animal is placed on a card to which an antigen solution is added. A positive reaction is indicated by "clumping" of the serum-antigen mixture. Animals that react positively to the card test only can be sold for immediate slaughter, or held in quarantine for several days until a final diagnostic test is done at a laboratory.

"However," said Glosser, "the card test is so sensitive that cattle and bison that have residual antibodies from being vaccinated against brucellosis may erroneously test positive for the disease. Thus, having the CITE® test as a supplement to the card test will help us avoid unnecessary destruction of valuable animals."

In the CITE® test, samples are applied to a specially treated membrane that "catches" antibodies present in the sample. After washing away excess material, an enzymatic solution is added, causing blue spots to appear. This color change helps identify positive reactions as "weak" or "strong".

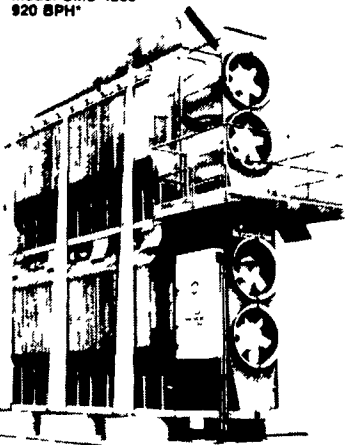

"CITE® technology already is being used in tests for feline leukemia and canine heartworm across the country," said Glosser. Now the same technology has given us a supplemental brucellosis test that can be readily used in stockyards and livestock markets."

Brucellosis, also called Bang's disease, is an infectious bacterial disease that causes abortions, reduced fertility and lower milk yields in cattle. Since 1951, USDA has taken the lead in a cooperative state-federal program to eradicate brucellosis from the United States.

State FFA Foundation Seeking Funds, Executive Director

HATFIELD (Montgomery) — Children are our future, and John W. Clemens and Mary Jo Cancelmo believe that investing in FFA means investing in the future of agriculture.

Members of the Pennsylvania Future Farmers of America Foundation, they are concerned over the amount of funding that has been cut from the program. Over the past 10 years, the state FFA program has lost more than $35,000 in support.

"The funding that people have always taken for granted isn't there," said Cancelmo, chairman of the sponsoring committee of the FFA Foundation. "It's not that we don't have students who want to join. The activities are taking place at the same level, it just costs more to run them."

Cancelmo and Clemens, honorary chairman for the Foundation as well as president and CEO of Hatfield Quality Meats, are heading up a campaign to raise funds to hire an executive director for the Foundation. The director would devote 70 percent of his time to fund raising with the remainder involved with administrative duties and chapter support. This director would work part time at first with the hope that he would raise enough money to become full time.

Currently, the Foundation has set aside $10,000 towards the executive director's salary, and they now hope to get matching seed money for the remainder. They hope to have the post filled by September of this year or next January at the latest. Penn State's Dean of the College of Agriculture, Lamratine F. Hood, has offered to provide an office and staff support for the executive director.

The money that will be raised by the executive director would pay for things such as national and regional FFA competitions, leadership training conferences scholarships for state officers who take a year off school to assume the office, chapter awards, the state newsletter, and student handbooks.

Much of the funds that the foundation now receives come from chapter donations, which range from $25 to $750, and from student dues. "If the students have to pay the costs of attending competitions and such things, they won't be able to afford to be a member of FFA," declared Cancelmo.

Mastitis: Treat All Cows At Drying Off Time

ARLINGTON, Va. — The importance of the dry period in the control of mastitis has been recognized for almost 40 years. Mammary glands are highly susceptible to new infections during the early dry period and near calving. Antibiotic therapy, at drying off with products approved for use in dry cows, has been shown to play an important role in the control of mastitis.

The objectives of dry cow therapy are to eliminate infections that are present during late lactation and to prevent new ones during the dry period. Drying off is an opportune time for antibiotic therapy because saleable milk is not contaminated with antibiotics, and because products can be formulated to keep antibiotics in the udder for a longer time than is possible during lactation.

Exposure of mammary glands to Streptococcus agalactiae and Staphylococcus aureus drops during the dry period, and antibiotic therapy at drying off generally is effective in controlling these pathogens. On the other hand, environmental mastitis pathogens such as coliform bacteria and species of streptococci other than Streptococcus agalactiae survive in the surroundings in which a cow lives and mammary glands are exposed continuously to these pathogens throughout the dry period, especially in herds housed in total confinement.

Antibiotic therapy at drying off is not effective against coliform bacteria and does not prevent new infections near calving at a time when mammary glands are highly susceptible. Therefore, calving cow environments must be as clean and dry as possible to minimize exposure of mammary glands

Other methods for controlling mastitis during the dry period have been tried. Teat dipping during the early dry period and near calving was not effective in preventing new infections. A second treatment of antibiotics during the dry period may have some merit, but results of trials have been conflicting and potential problems with antibiotic residues are an important consideration. Supplementation of dairy cow diets deficient in vitamin E and selenium improve udder health.

Additional studies are needed to develop procedures that are effective, not only during the dry period, but also near calving. The difficulty is that procedures need to be effective against a variety of mastitis pathogens, particularly environmental bacteria, if additional mastitis control is to be achieved.

This article is one of a continuing series made available by the National Mastitis Council. For additional information, contact the NMC, 1840 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, VA 22201 (703-243-8268).

National Cheese Output Up 3 Percent

HARRISBURG (Dauphin) — Total cheese production, excluding cottage cheese, was 5.34 billion pounds, 3 percent above 1986. Wisconsin was the leading State with 35 percent of production.

Production of butter in the United States during 1987 totaled 1.10 billion pounds, 8 percent below the 1986 production. Wisconsin, the leading State in production, accounted for 24 percent of production; California ranked second with 19 percent.

Frozen dairy products were generally up in 1987. Ice cream production totaled 931 million gallons, up 1 percent from 1986. Ice milk production increased 5 percent to 330 million gallons. Milk sherbet at 49.7 million gallons showed no change. Mellorine production was up 20 percent to 10.1 million gallons. The 307 million gallons of soft frozen products (ice cream, ice milk, sherbet and mellorine) made during 1987 accounted for 23 percent of the total frozen dairy products. Ice milk made up the major portion (83 percent) of soft production. Soft frozen dairy products are sold from direct-serve soft freezer and milk shake machines.

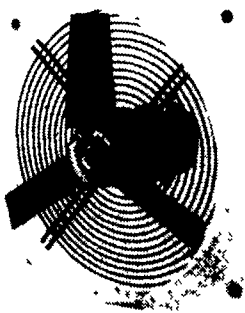

Manufactured dairy products used 58.4 percent of all milk marketed in the United States during 1987 compared with 59.0 percent in 1986. Whole milk used for manufacturing products based on milk-fat content totaled 81.9 billion pounds, down 2 percent from the previous year.

Rhubarb Festivities At Kitchen Kettle Village

BY SALLY BAIR
Lancaster Co. Correspondent
INTERCOURSE — The lowly rhubarb rises to exalted status by the Kitchen Kettle Village at Intercourse, during the rhubarb festival held annually on the third Saturday of May. This year's event is held today, May 21, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and offers more activities than ever.

Deb Becker, who works in promotion and marketing for the Kitchen Kettle Village, says the idea of a Rhubarb Festival started five years ago when they were looking for a spring event to attract visitors. Since strawberries already enjoy a wide variety of festivals locally, the promotional staff looked for something else. Inspired by a zucchini festival in New Hampshire, they chose rhubarb as the feature of the festival. Rhubarb is at its peak in mid-May, although it will remain available locally into June.

Classified as a vegetable, the rhubarb plant is a perennial that is easy to grow, and prolific in producing long, reddish stalks of rhubarb for local cooks. Historians assume that rhubarb was first used by barbarians who lived along the Volga River, since the name comes from "Rha," the Greek name for the Volga and "Barabrium," Latin for barbarians.

In the past, rhubarb roots were used for medicine by both the Chinese and the Europeans. The ubiquitous Benjamin Franklin introduced the first rhubarb to the colonies when he shipped them from England to John Bartram in Philadelphia.

Rhubarb proved hardy. It thrives in many types of soil, and requires little attention. The leaves are poisonous, and only the stalks can be consumed.

Although pies and sauce remain two of the most popular uses for rhubarb, it can be used in recipes from punch to a variety of desserts.

Jane Parker, manager of the Kling House Restaurant and product development for Kitchen Kettle Village, works hard each year to find recipes for foods with fresh appeal to be offered to visitors. Visitors will be able to sample complimentary orange-rhubarb punch, eat rhubarb maple muffins, try cold rhubarb soup or eat chicken kabobs with a rhubarb glaze or grilled pork with a rhubarb honey glaze.

To find recipes, Jane says, "I search through magazines and books for any unusual recipes. If I see a recipe where the basic idea sounds good, I will change the basic method to make it less complicated, or change an ingredient. I am always on the lookout for things that are unusual."

She notes that rhubarb needs to be cooked, and requires a "fair amount of sweetening" because it is "very tart." It combines well with other seasonal produce, especially strawberries. According to Parker, rhubarb is an especially good source of calcium and is high in vitamins A and C. Rhubarb will be featured in other recipes at the Village, including strawberry-rhubarb jam filled cookies, strawberry-rhubarb meringue tortes, funnel cakes with strawberry rhubarb topping, coffee cake and other intriguing foods.

Highlights of the festival include a recipe contest and a rhubarb derby, in which employees of Kitchen Kettle design a car from rhubarb, using plastic wheels. There is a weight limit on the finished product, and a timed trial to determine the winner. Visitors participate in rhubarb pie eating contest and a rhubarb pie throwing contest. Throughout the day, entertainment will be provided by a juggler, a mime, a magician, an acrobat and a German band. Deb says there are many people who come back each year to be part of the festivities.

Esther Becker, Gap, won first place last year in the recipe con-

Deb Becker wears one of the T-shirts which will be used as prizes and will be for sale during the Rhubarb Festival. On the table is her creation which will be entered in the rhubarb derby, as well as jams created from rhubarb and offered for sale at the Kitchen Kettle Village.

J.R. Burnley tires out one of the entries in the rhubarb derby. Despite its flashy wheels, the "derby" didn't catch his attention quite like the lamb. J.R. is the son of Jim Burnley who operates the Deerskin Leather shop at the Kitchen Kettle Village.

Alma Groff, an employee of Blue Ball National Bank, entered this strawberry rhubarb jam in the recipe contest at the Rhubarb Festival and took second place.

test, with her Rhubarb Dream Bar. The bar cookies come from a recipe she found in a cookbook, and "changed a bit."

Esther says it was her daughter Deb who encouraged her to enter the contest. As she searched for appropriate recipes, she found that Rhubarb is not something that there are lots and lots of recipes for.

Last year was her fourth time to enter the contest but not the first time she won first prize. She won first for a rhubarb sweet roll recipe, where she baked the rolls in a rhubarb sauce which formed a glaze when the rolls were turned upside down after baking.

Other recipes she entered included a rhubarb coffee cake and a rhubarb betty. Esther says she has come up with a very different idea for this year's contest, but didn't want to discuss it "because it may flop."

Rhubarb was always popular with Esther's husband and three children. She said she likes to make sauce, and serves it either as dessert or as part of the main meal. She adds, "I like to cut up fresh oranges into rhubarb sauce, or fresh or frozen strawberries." Other family favorites include rhubarb crunch and rhubarb-strawberry pie.

Although she no longer has rhubarb in her garden, she has a neighbor from whom she purchases it, and always freezes some.

Esther enjoys sewing, although she admits she finds little time for it. She works fulltime at the County Store in Intercourse, which keeps her interest in sewing high. Though she doesn't enjoy doing the quilting, she says she enjoys piecing quilts.

These Rhubarb Dream Bars captured the judges' attention at last year's Rhubarb Festival and were named first place in the cake category of the recipe contest. They were prepared by Esther Becker, Gap, who adapted another recipe to come up with this winning one.

Alma Groff, Old Philadelphia Pike, Lancaster, was another winner in the contest, taking second prize for her strawberry rhubarb jam.

Alam says she has a "very tiny plot" of rhubarb beside her house, and she likes to freeze some of it for winter eating. Freezing rhubarb couldn't be easier, according to Alma. You simply wash it, cut it into pieces and freeze it. Alma says, "The more you pull rhubarb the more it grows." Rhubarb is mostly a spring product, tending to get stringy with the hot weather.

She freezes her jam as well, so she always has a container in the freezer to open and serve on butter bread, her favorite way of eating it.

About the contest, Alma says, "It was fun doing it and it was fun winning something. I had never won anything for something I cooked." It was Alma's daughter, also, who persuaded her to enter the contest.

Another of Alma's favorite rhubarb recipes is...

Homestead Notes

Rhubarb is the featured ingredient in recipes for the Rhubarb Festival at Intercourse. Here Esther Becker holds some fresh rhubarb as it comes from the garden. The leaves are inedible, but the stalks can be used to create a wide variety of recipes.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Bodies lay strewn about, lifeless shells littering the landscape. Still and silent, their remains bore mute testimony to a battle fought — and lost.

These small carcasses, scattered over a living room table beneath a lamp, had earlier dive-bombed me while we watched the late news. What they resembled most were common house flies, which might have gone on bulimic binges, frail, slender bodies obscured by large, silvery wings. Flying ants? Termites? (Heaven forbid!)

Identity seemed less important than their present state. Dead. Wiped out by fatal attraction to the yellow-white glare of a hundred-watt light bulb.

Another batch of bugs done in by modern technology.

'Tis the season, again, when gentle sunshine, soft rains and balmy breezes stir to life the endless armies of multi-footed, bug-eyed, crawling, creeping, hopping, jumping, flying pests waging guerrilla warfare. April showers not only bring May flowers, but also coax into full bloom Mother Nature's hatch of two zillion buggy friends to temper the joy of spring.

Already, early scouts of the resident generic-giant-black-ant colony, established just outside the house foundation, have turned up in the kitchen sink. In search of empty jelly jars, unrinsed cereal bowls, and similar residuals of sweet and sticky consistency, they sneak down the slippery, stainless-steel sink sides.

That such an enticing environment exists at all is the fault of the dishwasher, located the extreme distance of a full foot away from the sink, and not self-stacking of the dishes left behind by an endless parade of snack seekers. But the ants love it.

Small numbers of scurrying sink scouts get squashed. Or treated to a steamy shower and a quick trip down the whitewater rapids to the drainfield. Full-scale invasion by the masses call for chemical warfare, a scattering of anti-ant power around the perimeters of destruction command headquarters.

Larger-scale skirmishes abound at the barn.

A familiar weapon of the season dangles in the calf nursery, unleashed for localized use against early battalions of barn flies. Remains of a large boxful shipment acquired last summer by the Farmer, the classic fly tapes come tightly wrapped in a cylinder, bathed on both sides with a sticky, molasses-like ooze.

When the first May detachment of flies assaulted me in a buzzing cloud at the calf nursery door, I rooted through a barn sink drawer thick with nails, extra calf bottle nipples, rags, paper towels, tissues and evidence of occasional occupation by mice. Sure enough, among this assortment of toxic-looking waste were found two leftover sticky-fly-tape cylinders.

For some unknown reason, these sticky snaggers of flies hold immense fascination for the neighborhood and family-related youngsters who often stop by at barb recipes is Rhubarb Crunch from the Mennonite Community Cookbook, and a rhubarb sauce made by cooking rhubarb with "a little water, brown sugar and white sugar to taste and tapioca." Alma says this sauce is good served warm or cold, and on ice cream.

Although she enjoys cooking, she admits she doesn't do a lot of cooking since she is working full time. When she does cook, she prefers simple recipes with few ingredients. In addition to her daughter at home, she has two sons away from home, and she likes to play evening chore time to help feed calves. Slowly uncurling a sticky tape from the cylinder, attaching it to a nail protruding from a high shelf, and counting the catches, inevitably results in gleeful and morbid amusement. Almost as good as a music video.

Unfortunately, a few cagey bugs always manage to elude the sticky-foot ooze and outdo themselves repopulating more victims, to the kids' delight and my utter frustration. Flies irritate me to no end.

Almost equally amusing to the kids is the electronic fly "zapper," baited by blue-hued fluorescent bulbs and underpinned with a V-shaped aluminum trough, to catch the victims. A troughful of bug bodies, scattered on the blacktop, never fails to excite the backyard hens and their chicks to a feeding frenzy, reminiscent of the legendary Amazon River pirahana fish attacks.

So, as the pest season rolls into high gear, let us join forces and march in courage and determination against the common enemy, united under a single battle cry: Bug Off!

tennis, travel and go motorcycling with her husband. She enjoys knitting and toile painting, and hopes to do more in the future.

All of the food submitted for the recipe contest will be sold, with sale money benefitting Muscular Dystrophy. Rhubarb recipes will also be on sale, and that money will also be given to Muscular Dystrophy. The contest features three categories: pies and pastries; cakes and breads; and jams and jellies.

From breakfast to dinner, rhubarb will be the featured ingredient, available in a variety of products for the public to eat.

Following are a few recipes which will be served at the Rhubarb Festival:

ORANGE-RHUBARB PUNCH
1/2 10 oz. jar Rhubarb Jam dissolved in 1 cup hot water.

Add:

2 cups ice cubes

1 quart orange juice

2 cups Sprite or 7-Up

1/2 package phyllo dough sheets, thawed

1 cup melted butter

1 cup crushed macaroons

1/2 cup brown sugar

2 teaspoons cinnamon

grated zest of one orange

Blanch rhubarb in boiling water 1 1/2 minutes; drain and pat dry.

Place one sheet phyllo on baking sheet; brush with butter and a few tablespoons of macaroon crumbs. Layer four more sheets using butter and crumbs between. Use two more sheets with butter, but not crumbs.

Make compact rows of rhubarb pieces along one long edge of dough. Sprinkle with brown sugar, cinnamon, zest, walnuts and any remaining crumbs.

Layer two more phyllo sheets with butter between. Roll up jelly-roll style. Turn seam side down, tuck ends under, and brush roll with butter. Bake 40-50 minutes at 375 degrees. Serve warm with cream or ice cream.

CHILLED RHUBARB SOUP
3 pound rhubarb, cut into 1-inch pieces

1/2 cup sugar

1/4 teaspoon salt

1/2 cup water

Cook the above ingredients until saucy

1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

1/4 cup water

1/4 cup cornstarch

2 cups milk

3 cups sour cream

Combine water and cornstarch.

Combine strawberries and cinnamon. Bring strawberry mixture and cornstarch mixture to a boil. Simmer gently one minute. Combine with rhubarb sauce. Chill.

When ready to serve, add the milk and sour cream and mix well. 10 servings.

RHUBARB MAPLE MUFFINS

1/2 cup sugar

2 1/2 cups flour

1 Tablespoon baking powder

1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

1/2 teaspoon allspice

1/4 stick butter or margarine

1/2 cup maple syrup

1/2 cup milk

Combine rhubarb and sugar and let stand 1 hour.

Combine flour, salt, baking powder, salt, cinnamon and allspice. Cream butter, syrup, egg; blend in milk. Mix in rhubarb and add dry ingredients, mixing only until combined. Bake in muffin cups at 400 degrees for 20 minutes. Makes 12 muffins.

Shape Up For Summer

What is the best way to shed unwanted pounds in time for summer without resorting to drastic measures such as deprivation diets and grueling exercise routines?

Moderation is the key. Adopt a low-fat diet that is rich in fruit, vegetables, lean meats, whole grains and low-fat dairy products, as well as working exercise into your daily routine. There is an abundance of fresh fruits and vegetables to choose from in the produce section of your favorite supermarket. And there is no better time to start walking everywhere, including to and from work, errands and appointments.

For more spring shape-up strategies, read on:

Cut back on the fat you can see -- butter on bread or potatoes, salad dressings, the fat on a piece of meat. Remember that fat is the most concentrated source of calories, with more than twice the calories of an equal amount of protein or carbohydrate. For example, one tablespoon of margarine contains 102 calories, while a tablespoon of sugar contains 46 calories.

Cut back on the fat you cannot see by knowing which foods are high in fat such as ice cream, cheese, whole milk, marbled meats and fried foods. If baked goods leave an oily stain on paper, they are rich in fat. Always read a packaged food's label to learn its fat content.

Make smart trade-offs to limit your intake of calories: Substitute one cup non-fat plain yogurt (110 calories) for 1 cup sour cream (415 calories); save 305 calories! One tablespoon of mustard (10 mustard) for one tablespoon mayonnaise (100 calories); save 90 calories! One cup low-fat frozen yogurt (200 calories) for one cup ice cream (470 calories); save 270 calories.

Do not make the mistake of cutting dairy products from your diet. They are a rich source of much needed calcium. Instead, select low-fat dairy items. Look for non-fat and low-fat yogurt. Other good sources are skim milk and low-fat ricotta and cottage cheese.

Fill up on great-tasting, low-calorie fresh produce items, such as tender asparagus, crisp snap beans, young sugar snaps and broccoli. Steam vegetables until they are tender crisp and season them with lemon juice or herbs rather than a rich cream or butter sauce. As a refreshing alternative to ice cream, cookies and other high calorie desserts, indulge in tempting fresh fruits such as juicy strawberries or fresh pineapple.

Stick to seafood, lean cuts of red meats and remove all poultry skin and visible fat before cooking. For a light and well-seasoned taste try marinating in low-calorie Italian dressing before cooking. The result will be a moist, tender and tasty entree.

Start shaping up in the morning with the following recipe for a refreshing drink that will fill you up, tastes great and provides you with essential nutrients.

Fresh Fruit & Yogurt

1 (8-oz.) container of low fat vanilla yogurt

- 1/4 cup orange juice
- 1/4 cup fresh blueberries
- 1/4 cup fresh raspberries
- 1/4 cup fresh strawberries

Combine all ingredients in a blender and process until smooth. Pour over crushed ice. Yields 2 servings with 140 calories and 2 grams of fat.

Plant A Window Box

YORK — Window boxes and porch planters can brighten your spring landscape. Use surplus lumber from finished winter projects, or purchase wood pieces. Boxes can range from 7 to 9 inches with a width of 9 to 12 inches. Any length will work. Popular types of wood for flower boxes include cypress, red cedar, and white pine. Bore holes in the bottom for drainage.

Window boxes in particular require considerable care. They should be watered at least each day, especially during hot, dry periods.

Prior to planting, prepare the soil for window boxes using a commercial mix or a mix of your own. If you mix your own soil, use three parts garden soil, two parts peat moss and one part sand or vermiculite. This mixture should vary according to your type of garden soil. Increase the peat moss if you have sandy garden soil and increase sand or vermiculite when using a heavy clay garden loam.

Mulch the surface of the soil. Then when it rains, the soil will not spatter onto the glass.

Good mulches include pine bark, cocoa bean hulls, pebbles or grass clippings. Apply the mulch about one inch deep after the seedlings are set.

Finally, select the right flowers for your window box. Geraniums, dwarf marigolds, ageratum, petunias and most other annuals need full sunlight for proper growth. Tuberous begonias, impatiens, verbena, ivy and pansies will tolerate shade.

DOUBLE POTTING FOR PORCH PLANTERS

• Fill the bottom of a planter liner with three inches of coarse gravel.

• On top add a layer of coarse charcoal several inches deep.

• Fill in rest of the planter with peat moss or sphagnum moss.

• Use only plants that are planted in porous clay pots and place them, pot and all down in the moss.

• Firm moss around each pot — the porous clay pots help hold moisture around plant roots.

• Rotate pots in the moss every few days to discourage roots from growing out through pots into the moss.

Introducing Nutri-Shield.

Spray it on forage crops and they shed water like a duck's back.

Nutri-Shield comes in powder form. You mix it with water and spray it on your bales, stacks or cubes. It dries to a resilient, plastic-like coating that shields the crop from moisture, inhibits mold and rot, saves nutritious alfalfa leaves and helps bit, round bales retain their shape.

Crop losses are significantly reduced. Animals get more palatable feed, protein and fiber.

FDA approved Nutri-Shield contains no acids or harmful chemicals. You could consume the ingredients in Nutri-Shield without danger.

Beef Up Your Menu With These Favorites

Beef. Today it's lower in fat, lower in calories and lower in cholesterol than ever before—a result of new breeding and feeding techniques.

Although the composition has changed, beef's most important qualities have stayed the same. It has the same good flavor and nutrition and endless adaptability in being the main entree and in lending flavor to other vegetables.

BEEF TIPS & NOODLES

1½ pounds beef cubes
1 large onion, chopped
1 (4-ounce) can mushrooms, optional
½ teaspoon salt and pepper
2 tablespoons shortening
½ pound noodles, cooked according to directions
4 cups water
4 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon parsley flakes

Melt shortening in large sauce pan. Add beef, salt and pepper. Brown, stirring occasionally. Add mushrooms and onions; sauté a few minutes. Add flour, stir until smooth. Simmer 1 hour until meat is tender. Add parsley flakes.

Cook noodles according to directions. Drain. Serve noodles and spoon beef on top.

BEEF CHEESE CASSEROLE

Meat mixture:
1½ -pound hamburger
1 onion, chopped
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
2 8-ounce cans tomato sauce
Combine and let simmer
Cheese mixture:
1 cup cottage cheese
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
¼ cup sour cream
½ cup chopped green pepper
Combine and stir together
8-ounce package of noodles, cooked and drained

Layer ½ of the noodles in the bottom of a greased 3 quart casserole. Cover with cheese mixture. Cover with the remaining noodles. Top with the meat mixture. Bake in an oven at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Jenny Bigelow
Blair Co. Dairy Princess

BEEF BIRDS

½ -inch slices of top round steak
Bacon slices
Chopped onions
1 cup water
Pepper to taste

Layer onions on steak slices then bacon. Roll up and tie with string or use tooth picks. Put in casserole with water. Put bacon strips on top; sprinkle with pepper. Bake 325 degrees for 1½ hours. Skim fat and make a gravy from drippings.

Betty McLaughlin
Leola

BARBEQUE BEEF

3 pounds chuck roast
3 or 4 medium onions
Water

1 cup barbeque sauce
Place roast and onions in roasting pan with enough water to cover roast. Cover with pan lid or foil. Cook until meat falls apart when lifted, about 3 hours. Cool meat then pull apart into shreds, removing fat. Place meat in a bowl. Add sauce and broth if the sauce is too strong. Add the onions. Serve on buns if desired.

Although the meat takes 3 hours to cook, it requires very little preparation. It can be made a day in advance and warmed in pyrex bowl on the grill or in the oven. Different brands of barbeque sauces offer unique flavors for those who like to experiment.

CORNEB BEEF CLUB SANDWICHES

12 slices rye toast
Softened butter
4 slices corneb beef
Mustard
4 slices American cheese
Thin slices dill pickle
Lettuce, mayonnaise

Spread 4 slices toast with butter and cover with corneb beef. Spread sparingly with mustard and cover with 4 more slices of buttered toast. Spread top with butter. Place cheese on toast, add slice of pickle, a leaf of lettuce and spread with mayonnaise. Top with remaining slices of toast. Serves 4.

HAMBURGER & NOODLES

1 pound ground beef
1 medium onion
1 can cream of celery or mushroom soup
1 small can sliced mushrooms
2 cups broad noodles, cooked
Salt and pepper
8-ounces shredded cheddar cheese

Brown meat and onion. Drain well. Stir in soup and mushrooms, salt and pepper. Layer ½ of the hamburger, cooked noodles, cheese and repeat. Heat until cheese melts.

GROUND BEEF BALLS

1 cup bread crumbs
1 pound ground beef
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Mix ingredients and form into balls or patties.

Sauce:

1½ tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ cup vinegar
3 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup catsup
¼ cup water
¼ cup onion

Mix sauce and pour over meat balls. Bake 1 hour at 350 degrees.

BEEF BALL OVEN STEW

6 carrots, quartered
1 pound ground beef
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
¼ cup corn meal
1 teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon chili powder
½ cup milk
1 egg, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons fat
3 potatoes, quartered
3 medium onions, quartered
Salt to taste
2½ cups tomato juice
1 bay leaf crumbled

Cook carrots 10 minutes in boiling salted water. Meanwhile mix beef with the next 8 ingredients. Form into 12 balls, roll in flour, reserving remaining flour. Brown balls in hot fat. Place in 3-quart casserole. Arrange potatoes, onions and pre-cooked carrots around meat balls. Season with salt and pepper, blend remaining flour into fat in skillet; stir in tomato juice and bay leaf. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture boils. Pour over meat balls and vegetables. Cover. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 to 1¼ hours. Serves 6.

Jenny Bigelow
Blair Co. Dairy Princess

Any way you slice it, beef remains a favorite of consumers.

JAPANESE BEEF SALAD

2 beef tenderloin steaks, cut about 1-inch thick
2 teaspoons oil, divided
1 tablespoon teriyaki sauce
12 fresh pea pods, blanched
¼ cup each shredded cucumber and Japanese white radish
1 teaspoon rice vinegar

Thinly sliced pickled red ginger, if desired. Heat heavy non-stick frying pan over medium heat for 5 minutes. Add 1 teaspoon oil, swirl to coat bottom of pan. Add steaks and cook 4 to 5 minutes on each side. Brush teriyaki sauce over cooked sides of meat. Meanwhile arrange pea pods, cucumber and radish in sectioned tray or platter. Combine vinegar and remaining oil; drizzle over vegetables. Carve steak into thin slices and arrange in tray. Garnish with pickled ginger. 2 servings.

HOT DOG MEATLOAF

1 pound ground beef
½ pound hot dogs, sliced fine
1 cup cracker crumbs
1 egg, well beaten
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup water
½ teaspoon mustard
1 tablespoon vinegar

Mix together all ingredients. Shape into a loaf. Bake at 350 degrees until well done, about ¼ to one hour. This tastes similar to ham loaf.

Featured Recipe

With fresh rhubarb in good supply, it is the time to include it in your family's menus. Rhubarb is surprisingly versatile, and can be used in recipes from soup to punch to dessert. As a tribute to its versatility, rhubarb takes the spotlight on the third Saturday of May at the Rhubarb Festival sponsored by the Kitchen Kettle Village at Inter-course in Lancaster County. Recipes from two of last year's winners are featured this week.

RHUBARB DREAM BARS

Esther Becker
First Place Winner

Crust

1 cup flour
½ cup confectioners sugar
¼ cup butter or margarine
Combine flour and sugar; cut in butter to make crumbs. Take out ½ cup for top. Press remaining crumbs in bottom of 8 inch x 8 inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes.

Filling

2 eggs
1 cup sugar
¼ cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
2 cups sliced rhubarb
Blend eggs, flour, sugar and salt. Fold in orange rind and rhubarb. Pour over hot crust. Sprinkle remaining crumbs on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 40-50 minutes. Cool. Drizzle with icing made of ½ cup confectioners sugar and 1-2 tsp. orange juice. Sprinkle with 1 teaspoon grated orange rind.

RHUBARB JAM

Alma Groff

Second Place Winner

Mix 5 cups rhubarb, cut in one-inch pieces, and 3½ cups sugar and soak overnight. Add 1 6-ounce box of strawberry flavored gelatin and boil 10 minutes or longer, up to 20 minutes. Put in freezer.

Ham Loaf

2 pounds ground pork
2 pounds ground ham (cured)
½ cup milk
2 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup graham cracker crumbs

Mix together and form into a loaf. Cover with a sauce made of the following ingredients.

¼ cup vinegar
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1 can tomato soup.

Bake in slow 200 degree oven for 4 hours.

ANSWER - Eleanor Rebuck, Rebuck, wanted to know where she can buy small two piece canning lids (No. 63). Mr. John Wittburger, 239 E. Clay St., Lancaster, PA 17602, writes that he has some that are still in the boxes and he won't be using them. Call 397 6697 if you'd like them.

Erie Chooses Dairy Princess

WATERFORD (Erie) — Julie Williams garnered the 1988 Erie County Dairy Princess crown and the milk promotional duties that accompany it. The 17-year-old daughter of Arthur and Winifred Williams, Edinboro, is a junior at McLane High School where she is a member of student council, cheerleading, track and band.

She is also an active 4-H dairy club member and a bell choir member at her church. Her hobbies and interests include piano, flute, ceramics and sports.

Alternate princess Chris Tobin will assist in promotional efforts. Chris is the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Tobin, Edinboro.

Becky Cass, 15-year-old daughter of Henry and Cyndy Cass of Wattsburg, was named the new Dairy Maid.

Following a dinner, the pageant was held at the Waterford Elementary School gymnasium on Friday, May 13. Judges for the event were Cindy Weimer, a communications specialist from Mid-East UDIA and a former state Dairy Princess; J.J. Sanford, radio disc jockey from K-104; and Bill Riley from Meadow Brook Dairy Products. George Wilcox, Erie County Extension Agent, was master of ceremonies.

LOW-COST FAMILY FUN--NEWS

You don't need to spend big bucks in order to have fun with the family this summer. Here are some low-cost alternatives:

Area parks--Contact the county conservation board to find out what parks are available in your area. Ask for details about available summer programs. Many have family walks, entertainment related to the environment, junior naturalist programs, and a ranger naturalist on duty.

In urban areas, contact the park and recreation board. Most cities provide programming for youth and adults through their park system.

State parks--You can get a state park sticker for $5.50 and use many state parks all year. You'll find hikes and programs offered in some parks by naturalists. Treat the family to a picnic or a fishing trip.

Fishing--Most kids can enjoy success using a stick with a string. They can dig their own worms for bait. Check with farm owners for permission to fish at local farm ponds that have been stocked with blue gills.

4-H camps--For a small fee, youth or the whole family can participate in several 4-H camps this summer. Two for the family include "Family Backpacking" and "Ol' Fashioned Weekend." Scholarships are available to cover fees for many of the camps. Check at our office for more details.

Build family togetherness while you grow in appreciation of Iowa's environment this summer.

CHILLY DAY STEW

Into a kettle of rapidly boiling water, chop 1 large carrot. While it is cooking, clean and chop 3 onions. Add them to the stew. Prepare 1 quart potatoes, peeled and diced. Add this to the mixture; also 2 tablespoons rice and 2 tablespoons macaroni, 1 teaspoon salt and water to cover. Cook slowly until tender. When ready to serve, add 1 pint of cream (or substitute butter and milk). Mix thoroughly, but do not boil again. Serve with crackers or hot toast.

Marian Martin
Roaring Spring

ANSWER - L. Spangler requests a recipe for marinated mushrooms. Thanks Kathy Bowman, Myerstown, for sending "the best one you ever tried." Unfortunately, last week, we printed it with errors. Here is the correct version.

Marinated Mushrooms

1½ pounds mushrooms, cooked
½ cup vinegar
2 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon minced garlic
½ teaspoon oregano
4 tablespoons oil

Bring vinegar, salt, minced garlic, and oregano to a boil. Pour over mushrooms. Add 4 tablespoons oil. Let set one day before serving.

ANSWER - Leah Ann Babcock, Oxford, requested a recipe for Peanut Soup. Thanks Jan Fisher, Oxford, and Betty McLaughlin, Leola, for sharing the same basic recipe. Susan Moyer, Denver, mailed a different version.

Cream Of Peanut Soup

1 medium onion, chopped
2 ribs celery, chopped
¼ cup butter
3 tablespoons flour
2 quarts chicken stock
2 cups smooth peanut butter
1¼ cup light cream
peanuts, chopped

Saute onion and celery in butter until soft, but not brown. Stir in flour until well blended. Add chicken stock, stirring constantly, and bring to a boil. Remove from heat and rub through a sieve. Add peanut butter and cream, stirring to blend thoroughly. Return to low heat, but do not boil, and serve. Garnish with peanuts or finely chopped chives. Note: This soup is also good served ice cold.

Peanut Soup

Saute in a heavy saucepan
2 tablespoons margarine
1 medium onion, chopped
When onion is yellow, stir in:
1 tablespoon flour
Mix in a small bowl:
½ cup chunky peanut butter
1 cup hot water

Add onions, cooking over low heat and stirring until smooth.

Add:
1 chicken bouillon cube
3 cups milk

Heat slowly, stirring often, until bouillon dissolves and soup is hot. Serve with croutons and garnish with parsley. Option: chicken broth may replace the hot water and bouillon cube, plus part of the milk if desired.

Chester Co. To Choose Princess

BRANDYWINE (Chester) — The Chester County Milk Promotion Committee invites you to attend the 1988 Dairy Princess Pageant to be held on June 4 at the Spackman Education Building, Brandywine, at 7:30 p.m. This year our pageant will be held in conjunction with the Brandywine Hospital and Trauma Center Strawberry Festival, June 3, 4, 5, on the grounds of the hospital. Attractions for the festival along with the pageant will be a cook-off for the Chester County low-calorie dairy recipe contest, the Phillie Phanatic, antique car show, music groups, puppets, fireworks, and games for the children.

Contestants this year are Kerri Miller, Chatham, and Tiffany Yeager, Spring City. Reigning over the pageant will be our 1987 Chester County Dairy Princess Miss Elisa Wilkinson, Landenberg, who has done an outstanding job this year with over ninety appearances.

Kerri is the seventeen-year-old daughter of Daniel and Sherry Miller, Chatham. The oldest of two girls, Kerri is a senior at Octorara Area High School and also attending Coatesville Vo-Tech majoring in cosmetology. In school she is involved in Vocational Industrial Clubs of America and Future Business Leaders of America. Kerri works part-time at Ames Department Store and in the fall plans to attend Millersville University to study Commercial Art. She also enjoys horse back riding, drawing, painting, and traveling.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller are employed by Walmoore Farms, 900-acres producing corn and alfalfa with a herd of 450 holsteins.

Kerri Miller

Tiffany Yeager

Tiffany is the sixteen-year-old daughter of Harry and Leona Yeager, Spring City. The third in line of four children, Tiffany owns three of the six Jerseys which make up the Yeager herd. Along with working part-time at Ridglea Dairy Store, in the fall Tiffany will be a senior at Owen J. Roberts High School where she'll major in

Ag and music. She is also involved in 7-UP (select music group), Chamber Choir, Varsity singers, church youth group and church choir along with voice lessons and a puppet ministry. Tiffany's year-round priorities are dairy and sewing 4-H. Her future plans are to attend Empire Beauty School to study Hairstyling.

Saddle Cinches Meeting

MANHEIM (Lancaster) — A fashion show for correct horse show ring attire will be the highlight of the Saddle Cinches 4-H Horse and Pony Club meeting at Mastersonville Fire Hall, May 23 at 7:30 p.m.

This is the last meeting where new members can join for the 1988

4-H year. Anyone between the ages of 8 and 18 with an interest in horses is welcome to join. You need not have a horse to join.

For more information about the club, contact: Kendy Allen, 665-7144; Karen Kettering, 665-2534; or Carl Anthony, 653-2406.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

My thoughts are scattered and I'm distracted by many noises this morning. As I reminisce on last night's party for my husband's 70th birthday, I hear a tractor outside the window as my son prepares to haul more manure from the pit. Then there is the loud honking of wild geese in the meadow below the house. A much nearer noise comes from the kitchen chimney where a nest of squirrels or raccoons is nestled on the damper plate just a few feet from the kitchen table. They make the oddest and most irritating noises you can imagine.

I've just read the last chapters in a book that our Bible study group is using. It is called "Her Name Is Woman" by Glen Karssen. This afternoon we will finish the study of twenty-four different women who had an important place in biblical times. Some of them are familiar to most everyone such as: Sarah, Miriam, Esther, Lydia and Priscilla. However, some of the others are not as well known. In fact, I was surprised to learn about Penninah, Rehab and Potiphar's wife. Even as today, there were all kinds of women living in Jesus time.

A few months ago the children of our church presented a program at the morning service. They told the story of a happy time in the life of a village and of a sad time in the same village. It seems that people in this small town greeted each other by exchanging "warm fuzzys" — small balls of yarn. Later an evil witch persuaded some folks to exchange "cold pricklys" when they met. Then everything turned sour and disagreeable in the town until the "warm fuzzys" took over again.

The program ended with children passing out colorful balls of yarn to each member of the congregation. I keep mine by my chair and give it a comforting squeeze now and then.

Life With Berks' County Li'l Miss

Meet Kelly Lynn Biehl, the new Berks County Li'l Miss. On her left stands Cassandra Hartman and the 1987 Berks County Li'l Miss.

Home for Kelly is playing on her Corner View Farm near Kutztown. With Kelly are her brother Bradley and her parents Dalton and Vicki Biehl.

What's life without a brother to share it? Kelly and her eight-year-old brother enjoy many activities together. But sometimes, they do things alone. Here Bradley arranges his baseball cards.

BY LOU ANN GOOD

KUTZTOWN (Berks) — Kelly Lynn Biehl is only five-years-old, but she already knows one of the most important facts she needs to grow strong and healthy. "Drink milk and use real dairy products," she says.

Kelly was crowned the 1988 Li'l Miss Berks County Dairy Princess. That means she will go to places like fairs and stores to hand out balloons and help make ice cream sundas. Her job is to draw attention to dairy products so that people will taste milk, cheese, and ice cream. Usually when people realize how good dairy products taste, they will buy more. That helps the farmer sell more milk.

She likes to help farmers because her daddy is one. Her parents, Dalton and Vicki Biehl, farm 90-acres and milk 45 cows.

Although Kelly has a job promoting dairy products, she still finds time to ride bike, play dolls and ride pedal tractor. Best of all, Kelly likes to play with her eight-year-old brother Bradley. Their daddy built them an outdoor play house. They can climb up the steps and look out over the world. When the weather is bad, they play indoors with the house and barns that their daddy made. It is built to scale to match the one they farm.

Brad likes to sort his 1,200 baseball cards and spend hours typing inventory lists of all the players on the baseball teams.

Kelly will be the Li'l Miss Berks County Dairy Princess for one year. Her county is the only one in the state that has a pageant for four to six years old. According to Phoebe Bitler, coordinator for the pageant, the little girls are a big drawing card in getting people's attention. Maybe someday, when Kelly is a teenager, she will become the state dairy princess.

Flash

My dog's name is Flash. He is a Border Collie. He chases sheep. He helps dad get cows in every morning. He goes in the creek with me and chases sticks. We got him when he was six weeks old. He will be two years old in September. He likes to play ball. He gets it away from me. He likes to play in the hay mow. We fight with each other. He bites me on my legs. One time he gave me a bloody nose and it hurt.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

You may have tried microwaving ground beef or tacos, a casserole or sloppy joes, but have you tried microwaving other beef cuts?

Now there's a new booklet from the Beef Board and Meat Boards Test Kitchens to help you get good results. "Beef is a Microwave Favorite," a 20-page booklet, shows the best beef cuts for microwaving. It gives basic steps for microwaving a tender beef roast and 20 recipes for other beef cuts. The recipes are for fast cooking — most are done in 20 minutes.

The booklet recommends that before you start microwaving beef, you should first become familiar with your microwave, read the instruction book that came with it and practice. (Sounds familiar, doesn't it? — that's just what I said last time, when I wrote about learning to cook any food in your microwave!)

The booklet's recipes are tested in mid-size microwave ovens (0.7 to 1.1 cubic feet) with High power of 600 to 650 watts. Because microwave ovens are different, a range of cooking times are given in some recipes. The booklet suggests you microwave the least amount of time and remember that foods continue to cook during their standing time. If not done, add time in increments of 30 seconds. For the most tender and flavorful beef dishes, the booklet suggests that beef cuts cook best on a lower power setting, such as Medium (50 percent power, 350-300 watts) or Medium Low (30 percent power, about 200 watts). The exceptions are ground beef and reheating cooked beef entrees. These are best microwaved on High.

Another key to successful microwaving of beef is the general rule given: Select the proper cut in an appropriate size — generally tender, boneless cuts in uniform sizes give best results.

Cuts suggested, in addition to ground beef, are mostly tender steaks. Several kinds of less tender steaks are also suggested for special uses. These should be of high quality — for example, prime — because these are more tender than lower grades.

For best results, choose the following cuts for the uses suggested:

- Beef tenderloin steaks, rib eye or top loin: These work well with the aid of a browning dish.
- Beef cubed steaks: These convenient steaks may be cooked whole with a sauce or cut into strips or pieces for use in one-dish recipes.

- Beef top round steaks: These less tender cuts, when of high quality, can be cut into uniform strips for quick cooking in microwave stir-fry dishes or cut in small pieces for stews or other one-dish recipes.

- Beef top sirloin or sirloin steaks: These can also be cut into uniform strips or small pieces to cook quickly for use in salads, sandwiches, kabobs and one-dish recipes.

- Beef flank steak: This less tender cut can be rolled into a pinwheel and micro-braised or cut into strips for quick meal preparation.

When it comes to the best beef roast for microwaving, choose a compact uniformly-shaped boneless cut, which weighs two to three pounds. Examples of boneless roasts are: beef tip (cap off), eye round, top round, rump, top loin and rib eye. Roasting is done at Medium Low with a waxed paper cover. Microwave times vary from 16 to 22 minutes per pound, depending on the cut.

Two of my family's favorites from the booklet are included below. If you'd like all the recipes; plus, more hints and directions for microwaving tender beef roasts, write for your copy of "Beef is a Microwave Favorite." Send 50 cents for each booklet (to cover postage and handling) to: Meat Board, Department BMF, 444 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, IL 60611. Be sure to specify booklet title.

Tangy Beef Barbecue

1 pound beef top round steak, cut ½ -inch thick

1 medium onion, thinly sliced and separated into rings

2 tablespoons brown sugar

1 tablespoon cider vinegar

1 teaspoon each cornstarch

1 teaspoon dry mustard

Hot pepper sauce

½ teaspoon salt (optional)

Cut beef into ½ -inch thick strips; set aside. Place onions in single layer over bottom of 11½ -x 7½ -inch microwave-safe baking dish. Cover with waxed paper and microwave (High) 2 minutes. Arrange beef strips over onions; re-cover. Microwave on Medium (50 percent power, 300-325 watts) 5 minutes. Meanwhile combine catsup, brown sugar, vinegar, cornstarch, dry mustard, hot pepper sauce and salt, mixing thoroughly.

Pour off meat drippings. Stir catsup mixture into beef mixture; re-cover with waxed paper. Continue microwaving on Medium 6 to 8 minutes, stirring after 4 minutes. Arrange muffins on individual plates. Stir beef mixture and spoon an equal portion over each muffin. Makes 4 servings.

(Each serving — without muffin: 231 calories, 27 gm. protein, 6 gm. fat, 16 gm. carbohydrate, 298 mg. sodium, 72 mg. cholesterol.)

Note: You may substitute ¾ -cup original flavor barbecue sauce, 2 teaspoons chili powder and ¼ -teaspoon dried oregano leaves for the catsup, brown sugar, cider vinegar, cornstarch, dry mustard, hot pepper sauce and salt.

Oriental Beef Kabobs

2 tablespoons hoisin sauce*
1 tablespoon dry sherry or apple juice

1 teaspoon brown sugar

½ teaspoon Oriental roasted sesame oil or peanut oil

8 ounces boneless beef sirloin steak, cut 1 inch thick

3 green onions with tops, cut into 2-inch pieces

Combine hoisin sauce, sherry, brown sugar and sesame oil; set aside. Cut beef into ½ -inch thick strips. Alternately weave beef strips and green onions on 8 six-inch bamboo skewers. Arrange in spoke-like fashion on rack in microwave-safe baking dish. Brush with sauce mixture. Cover with waxed paper. Microwave on Medium (50% power, 325-350 watts) 3 minutes. Turn kabobs over, rearranging them so center ones are to outside of dish. Brush with remaining sauce and re-cover. Continue microwaving on Medium 2½ to 3 minutes. Makes 2 servings or 8 appetizer kabobs.

(Each main-dish serving: 244 calories, 27 gm. protein, 9 gm. fat, 4 gm. carbohydrate, 573 mg. sodium, 75 mg. cholesterol.)

*Hoisin sauce is found in Chinese or specialty food shops. It is a thick, sweet brownish red sauce made from soybeans, sugar, spices, garlic and chilis. There is no authentic substitute. However, for good flavor and color in this recipe, you could substitute a mixture of 1 tablespoon soy sauce, 2 teaspoons dark molasses or brown sugar, a dash of garlic powder and a dash of cayenne.

Do you have a question about microwave cooking? Would you like to help in adapting a favorite recipe? Is there a topic you'd like to read about? Write to: Microwave Minutes, c/o Extra Newspaper Features, P.O. Box 6118, Rochester, MN 55903-6118. Please include a self-addressed stamped long envelope.

Recipes in this column are tested in 600- to 700-watt microwave ovens. With an oven of different wattage output, timings may need slight adjustment.

Rocky Mountain™ Honeybee PollenS™

Space-age technology and ancient herbs combined with Rocky Mountain™ Bee PollenS™, the best nature has to offer, in a program for permanent natural weight loss.

Rocky Mountain™ pollen works naturally to correct any imbalance in your metabolism which may be involved in unhealthy weight gain.

Rocky Mountain™ pollen boosts your metabolic rate safely, causing calorie to be burned at a faster rate.

Hunger pangs and cravings are eliminated with the appetite suppressant, phenylalanine.

Best of all, the complete natural nutrition of Rocky Mountain™ pollen protects your health while your losing weight!

No matter how many other diet programs you've tried, don't be discouraged! This one works!

Steven Blauer of the Hippocrates Health Institute says: "Honeybee pollen minimizes, reduces or completely eliminates the normal person's craving for heavy concentrated protein. An additional benefit is that pollen self-digests and aids in the digestion of other foods taken with it. Further, bee pollen contains 15% lecithin by volume and lecithin is the substance that burns fat. As a miracle food from nature, bee pollen is being hailed by scientists and physicians around the world as the hope for total youth."

Drs James Y.P. Chen & L.C. Chu, "Aerospace Medicine & Life Sciences," conducted extensive experiments in feeding honeybee pollen. They found that the average daily consumption of food per subject in the bee pollen fed group was generally 15 to 10% less than in the control group. The decrease was particularly evident between the 4th and 6th weeks of the program.

Your metabolism determines how efficiently your body utilized food intake. Bee-Thin™ with Rocky Mountain™ PollenS™ boosts your metabolic rate safely and naturally, causing calories to be burned at a faster rate.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Airville Club

In early April, the Airville 4-H Club helped with the semi-annual paper drive. At the same time a paper-storage shed was purchased and placed at the Lower Chanceford Township Building. The shed will be open the first Saturday of every month for papers to be dropped off.

During the club's April meeting, the Kennard Dale FFA Parliamentary Procedure team demonstrated parliamentary procedures and the proper way to conduct a business meeting. Two members of the club, Tina and Cecil Hedrick, are members of the Parliamentary Procedure team.

Later in the month, the members helped clean up the community at the trash drive. Subs were made and given to all those who helped.

Keystone Winners

Six Lebanon County 4-H'ers have been named Keystone winners in eight areas of the national awards scholarship program. Keystone winners are semi-finalists in the selection of state 4-H winners in each of 30 program categories. Named were Rebecca Sonnen, dairy; Angela Bollinger, ag career scholarship; Jennifer Allwein, bicycle; Eric Funk, wood science; Matthew Bushong, agriculture; and Rebecca Grumbine, home management, gardening, outstanding 4-H'er.

Rebecca Sonnen is a member of the ELCO 4-H Dairy Club and is currently the reigning Pennsylvania Dairy Princess. An active 4-H'er, Becky has participated in Penn State 4-H Week as a member of the Lebanon County 4-H Dairy Judging team and the 4-H dairy bowl team. In the fall she plans to major in agricultural economics and dairy production at Penn State. Becky is the daughter of Marilyn and Paul Sonen.

Angela Bollinger is also a member of the ELCO 4-H Dairy club, and she serves as the Lebanon County Dairy Princess. In addition to promoting the dairy industry throughout the county, she will serve as secretary for the Lebanon Area Fair. Come fall she will be enrolled in the College of Agriculture at Penn State. Angela is the daughter of Rosene and Donald Bollinger.

Jennifer Allwein is a member of the Cedar Valley 4-H Club and vice president of the 4-H Teen Council. She has participated in many 4-H activities on the county, regional, state and national levels. In addition, she has been a 4-H camp counselor for the past four years. Her plans for the future include attending Western Maryland College. She is the daughter of Mary and John Allwein.

Eric Funk is a member of the Cedar Valley 4-H club and serves as treasurer of the teen council. He has been a teen leader in his 4-H club helping younger members develop their project skills. Eric is the son of Judy and Richard Funk.

Matthew Bushong is a member of the South Mountain 4-H Community club, NoSoAnn 4-H Dairy club, and the Lebanon County 4-H Livestock club. An active 4-H'er, Matt has participated in Penn State 4-H Week as a member of the Livestock Judging team. Matt is the son of Fran and Dale Bushong.

Rebecca Grumbine is a member of the J&M Variety 4-H Club and 4-H Teen Council and has attended many 4-H events on the county, regional, state, and national levels. She has presented demonstration at the National Junior Horticulture Conference, Penn State 4-H Week, and the Lebanon Area Fair. Rebecca is the daughter of Martha and Ray Grumbine.

York County Beef

The York County 4-H Beef Club held its preview show on May 7 at the county fairgrounds. There were 39 members participating.

The heifer show began at 9:15 a.m. followed by showmanship and the baby beef steers. The judge was Robert Hess, manager of Salunga Acres, Mount Joy. Calf Manna and feed pans were given to the first- and second-place winners of the showmanship divisions by Manna Pro Co., represented by Norwood "Mac" McGuigan.

Asparagus Growing And Harvesting

YORK — Growing asparagus is a labor of love. Fresh-picked asparagus is certainly a special treat during the month of May. It's a favorite of "gourmet" and "back-yard" gardeners alike. Low in calories and high in flavor, a serving of four asparagus spears (60 grams) contains only 10 calories. Asparagus growing takes time. Asparagus will only produce fine spears year after year once it is properly established in the garden. A wise gardener will allow the plants two years of growth before they are ever harvested. And, gardeners should restrain from picking a full crop until the fifth year.

Asparagus needs a long growing season, sunny days, and a deep, well-drained sand loam soil. In poorly drained areas following a prolonged heavy rainfall, the plants lose vigor and become more susceptible to root (crown) rot.

Maintain the soil pH between 6.5 and 6.8. Close checks should be made because asparagus does poorly at pH levels below 6.0.

Medium soil fertility is best. Asparagus plants need phosphorous and potassium for maximum spear production. Before planting, broadcast and turn under 7 pounds of 5-10-10 fertilizer (or equivalent) per 100 square feet. If lime is needed, turn it under along with the fertilizer. To improve heavy soil that crusts readily, incorporate generous amounts of manure and organic matter.

Plant healthy, one-year old crowns instead of two- or three-year old ones. Obtain crowns free of Fusarium root rot. As the asparagus grows, carefully fill the furrow with soil. Avoid covering any foliage. Furrows should be filled in by the end of the first growing season. In July, sidedress the plants with 6 pounds of 5-10-10 fertilizer (or equivalent) per 100 feet of row. Spread fertilizer on either side of the asparagus and cultivate lightly into the soil.

It is very important that asparagus plants have two full growing seasons before their spears are picked. The plants must be allowed to develop an adequate storage root system in preparation for the first cropping season. Harvesting or damaging the brush during the first two growing seasons dwarfs the plants and can permanently reduce yield.

In the third year when the first spears emerge in the spring, merely snap off the upper green, tender portion of all tight heads 7 to 10 inches long. Harvest all spears that come up during the harvest season.

Farm Family Feature In Dairy Issue

Since the family is the heart of any dairy farm, we would like to have your family picture in our dairy issue, which will be published June 4. So here is what to do. Choose your favorite family picture and send it to us immediately. We must have it by May 23. It can be a professional or candid snapshot in color or black and white. Identify the persons on the back of the picture. Include your name, address and the county where you live.

Tell us in 25 words or less why your family enjoys living on a dairy farm. Package photo and your response in envelope for mailing. Send to Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 366, Lititz, PA 17543.

Photos will be returned after publication, but we cannot be responsible for lost or damaged photos that happen during the mailing process.

The 2-4-8 week sequence is a good general rule for harvesting: pick for two weeks the third year the plants are in the garden, four weeks the fourth year, and 8 weeks the fifth and following years. One 40-foot row of five-year-old asparagus will yield approximately 10 to 25 pounds of spears during the average season.

When the harvest season is approximately half complete, 5 to 6 inches of soil may be carefully ridged over the row. This lowers the temperature around the crown, increases spear size, and blanches (whitens) the lower portion of the spear. The ridge should be raked level immediately after the last harvest.

If the asparagus is to be consumed later or if one day's harvest is not enough for a meal, wash the spears and place the cut ends on moistened paper towels lining the bottom of a shallow pan. Refrigerate immediately. Good quality can be maintained for several days if they are kept at 35 to 40 degrees F.

Entries Wanted For Dairy Pageant

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin) — The Franklin County Dairy Promotion Committee is making preparations to crown a new Franklin County Dairy Princess. The contest will be held at Kauffman's Community Center on Saturday, June 11, 1988 at 7:00 p.m. The purpose of the Dairy Princess Program is to promote milk and other dairy products.

Contestants are being invited to enter this year's contest and vie for the crown of Franklin County Dairy Princess. To be eligible the girl must live in Franklin County. She must be the daughter of a dairy farmer, herdsman or manager within the last 3 years; or must be the owner of at least two 4-H or FFA dairy animals. She must have completed her junior year of high school and not reach her 24th birthday before the end of the year. She must be single and never married and cannot marry during her reign.

Entry blanks for the contest are available from members of the Franklin County Dairy Promotion Committee and at the Franklin County Extension Office in Chambersburg. Completed entry blanks and photos must be submitted to the extension office by May 20.

Banquet tickets will be available from Dairy Promotion committee members and at the extension office beginning May 25.

Cedar Crest

Recently the Cedar Crest FFA competed in the Eastern Regional Parliamentary Procedure Contest, coming out on top over Eastern-Lancaster County and Annville-

Cleona respectively.

Members of the winning team are Todd Balsbaugh, Brian Boyd, Mardell Boyd, Colette Hower, Jim Houser, Brian Knapp, John Risser, and Ammon Peiffer. Crystal Fox and John Whary were alternates.

Cedar Crest and Eastern-Lancaster County teams will compete at the state competition in June.

May Member Of The Month

Bob Faber, a member of the Allentown FFA Chapter, was selected as the New Jersey FFA Member of the Month for May. The selection process took place at the monthly meeting of the New Jersey FFA Association.

"I have enjoyed very much being a member and officer of the FFA. I have learned many abilities, like leadership and learning to work with other people in competition," commented Faber.

Faber is a four-year FFA'er and has served as parliamentarian, treasurer, and vice president. Since 1985 he has raised pumpkins doing everything from planting to marketing. In 1987 he began working for a landscaper doing things such as planting, mulching, laying sod, mowing grass, and building walls. Faber plans to attend college to earn a degree in landscaping.

In the past, Faber has competed in Fruits & Vegetables, Nursery & Landscape, and Parliamentary Procedures contests.

Each month the New Jersey FFA Executive Committee chooses an outstanding member from applications sent in by 40 chapters. The final decision is based upon the member's involvement in the organization, related work experiences, offices held, and awards received.

Conococheague Chapter

On Wednesday, May 4, members of the Conococheague Chapter of FFA participated in a regional competition at Gettysburg Junior High School.

The Parliamentary Procedure

team placed first. Team members were Steve Jones, Jim Flannery, Greg Weller, Daryl Hawbaker, Corey Martin, Mark Mellott, Nelson Fisher, and Mike Daugherty.

Rick Hissong placed first in conservation public speaking, while Clifford Ocker placed third in public speaking.

The Parliamentary Procedure team, Hissong, and Ocker will be competing next at the state convention in June.

Recycling Potted Mums

(Delaware) — The beautiful potted chrysanthemums that you hopefully received as gifts this winter can be planted out of doors in late April or May, says Jeff Jacobo, Delaware County Extension Agricultural Agent. Once the flowers are faded, cut the plant back to within four inches of the pot and keep it in a cool sunny location, watering when needed. When moved outdoors, plant in a sunny location with a well-drained fertile soil. As the new growth reaches a 4-5" length, pinch or clip out the top 1/2 inch of stem. This will encourage the development of more sideshoots and result in a mass of blooms in the fall. Continue pinching the growth as it develops until the middle of July. By this time the new growth will have supplied enough energy to the terminals for the development of flower buds.

Always keep the plant well-watered throughout the growing season. If your garden soil when originally prepared for planting was well-fertilized and had sufficient organic matter, there should be no reason to add more later. Mulch plants to maintain soil moisture and prevent weed germination.

Unfortunately, you will find that many of the pot mums sold have been greenhouse-forced and are not winter-hardy in our area. So, don't expect the plants to be perennial. Be pleased to get a 2nd bloom from a plant that already provided you with indoor color during the winter. In the future, when purchasing flowering pot mums that you wish to use over and over, make sure they are varieties that are labeled, "hardy." These are more frequently sold in garden centers during late summer and fall.

The Crowning Of A Princess

BY LOU ANN GOOD

LEESPORT (Berks) — Last Saturday night I was lucky enough to serve as one of the judges for the 1988 Berks County Dairy Princess Coronation. Through the experience, I learned that choosing the princess is much more than picking a pretty face or being conned by slick answers.

In the end, Tammy Balthaser, Bernville, was crowned and Linda Latshaw, Alburtis; and Shaun O'Neil, Hamburg, were named alternates.

If you're familiar with the dairy princess program, you know that the winner is generally selected by a panel of three judges who base their decision on the appearance, speaking ability, poise, personality and intelligence of the contestants.

Now, the judges' job is a tough one: their decision often conflicts with the opinions of others who know the contestants better. But, judges only have minor contact with the contestants; sometimes contest-smart teens give slick answers to impress judges rather than expressing their true feelings. Then, too, personalities differ. Each contestant has something to contribute in her own unique style, and to say that one can be more effective than another is debatable.

Nonetheless it was a decision that needed to be made. So I, along with judges, Michael Firestone, vice president and senior agricultural loan officer at Lebanon Valley Bank; and Cheryl Horst, dairy farm wife and coordinator for the Lebanon Dairy Princess committee met last Saturday at 3 p.m.

Scoring

Phoebe Bitler, coordinator for the pageant, gave us a form that served as a guideline for our judging. The guide allowed 35 points for appearance, listing physical characteristics such as proper body weight; nice figure; good posture; becoming hair-do; pleasant smile; white, even teeth; and a clear, healthy complexion.

No doubt some might protest

that the dairy princess pageant is not a beauty contest, but one that needs an effective communicator for the dairy industry. You're right. On the other hand, studies confirm that "first impressions are lasting impressions" and that "what you are speaks louder than what you say." Face it, people are not persuaded to use real dairy products by a person who appears unhealthy or sloppy.

Twenty points were given for speaking ability. Do they speak with an even, clear voice portraying ease of speaking, naturalness, good vocabulary, correct pronunciation, and spontaneity.

Twenty-five points were given for poise and personality demonstrated by confidence, an outgoing personality, friendliness, sincerity, the ability to win over an audience, courtesy, and a ready smile.

Contestants could earn another 20 points by displaying their intelligence and dairy-industry knowledge, their interest in the family farm, an intelligent reason for entering, plans for the future, and how they could aid the dairy industry.

Three Deciding Areas

The scores were based upon the contestants' individual interviews with the judges, their promotional skits and their response to an impromptu question before the audience.

During the individual interviews, each contestant not only shared her knowledge of the dairy industry, but also her personal goals, values, and activities. In addition, she could show her ability to speak intelligently in one-to-one situations.

The original skits demonstrate the rapport the potential princess can establish with an audience. Does she have good eye contact? Is she able to maintain their attention? Does her presentation carry a convincing message?

Then came the most tension-filled moment for the contestants. Individually, they appeared before the audience and answered the impromptu question. In this particular pageant, contestants were asked, "What qualities do you consider of prime importance in finding the ideal husband?"

On the surface this question may have appeared entertaining or perhaps even silly to the audience. But we as judges had ulterior motives. We wanted to determine what qualities the girls consider valuable. Were they dazzled by romance, riches or looks? Or were inner qualities like honesty, diligence, kindness of more importance?

When the scores were tallied, 17-year-old Tammy was declared the new Berks County dairy princess.

As an active 4-H and FFA'er, Tammy boasts an impressive list of awards and accomplishments. Currently, she is president of her senior class at Hamburg High School, member of the National Honor Society, Spanish Club, Ski Club, Principal's Advisory Board and Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD).

Tammy helps her parents, Wilson and LaVerne Balthaser, on their 400-acre farm where they milk 82 Holsteins, Brown Swiss, and Ayrshires. She finds time to squeeze in a part-time job as a tour guide for a local railroad.

With her cow, "Miracle", Tammy entertained the audience. It seems Miracle was tired of munching on green grass and giving milk. Instead she wanted to eat foods like pizza and ice cream. But for every food she wanted to eat, Miracle needed to produce, for it could not be made without dairy products. In the end, the strike sign was replaced with a real dairy product seal and the cow promised to put a miracle in everyone's life by producing real dairy products.

Tammy said the ideal husband should be "hard working, loyal, dedicated, a spouse who takes time for activities and makes room for his wife to develop talents and activities." She informed the audience that she wanted a spouse who was the same type of person as her parents.

Alternate Linda Latshaw is the daughter of Earl and Joyce Latshaw who farm 170 acres and milk 48 Hosteins.

Li'l Miss Contest

The audience's eyes were not entirely on the teen contestants. Six girls between the ages of four to six stole the show when they competed for the Li'l Miss Contest.

Despite their young age, the girls were well versed in the importance of eating dairy foods and farm life. Kelly Lynn Biehl, daughter of Dalton and Vickie Biehl, dazzled the audience with her responses to Toastmaster, Ken Raney, director of membership for Pa. Holstein Association, who questioned the contestants. When he asked what the Real Seal represented, the five-year-old Kelly blurted, "Real dairy products."

Approximately 200 members of the audience voted for the outstanding Li'l Miss. Although it was difficult to choose since so many of the little girls did an outstanding job in answering questions on stage, Vickie Biehl was crowned to assist the reigning dairy princess in handing out dairy products at promotions.

Other Li'l Miss contestants included Shannon Boltz, daughter of Robert Boltz and Angela Jakubowski; Cassandra Hartman, daughter of Edward B. and Diane Hartman near Reading; Ann Melissa Kieffer, daughter of Mark and Debra Kieffer, Myerstown; Abby Kurtz, daughter of Floyd and Beth Kurtz, Fleetwood; and Alicia Lyn Moyer, daughter of Ralph and Crystal Moyer.

The Real Winners

During the months of May and June, "Lancaster Farming" bulges with recording the crowning moments of dairy princesses throughout the state. In these ceremonies, 50 young women are chosen to promote milk and be a spokesperson for their county's dairy industry by appearing at clubs, organizations, schools, fairs, parades, restaurants, supermarkets and in interviews for radio, TV and newspapers.

There are many capable, knowledgeable teens who could do an effective job in promoting dairy products. Judges regret that only one can receive the county crown. But like one contestant said, "Losing is part of life. You feel bad for a few days, but you keep going and soon life is good again."

An answer like that portrays a real winner. It's a valid lesson learned about coping in a world that is not always fair or right.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 1

The May meeting of the Farm Women #1 took place at Dot Bock's home with 19 members in attendance. President Agnes Noll conducted the business meeting, and final plans were made for the members attending the Spring Rally.

Ruth Walters and Evelyn Heacock will help at the hamburger stand at the June 4 Berks Heim Festival.

Lancaster Society 10

Society of Farm Women #10 held their May meeting recently. Marion Long gave a book review on "Pat Nixon: The Untold Story" by Julie Nixon Eisenhower.

A bus trip to Longwood Gardens is being planned, and anyone interested in going should contact Kathryn Hebbe at 717/397-8577 for more details.

Lancaster Society 24

Farm Women Society #24 met at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Groff in Gordonville recently. The Ways and Means Committee reported a profit of $190 from the group's recent rummage sale. The proceeds will be donated to Hospice, the county project.

The evening's program involved basketweaving, and each member made one with instruction from Nora Garber, Helen Groff, and Shirley Joline.

Berks Society 9

On May 4, Group #9 met at Grace Spohn's home in Amityville. Winnie Hayik showed examples of plants and dried herbs and offered samples of lentil soup with herbs, rose geranium butter on herb scones, and lettuce salad with herbs.

On May 31, members will attend a tea hosted by Group #3 in Boyertown. The following day, members from Group #5 will be Group #9's guests at a get-acquainted program at St. Paul's United Church of Christ in Amityville.

Lancaster Society 25

Twenty members of the Farm Women's Society #25 met in Conestoga at Anne Boose's home. Seven members will attend the Spring Rally.

Lois Hess received the surprise gift, and an 80-year pin was presented to Emma Grass of Millersville. Bea Newswanger reported a total of 256 hours spend at the American Heart Association.

Paul Taylor from V.G.I. gave an interesting slide presentation and discussion on how to beat the heat and save energy.

The June 11 meeting will be at the home of Ethel Gerlach, Brethern Home, Lititz Pike. It will be a come-as-you-are program.

Lancaster Society 26

The Society of Farm Women #26 met at the Neffsville Mennonite Church where the entertained Society #25. A covered-dish meal followed devotions.

Marian Leaman discussed being fun to live with.

Berks Executive Board Meeting

The Berks County Farm Women Executive Board meeting was held in early May at the Ag Center.

The Berks Heim Festival will be held on June 4 and 5, where the Farm Women societies will be operating the hamburger wagons.

A flower exhibit is scheduled for the Reading Scenic River Festival.

Berks Society 4

Farm Women Society #4 recently met in Boyertown, and each member present was given a potted plant in honor of Mother's Day.

Paul Mauger, New Berlinville fire chief, presented a video program on fires and a fire's stages. A discussion period followed.

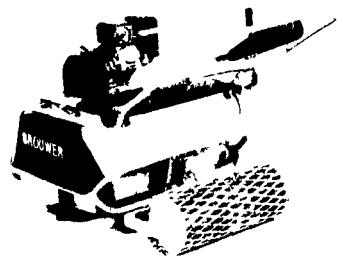

The June meeting will be a youth program hosted by Virginia Taylor of Boyertown.

- Powered blades with adjustable depth seed slits at 2 1/2 in. spacing
- Offset wheels to cover seed
- Calibrated seed flow through stainless steel slides
- 5 hp engine and H.D. drive
- Adjustable fold-away operator handle for easy transport and storage

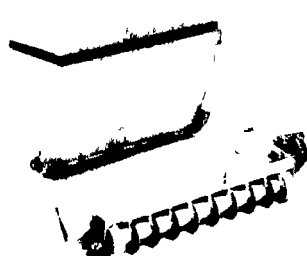

SEEDING

The exact placement of seed, in the right quantity, gives you the perfect seed bed for better germination and finer quality lawns

OVERSEED

Better results because the seed flow is carefully calibrated, the grooves cut and the seed covered

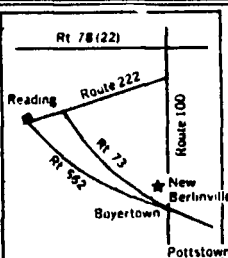

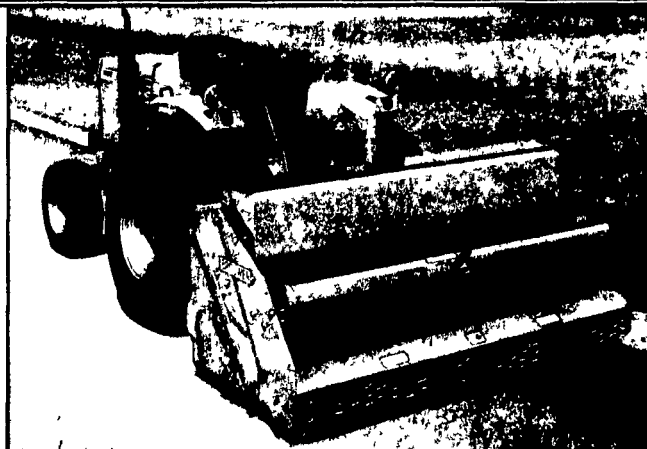

OPTIONS

The choice is yours. The seeder can be bought with or without the overseeder unit or the fertilizer box. These can be added afterwards when needed and for those larger areas...

The Lawnmaker 67 seeder, is a larger capacity seeder/fertilizer ruggedly built to last. It has adjustable teeth for loosening up hard soil and a levelling bar for uneven areas. There are stainless steel hopper bottoms and control slides, free floating suspension on two open mesh rollers, easy to reach controls, and it can seed up to 2 acres (0.8 ha) per hour. Designed to give outstanding performance

Preparing Children To Stay Home Alone

NEWARK, De. — This summer literally millions of school-age children will be at home — alone.

As children of working parents, these youngsters either do not have the opportunity to attend summer programs or have chosen not to do so. "In many Delaware communities, there are more children than can be served by organized summer activities," says Debbie Amsden, University of Delaware Extension home economist.

"A number of these youngsters are pre-adolescents who want to establish their independence by not attending supervised summer activities. At some point, working parents are faced with the question of when a child can be left on his own," says Amsden.

"Since these school-age children will be responsible for their own safety and activities for most of the day," Amsden says, "their parents should make sure the children know how to handle normal household situations and tasks, as well as emergencies."

Parents should always leave an updated list of phone numbers for the doctor, police, fire department, parents' work places and a nearby relative or neighbor. They should also establish procedures for answering the phone or responding to an unexpected visitor at the door.

"Frequently children are told not to answer the phone at all, which is probably not a good alternative, should an emergency arise," Amsden says. "Other parents establish a code system to identify themselves, such as ringing twice, hanging up and calling back."

"Another solution," she says, "is for the child to take a message, saying only that the parent cannot come to the phone right now. If the call is important, the child can pass the message on to the parent at work."

Although some parents prefer that the child not answer the doorbell, others allow their children to answer if they follow certain safety rules, Amsden says. "Children should never allow repairmen or deliverymen into the home unless expected, and the repairmen should present the proper ID under the door. Also, the child should never answer a request from a stranger to use the bathroom or telephone. Prepare the child to respond to these questions by directing the visitor to a public facility, the home economist says.

Children should be trained in first aid, so they can handle small emergencies such as minor cuts, scrapes, nosebleeds and minor burns. "Let the child know that it's OK to call if there is an emergency," Amsden says. "The worst thing a child can do is to hide a problem that he or she has caused for fear of bothering the parent."

Small crises should be planned for. These include being locked out (leave a key with a neighbor or in a special hiding place), power failure (know where flashlights and circuit breaker box are located), plumbing leaks (know where the shut-off valves for each sink or toilet are located), and broken glass (know how to clean it up or cover with cloth and mark it "off limits" until parents get home).

The possibility of larger emergencies, such as fire, should be considered also. Establish safety procedures and practice them. In case of fire, children should understand that the most important thing to do is to get out of the house," Amsden says. "They should not try to put out a small fire or go back into the house to get anything. They should practice how to leave a smoking room and what to do if clothes catch on fire."

Consider preparing a severe-weather kit with portable radio, flashlight and supply of food that needs no cooking or refrigeration, Amsden says.

Parents need to set guidelines for normal situations as well. "It's important to let children know what they can do while their parents are at work," the home economist says. "The children need to know where they can go and how to let someone know where they are, who can come over and what they can do together."

Parents can leave notes or even a tape recording telling children what they can eat that day and which chores they must complete. "They need to know if their meals will be left for them or if they should prepare their own. Establish a routine or the children could occupy their time by eating," Amsden says.

Rules regarding appliances should be set. Some major appliances that parents may want the child to avoid include stoves, food processors, meat slicers or irons.

What chores the child should do and the amount of time spent on the telephone or watching television should be clearly stated. "If brothers and sisters are home together, establish ground rules. They should know whether one is responsible for all or if they can operate independently," the home economist says.

Amsden says expectations or guidelines should be developed because they anticipate problems and arrange for solutions in advance. They also provide structure for children and help them feel secure.

Ideally, the child should participate in creating the guidelines. "Expectations should be stated in a positive manner and reasonable deadlines should be set," Amsden says. "For example, breakfast dishes should be washed and the table set for dinner by 5 p.m."

"Parents must check and be consistent, but they must also be flexible and remember that mistakes will happen. It takes time to teach your children how to be responsible for themselves."

Berks Society 3

Farm Women Society #3 held its April meeting at Joan Loeb's home in Oley. The guest speaker was Paivi Perkio, an exchange student from Finland.

Plans were finalized for attending the Spring Rally. Group #3 will host Group #9 on May 31 at the Boyertown borough hall social room.

A report was given on the volunteer's dinner at Berks Heim, which two members attended. Thank you cards were received from the American Heart Association and the Food Ministry Committee of Reading for recent donations.

The next meeting will be on nutrition at Lillian Bucks' home.

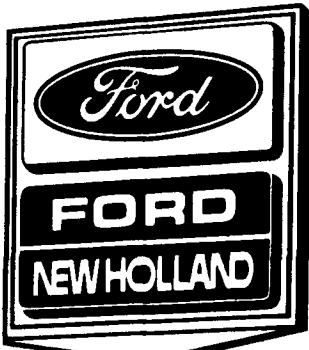

Lebanon Society 20

The May meeting of Farm Women #20 has held at Sarah Funck's home, with roll answered by members showing and describing an antique.

The evening's hostess, Sarah Funck was also the speaker, talking on how she came to collect antiques.

Two To Compete For York Crown

YORK — Two York County women will compete for the York County Dairy Princess title, during annual pageant activities beginning 8 p.m., Saturday, May 28, at the 4-H Center.

Contestants Linda Saylor and Sue Eisenhart will be evaluated by a panel of judges on personal interviews, impromptu questioning on stage and an original milk and dairy product promotional presentation.

Linda Saylor is the 21-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Saylor, Jerusalem School Road, Mt. Wolf. She is employed by Conrad's Delicatessen and is a 1985 graduate of Northeastern High School.

In 1987, Linda was named a York County Dairy Maid and has participated in milk promotional events for the princess program. A four-year veteran of the March of Dimes Walk America program, Linda also enjoys reading, bowling, volleyball and assisting with the family's 35-head milking herd of Holsteins.

Sue Eisenhart is the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Eisenhart, Thomasville R1. A senior at Spring Grove Area School, she will attend York College in September to major in accounting.

As 1987 alternate Dairy Princess, Sue has represented the county dairy industry at local and regional dairy promotions. She is editor of the school yearbook, basketball statistician and a ten-year member of the 4-H program. Sue is employed on the Eisenhart Brother's 100-head dairy farm and owns ten head of registered Jerseys.

Both the 1988 Dairy Princess and alternate will attend a training seminar in July and the princess will represent York County at the September state pageant in Harrisburg.

Birches In The Landscape

YORK — There is abundant literature on the birches and to sift through it all is akin to sieving the sand on the beaches of the world.

Michael A. Dirr, Manual of Woody Landscape Plants

Start with any home landscape large or small. Plant a birch and you have a truly distinctive tree with many interesting features. Most outstanding is the bark. They range from pure white of the paper or canoe birch to light mahogany of the river birch. And, the autumn color of the foliage is always a clear and brilliant yellow.

Birches used for landscaping are usually small to medium in size. On small properties, they can be grown in spaces too small for other trees due to their small leaves. Therefore, plants can be grown nearby or under them. Growing clumps of three or four birches makes a pleasing change from the more common, single trunk tree.

The winter effect of the white birches is outstanding. Especially with an evergreen background like pine or spruce. For special effects use birches as a background for plantings of red-stemmed dogwoods like Cornus alba "Sibirica."

Pest Control on Birches

Birches are susceptible to two serious insect pests. If not properly controlled, these pests mar their effective use as ornamentals. The first is the bronze birch borer, a small grub about ½ - 1" long which feeds just under the bark. If present in sufficient numbers they often kill the tree. To prevent newly hatched larvae from chewing their way into the wood, thoroughly spray branches and trunk with lindane during the first and third week of June. Treat the entire tree, especially the upper part.

The other insect, the birch leaf miner, eats its way between the upper and lower layers of the leaf. The entire tree may turn brown during severe infestations. Spray with either Carbaryl, Dimethoate, Imidan or Acephate in mid-May and again in late June.

Cultivars of Birches

The Monarch Birch's trunk and principal branches are white. The leaves are the largest of all the birches and the catkins are extremely long in comparison to other species. This birch is medium sized approximately 45' in height, yet vigorous in rate of growth.

The River Birch is pyramidal while young with reddish-brown or mahogany colored bark which exfoliates or peels off in thin layers producing a slightly shaggy appearance. This birch can be used in wet locations where other trees may not be satisfactory although it does not require wet soils. Since the River Birch is somewhat more resistant to the birch borer than other species, is suitable for moist areas and has exfoliating bark, it deserves to be planted more than it is.

Paper Birch has the whitest, smoothest bark of all the birches. Its branches are white and the leaves are slightly glossy which turn golden yellow in autumn. Paper birch is the most popular of the birches for ornamental use and is less susceptible to severe attacks of the birch borer than European Birch.

Sue Eisenhart, right, and Linda Saylor will compete for the 1988 York County Dairy Princess title.

Care of School Age Youth —

Major Social Disease

Penn State and USDA
Latch-key children or

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, May 21, 1988-B23 school-age children without supervision is a major social issue facing the nation. In December 1984, a study was conducted by the Bureau of the Census to determine the number of children 5 to 13 years of age who are without adult supervision during non-school hours. The resulting report focused on after-school care, but care during other times of the day was also examined.

There were 29 million children between the ages of 5 and 13 enrolled in school in December, 1984. Eight million of these children (28%) regularly spent time either alone or supervised by someone other than a parent during non-school hours. Of these 8 million children, 2.4 million (8%) were either alone or supervised by an adult other than parents before school, 7.1 million (25%) after school, and 1.7 million (6%) at night. The majority of these children were cared for by another adult (for this study anyone over 14 years old). Only 580,000 (2%) were unsupervised by an adult before school, 2 million (7%) after school, and 290,000 (1%) at night. As would be expected, the number of children not cared for by an adult varied markedly by age, from 1% of 5 year olds to 14% of 13 year olds.

The children who had parental care only, tended to be in geographically isolated areas, have mothers who did not complete high school or had parents who did shift work.

Children in higher income households and children with mothers who were better educated or were professionals were more likely to be without adult supervision after school. Black children were more likely than white children to be cared for by a parent, adult sibling or other relative while more white children were cared for by a non-relative or cared for themselves.

When compared to a similar survey done in 1965, the number of elementary school-age children whose mothers worked full time more than doubled from 18% in 1965 to 37% in 1984. However, when similar studies from 1974 and 1984 are compared, the number of full time working mothers increased from 1974 to 1984 while the number of children without adult supervision actually decreased from 16% to 12%. Perhaps the increasing availability of daycare accounts for some of this decrease. It should be noted though that there are still 12% or nearly 3.5 million U.S. children who do not have adult supervision after school. More programs need to be developed and put into practice to provide these children with responsible adult supervision.

BEFORE WE BUILT THE NEW FORD COMPACT DIESELS, WE ASKED YOU HOW YOU'D BUILD THEM

Your servicing.

To give you easy access to the engine, the entire hood pivots forward. Service points are easily accessible, to speed routine maintenance.

Your hydraulic power.

Increased pump capacity lets you do more with the built-in live hydraulics. There's a separate power steering pump, so you don't have to steal capacity from the main system to steer the tractor.

Your control.

Every model gives you a choice of transmissions to match your kind of work. Shift and range levers are up off the floor, in easy reach and out of the way of your feet.

Your comfort.

The entire driver's platform has been redesigned to maximize your comfort and simplify operation. All pedals, levers and other controls are within easy reach.

Ford

Your efficiency.

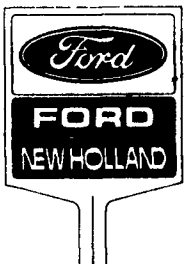

Fuel-efficient diesel engines and large fuel tanks extend your working time between refueling stops. Quick starting gets you going fast.

Your performance.

Bigger engines don't have to work as hard as small ones to produce full-rated horsepower. So we gave our engines a large displacement.

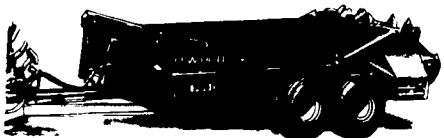

Your handling.

Improved hydrostatic power steering gives you extra maneuverability and driving ease in close-quarters work. Responsive draft control automatically adjusts implement depth as field conditions change.

America's First Tractor With Glide Shift Transmission

How do you improve the work you do with a tractor?
Maybe you're in light construction. A weekend farmer. Or a commercial cutter.

Maybe you're a farmer with a number of general chores to do.
Like growing vegetables or tobacco. Or working an orchard.

Now there's a diesel tractor that'll make all the work you do easier, faster and better.

The Kubota L2550GST.

The GST part stands for Glide Shift Transmission. And at Kubota, we're pretty proud of what it'll do for you.

So take a look at the L2550GST story inside. Then see us for a test drive.

Common House Hold Products Can Endanger Your Health

SCRANTON (Lackawanna) — Scientists are discovering that common products in our homes like particleboard shelves, plastic pipes, paints and even pillows and jewelry may be endangering our health. The problem, says experts, is that although some products may be well within health guidelines, the cumulative effect of multiple products can be cause for alarm.

Cigarette Smoke

Heading the list of potential indoor air health hazards is cigarettes. Cigarette smoke, which is dangerous to non-smokers as well as smokers, may be responsible for more than two-thirds of household pollution. According to a study conducted by the EPA, the homes of smokers had 30 to 50 times more poisonous benzene than did smokeless homes.

Tobacco smoke is difficult to control or eliminate from a home because it subsides slowly and is readily absorbed by all indoor surfaces. While helpful with other pollutants, recent studies show whole house ventilation systems have difficulty creating an air exchange rate that will move and filter sufficient quantities of smoke to eliminate the health risks to smokers and nonsmokers alike.

Formaldehyde

According to the EPA, formaldehyde is a suspected human carcinogen. An organic compound, it is often found in paneling, plywood, particleboard, furniture, draperies, carpet backing, draperies and urea-formaldehyde insulation. Mobile homes, which are tightly constructed and include relatively large quantities of formaldehyde in the walls, floors and cabinets may be especially prone to sickhouse problems.

This is especially true when new products containing formaldehyde can "off-gas" causing a pickle-like odor, as well as eye, nose and throat irritation, nosebleeds, headaches, nausea and dizziness.

After a few months, the emissions decrease.

Urea-formaldehyde insulation (foam), which was used extensively in the '70's, was suspected of precipitating various health problems. As a result, the controversial insulation was banned in 1982. Individual batches were mixed at each site, where conditions varied widely, and it was impossible to set standards. Although the ban was overturned by a federal appeals court a year later, the adverse publicity had already forced manufacturers out of business.

Families who lived with the foam insulation for years and have not experienced any ill effects probably should not worry now. After the first year of installation, the amount of emission decreases to half; after five to ten years, foam-insulated houses are generally the same as homes without it.

Asbestos

Asbestos, another widely used building material has recently received a great deal of attention. Long prevalent in the manufacture of acoustical and thermal insulating materials, wall and pipe insulation, ceiling and floor tiles plus a host of other construction materials, the dangers from inhaling air-borne particulates from damaged or powder-like asbestos products has been well documented by researchers. It has been found to be a powerful cause of lung cancer, gastrointestinal cancer and asbestosis, a disabling, nonmalignant, hardening and thickening of lung tissue. Due to health hazards, the EPA has banned its use.

Radon

A major source of indoor pollution, radon may be the second leading cause of lung cancer in the United States. Radon is a colorless, odorless, tasteless, naturally occurring radioactive gas produced during the decay process of uranium or radium in rocks (i.e. granite, shale phosphate and pitchblende). It is also found in soil contaminated with byproducts from uranium or phosphate mining and industrial wastes. Pennsylvania has one of the highest concentrations of radon in the United States.

Radon gas moves through the soil and enters homes through dirt floors, floor drains, sump pump openings and small cracks in hollowblock or concrete walls and floors. Radon in private water supplies can be released as the water is used in daily activities. Large community water supplies are usually not a problem because radon gas would be reached into the outdoor air and diluted before the water reached the home.

The only way to know if radon exists in your home is to test for it. Two popular and commercially-available detectors are available for this purpose; the charcoal canister and the alpha track detector. Both are placed in the house for a specified period of time, then sent to a laboratory for analysis.

These testing devices can be obtained by calling the Radon Project Office in Gilbertsville, PA at 1-800-23-RADON or by contacting the Environmental Protection Agency Public Information Center at 820 Quincy Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20011.

House Hold Products

Agency found that the vapor created in your shower, bath, kitchen sink and washing machine may contain chloroform, a byproduct of chlorination and a suspected carcinogen. Hot showers are worse than baths because the droplets sprayed out of the shower head are mixed with the air much more thoroughly than the water pouring into a bath.

Carbon Monoxide

Carbon monoxide, produced from faulty natural-gas heating systems, adjacent garages and street traffic, has increased as our homes have been sealed better. Furnaces, gas water heaters and clothes dryers that are improperly vented or maintained, can build up enough carbon monoxide to be life-threatening.

Gas stoves also can present problems resulting from carbon monoxide and nitrogen dioxide emissions. Orange or yellow tips of flames, rather than blue, indicate trouble.

Radiation

Color television sets manufactured before 1970 are of concern because they can emit X-rays. The amount of exposure depends on how close you sit to such sets. As a result, the EPA recommends that these older sets not be used as display screens for home computers and video games.

Chemicals

Dangerous organic chemicals are contained in products such as cleaning agents, furniture and floor polishes, plastics, bleach, pesticides, disinfectants, paint, paint remover and glue.

Aerosol sprays are another source of problems. There are a lot of chemicals involved in aerosols, and some are carcinogens or cause kidney problems. Aerosols scatter products into the air in a fine, easily breathable mist. The propellants used in aerosols are mostly organic compounds, including methylene chloride, which causes cancer in some laboratory animals and may pose a cancer hazard to humans.

Old paint (made before 1970) can be a source of poisonous lead, as can glazes from some pottery. Unless you know the provider or have written confirmation that the glaze is lead-free, don't put food in the pottery.

Liquid paint and varnish removers are among the most toxic products used in homes and workshops. Special care and precautions should be taken when they are used, such as providing proper ventilation and wearing protective clothing. Some people are more at risk when exposed to paint removers and their fumes. Older persons

YORK (York)—Several attractive native plants to Pennsylvania require little care. These plants can be used as large shrubs or small trees. They include dogwood, redbud, shadbush, witchhazel and striped maple. Consider these native plants especially for low maintenance areas. Why? They or people in poor health should not use strippers. Children and pets should not be allowed in areas where paint removers are being used or where fumes from them are present in the air. Smokers are at high risk.

Solvents used to bond some plastic water pipes have been found to release substances (chloroform and carbon tetrachloride) that can cause cancer.

Some shoe polishes, especially those that contain trichlorethylene, methylene chloride or nitrobenzene, can be dangerous.

Air fresheners contain chemicals that can irritate and burn the skin. Also, oven cleaners that contain lye or other strong chemicals can be dangerous.

Recognizing these actual and potential dangers is the first step to solving indoor air quality problems. From here, it is possible to eliminate some problems and minimize others.

Easy To Grow Native Plants

require little or no pruning, are hardy in most sites, and have few pest problems. Each of these native plants add a seasonal interest not easily found in other plants. All will work well alone or in plant groups with other plant materials.

Pagoda dogwood — Cornus alternifolia is a multi-stemmed shrub or small tree. It reaches 20 to 25 feet in height with a somewhat horizontal-layer growth habit.

Inconspicuous light yellow flowers bloom from late spring to early summer. Summer leaf color is a deep green. Fall color is a reddish purple and doesn't contrast too strongly with other plants. The purplish-brown stem adds winter color to the landscape.

Pagoda dogwood does well in full sun or as an understory plant in a border. It does need well-drained acidic soil, that remains moist all season. It has few pest problems and needs little if any pruning.

Eastern redbud — Cercis canadensis can be a multi-stemmed shrub or small tree, reaching a height and spread of 30 feet. As it matures, the bark becomes quite rough and reddish. Younger stems maintain a dark purplish-brown color.

It's large heart-shaped leaves have a deep bluish-green, followed by a clear yellow fall color. Once the foliage drops in the fall, the three inch long, pea pod fruit becomes visible and remains into winter. Fruit color is a deep brown.

Redbud's period of beauty is late April or early May, when its small rosy-pink flowers open. Redbud thrives in a border where the root system is shaded by other shrubs. It grows best in rich, deep, loamy, well-drained soils.

Shadbush — Amelanchier canadensis is a multiple-stemmed small tree ranging from eight to 20 feet tall with narrow vase-shape. The smooth gray stems are interesting all year and contrast well with the white flowers that open in mid-to late April. Summer foliage is small and deep green. Fall leaf color can range from scarlet to yellow, depending on the seed source of the plants.

Shadbush trees do well in full sun or partial shade where the soil is moist, well-drained and slightly acidic. The plants need little or no pruning to maintain their quality and form.

Common witchhazel — Hamamelis virginiana is a broad-leaf spreading large shrub up to 25 feet tall. Prune it to several trunks to form a small tree. The yellow thread-like flowers are a welcome addition to the fall landscape, since it is one of the few plants to flower as late as October to November.

There's A MIRACLE
Under the SUN.

AGRI-TECHNOLOGY! We believe that modern methods, combined with the MIRACLE of growth provided by the SUN, will continue to make farming America's most important industry. For that reason our logo/symbol depicts a modern "M" under the round SUN. MIRACLE FEEDS, Inc., "Your By-Product Specialists", has combined nature's best products with human technology to bring you PROGRESS and PROFITS.

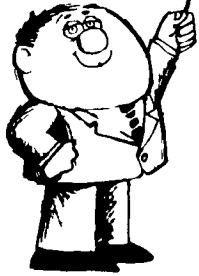

"Your By-Products Specialists" WHAT ARE WET BREWERS GRAINS?

By Products from the brewing, food and other related industries represent a valuable source of nutrients. Miracle Feeds markets these by products both in Canada and the United States.

The livestock producer benefits through the Miracle Feeds custom tailored by product feeding programs designed to enhance productivity.

In the brewing of beer, only the highest quality barley and other cereal grains are used. Wet brewers grains are the portion of the grains that remain following the extraction of carbohydrates that takes place in the brewing process. They provide protein, fat and unextracted carbohydrates as well as essential minerals.

SLICK CONCRETE CAN BE ROUGHENED

SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of cattle. The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximately 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as before. It is near enough to the surface to give your cows full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to remain effective for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.

And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.

Get outstanding value in EVERY Eby trailer.

Whether it's a top-of-the-line Ruff Neck or an economical Wrangler, you know your livestock trailer is built to last if it's from Eby.

Aluminum construction is one of the main reasons these trailers are so durable and reliable. They'll never rust through or need welding. In fact, without ever being painted, an Eby livestock trailer will stay looking new for years.

Standard features make your Eby trailer a profitable investment. Extra-heavy axles, brakes, wheels and tires. Thick aluminum sheet flooring. Sturdy posts and rails. Even an aerodynamically designed front end is standard.

And, while standard features make even the economical Eby Wrangler far more than an average economy-model, we custom-build everything we make. So you tell us what you want. Choose from a long list of options. Select those features you need for your particular operation. Whether it's a Wrangler or deluxe Ruff Neck, the trailer you buy will be the trailer you need.

Call or write for more information and the name of the Eby dealer nearest you.

Properly Stored Poultry Manure Can Be Valuable

COLLEGE PARK, MD — Delmarva broiler producers who pay others to clean the manure out of their poultry houses may be short-changing themselves. With such manure worth up to $50 per ton for cropland application, perhaps chicken farmers should be charging crop farmers at least a token amount for poultry manure guaranteed to have a high nutrient analysis.

Even if crop farmers pay an additional $2 per ton for hauling the manure 10 miles or less, they still could be getting a good bargain, says James M. Downes, regional farm management specialist at Queenstown for the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service.

The nutrient analysis can be determined by submitting manure samples to the University of Maryland's soil testing laboratory at College Park, Downes noted. This free service is being underwritten by a Maryland Department of Agriculture grant in support of the Chesapeake Bay initiatives program.

Many farmers who raise both crops and chickens are well aware of the value of poultry manure, Downes observed. And some of them have built covered storage areas to keep nutrients from leaching out during seasons when the manure can't be spread and plowed under immediately.

Downes recommends that farmers who don't have roofed storage areas for their manure piles consider plastic coverings weighted down with used automobile tires.

To help illustrate how valuable manure can be, V. Allan Bandel, fertilizer and soil testing specialist at College Park for the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, has developed a computer software package. The program can place monetary values for individual lots of manure, depending on their nutrient analysis.

Based on this program, average values for various types of manure tested during the last two years at The University of Maryland ranged from $2.90 per ton for average horse manure to as much as $53.35 per ton for high-grade poultry manure. Average values were as follows:

Poultry manure	$26.23 per ton
Hog manure	25.74 per 1,000 gal.
Cow manure	4.40 per ton
Horse manure	2.90 per ton

Dr. Bandel points out that these average values are skewed by the fact that moisture content varies considerably for different types of manure. Cow manure, for instance, often contains 80 percent moisture, while poultry manure normally has less than half as much moisture.

It may take five to twelve tons of poultry manure per acre to satisfy the nitrogen requirements of a high-yielding corn crop, Bandel reports. But less than one ton per acre often satisfies a corn crop's potassium requirements.

Many manure spreaders are not accurate at rates of less than five tons per acre. Applying high-grade poultry manure even at this minimum rate would satisfy all of the nutrient requirements of corn except for nitrogen. Such an application could be worth up to $61 per acre at today's fertilizer prices, according to Bandel's computer program.

You can see the computer program for manure analysis in action by a visit to a local office of the Cooperative Extension Service in any Maryland county. While there, ask for copies of free leaflets on manure management and calibration of manure spreaders.

You can also borrow without cost a videotape presentation which covers these topics and presents information on how to submit manure samples for testing at The University of Maryland. Don't forget to ask for a free manure sample kit.

ASCS Requires Certification

BERKS COUNTY — When farmers apply for 1988 farm programs, they will be required to comply with sodbuster and swampbuster provisions of the Food Security Act of 1985 during the 1988-crop year, said Donald E. Lutz, chairman of the Berks County ASC Committee.

Under the conservation provisions, a farmer who brings into production a field that is predominantly highly erodible land, or who converts wetland to production of an agricultural commodity will be ineligible for any farm program benefit or payment on his or her entire farm or farms.

To participate in the 1988 programs, Lutz said farmers are required to certify that they have not planted an agricultural commodity on highly erodible land since December 23, 1985, the date the Food Security Act became law. Producers also must certify that they are not producing agricultural commodities on land that was converted from wetland since that date.

Farmers who have recently planted an agricultural commodity on highly erodible land are required to certify that they are producing the crop under an approved conservation plan, Lutz said. The conservation plan includes specific, cost-effective measures that will allow farmers to produce crops without excessive erosion, he said.

Berks County has about 60,000 acres of highly erodible agricultural land. Farmers who produce crops on these fields without following an approved conservation system will be ineligible for price and income supports, disaster payments, crop insurance, Farmers Home Administration loans, farm storage facility loans and other USDA program benefits.

Crawford County Girl Named 1988 Northwest Maple Queen

MEADVILLE (Crawford) — Vonda Burchard R.D. 1, Guys Mills, PA, 18-year-old daughter of Bruce and Nancy Burchard, was named the 1988 Northwest Maple Queen at the seventh annual Maple Queen Contest, held on May 4, 1988, at the Northwestern Rural Electric Cooperative Association meeting room.

Vonda was the 1987 Northwest Alternate Maple Queen, and has hands-on experience in maple-syrup production. She attends Maplewood High School and is enrolled in the Vo-Tech Cosmetology Course of study. She has been active in school and community activities such as cheerleading, softball, ski club, student council and participated in parades, fairs and other activities as alternate Maple Queen. Vonda is involved in the production of maple syrup with her family and enjoys promoting the natural product.

In order to qualify for the contest, the contestants must live in Pennsylvania; have knowledge of the maple syrup operation; have reached her 17th birthday by the date of the state contest in September and not have reached her 21st birthday by December 31 of the year of the contest; be single; never have married; and be willing to represent the maple industry in local events. The candidates are judged on appearance, speaking ability, poise, personality, intelligence and knowledge of the maple industry. Each contestant gave a three to five minute presentation about herself and why she would like to be the 1988 Northwest Maple Queen.

The judges for the contest were Louise Glover, Waterford, reporter for Brown-Thompson newspaper; Ruby Kimball, Wattsburg, maple producer's wife and mother of former Maple Queen Lesa Kimball; Nancy Gage, Cambridge Springs, wife of a maple producer.

Dennis Northrop, Association President, was master of ceremonies for the program. Paul Holabaugh, director of the N.W. Maple Producers Association, introduced the program planning committee composed of Mrs. Charles Herrick, Mrs. Eugene Running, both of Cambridge Springs, and Mr. Holabaugh. In addition, he introduced the 1988 Maple Queen contestants and the judges.

Paula Holabaugh, 1987 N.W. Maple Queen and 1987-88 Pennsylvania Maple Sweetheart, crowned Vonda Burchard as the 1988 N.W. Maple Queen and presented the gifts. Paula also gave a presentation on her many activities as 1987 N.W. Maple Queen. Door prizes were presented on her many activities as 1987 N.W. Maple Queen. Door prizes were presented by Mrs. Herrick and Mrs. Running. Mrs. Running is Secretary for the Association.

The 1988 N.W. Maple Producers' officers and Board of Directors are as follows: President - Dennis Northrop, Corry; Vice-President - Paul Holabaugh, Meadville; Treasurer - Kay Allen, Corry; Mrs. Eugene Running, Secretary; John Deets, Titusville; Charles and Dorothy Herrick, Cambridge Springs; Tim Tobin, Edinboro; Ernest Allen, Corry, alternate; all are directors of the Association.

FARM CREDIT SCHOLARSHIP WINNER

WEST CHESTER — Tiffany Laura Rohrer has been selected as the recipient of Southeast Farm Credit Service's 1988 scholarship award.

A senior at Oxford High School, Tiffany is the daughter of Robert and Joan Rohrer of Nottingham, Chester County; she will enter the University of Delaware to major in animal science.

In addition to being very active and successful in her 4-H and FFA activities, Tiffany is the 1988 Pennsylvania Angus Queen, vice president of the Oxford High School National Honor Society, co-editor of the school newspaper, a staff writer for the yearbook, listed in "Who's Who Among High School Students, 1988" and plays varsity on two of Oxford's teams.

Tiffany will attend the National Institute on Cooperative Education which will be held July 26-29 in Rochester, N.Y. She is being sponsored by the Pusey L. Moore Memorial Fund in conjunction with the Chester-Delaware Cooperative Council of the Pennsylvania Association of Farmer

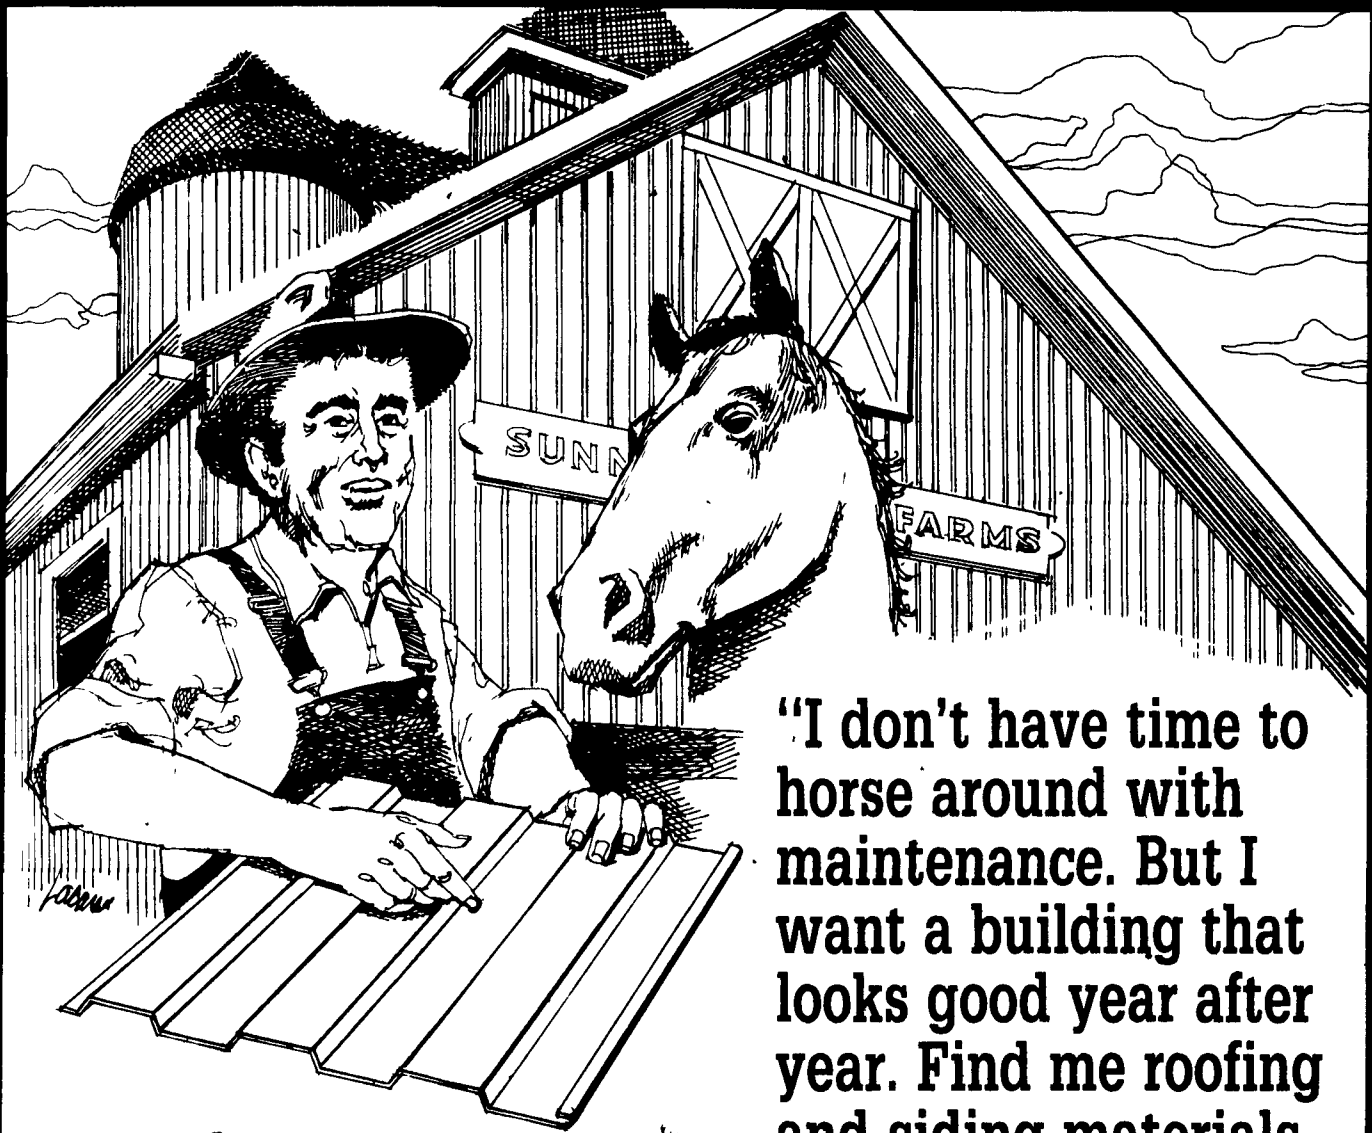

Tiffany Rohrer

Cooperatives.

Tiffany is Southeast's seventh $500 scholarship award winner. Her brother, Rob, a freshman at the University of Delaware, won last year's scholarship. Applicants must reside in the five county Philadelphia, be a high school senior, and plan to major in a field of agriculture or agri-business at a four-year college on a full-time basis.

Southeast Farm Credit serves the financial needs of farmers and rural residents with short-, intermediate-, and long-term loans in Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Montgomery and Philadelphia counties. Offices are located in Avondale, West Chester, and Silverdale with an outpost office in Creamery.

Bale Accumulator

The Steffen Systems Bale Accumulator conveniently and easily packages up to ten 2-tie bales or eight 3-tie bales into a uniform arrangement which can easily be handled by one of the Steffen Systems loaders. The fully automatic electric over hydraulic controls operate the accumulator without the need of an operator. With its quick and smooth functions, there is no need to slow down the baler to allow for proper functioning of the machine. Also available for use in 2-tie bales is an optional tie bar.

Bush Hog's Rotary Tiller Will Save Time, Money

MOBILE, AL — Bush Hog's new RTS rotary tiller series for tractors up to 50 HP produces a high quality seedbed in one pass through the field.

"By making multiple trips through the field with other tools unnecessary, the RTS rotary tiller produces significant savings in time, fuel and equipment," said Robert O. Moore, vice president, sales. "Since the RTS series is priced lower than its competition, you don't have to pay extra up front for these savings."

Available in 38-, 50- and 62-inch cutting widths, the chain-driven RTS tillers can be offset three to six inches to the left or right of the tractor center line, depending on the model. That not only makes it easier to till close to obstructions but it also covers the tractor's tracks and reduces soil compaction.

The offset is made possible by a newly designed through shaft gearbox that keeps the driveline in line with the tractor. Drive-line protection is provided by a shear bolt or by an optional slip clutch.

The RTS series tillers feature high carbon content blades, solid rotors and triple-lip sealed bearings on the rotor shaft.

For further information, contact Bush Hog, Dept. RT-NR, P.O. Box 1039, Selma, AL 36702-1039.

PennAg To Sponsor Grain Meeting

EPHRATA (Lancaster) — PennAg Industries Association, which represents over 500 agri-businesses, will be holding its annual "Grain Meeting" on June 13, 1988 at 6:30 PM at the Shawnee Resort Inn, Lancaster, PA. Mr. Thomas Walker, vice president and director of BP Nutrition of North America, will be the guest speaker. He will be speaking on the British perspective on American Agriculture.

From 2:00 to 5:00 PM, a grain grading seminar will be offered with Mr. Charles Danage, chief supervisor, quality assurance specialist, Federal Grain Inspection Service, Baltimore MD, and Mr. Gus Tomas, assistant quality assurance specialist, Federal Grain Inspection Service. This will be a "hands-on" session grading corn, wheat and soybeans in accordance with Federal Grain Standards. The presentation will include the use of slides and samples.

For more information, please contact PennAg Industries Association at (717) 733-2238.

Officials Say Ag Picture Brighter

BALTIMORE — The Farm Credit Banks of Baltimore, the mid-Atlantic region's largest agricultural lender, announced today first quarter 1988 operating results.

Gene L. Swackhamer, President of the Banks, said he was pleased with the operations of the Banks and 26 affiliated local Associations and with the continued general improvement in the regional agricultural economy.

"We're seeing an across the board return of confidence in the agricultural sector throughout our service area," Swackhamer explained. "Farmers are like other businessmen; as they become more confident about the strength of their industry, they become more aggressive in their expansion plans and capital investments. Making their operations more productive, efficient and profitable become their main objectives, not just mere survival."

He attributed some of the returning confidence to the Agricultural Credit Act of 1987 which was signed into law early this year. The Act has created greater economic stability among agricultural lenders and provided farm borrowers with new consumer rights and protection.

Net earnings for the Baltimore Farm Credit District, including the Federal Land Bank of Baltimore, (FLB), and its local Federal Land Bank Associations, (FLBAs), the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Baltimore, (FICB), and its local Production Credit Associations, (PCAs), and the Baltimore Bank for Cooperatives, (BBC), were $1.3 million before accounting adjustments and assessments required by the Agricultural Credit Act of 1987. Following the reversal of previously expensed loss sharing assistance of $56.8 million and the payment of new assessments by the BBC, FLBAs and PCAs of $36.2 million, first quarter net earnings for the Baltimore District were $21.9 million. Net earnings for the same period last year were $300,000.

Swackhamer, who also serves as Chairman of the Farm Credit System's newly formed Financial Assistance Corporation, reported the $56.8 million reversal by the Baltimore FLB was originally a loss sharing contribution made available to aid financially troubled Farm Credit Banks in the Midwest. The Financial Assistance Corporation is now responsible for providing financial aid to qualified Farm Credit Banks.

Operating reports show the Banks and affiliated Associations continue to experience low delinquency rates. FLB farm loan delinquencies on March 30 were 4.7 percent of the number of loans outstanding; PCA delinquencies were 2.7 percent of the number of borrowers.

Swackhamer said the current delinquency levels were the lowest the Baltimore District has experienced since the early 1980s.

The Baltimore Farm Credit District Banks and Associations are currently lending more than $2.5 billion to some 52,000 farmers and 67 farm cooperatives in the states of Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Delaware, West Virginia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

HESSTON THE PRIME LINE

Tight, uniform bales from a maneuverable center-line baler!

Hesston Beeline Baler... Model 4600 (14" x 18")

The Model 4600 Beeline Baler uses Hesston's exclusive Center-line design to move crop straight through from pickup to finished bale. No cross augers or sweep arms that means less maintenance and high capacity baling.

Hesston's exclusive preformed flake system means better hay distribution throughout the bale. Bales break open evenly when feeding time comes and, because of the positive bale-length control, mechanical bale stacking is precise and easy.

Field and road position are one in the same so you save time opening fields and transporting.

RICHARDTON

★ A GREAT CONCEPT ★ JUST GOT BETTER!

MODEL 700 MULTI-PURPOSE DUMP WAGON

Many area farmers are quickly realizing the potential danger and liability of transporting forage with conventional tractor-drawn wagons. Consider the RICHARDTON Dump Wagon/farm truck approach.

- * Increased speed from field to barn
- * Brakes, turning signals, lights provide increased traffic safety
- * Equipment cost/amt. of forage handled is less than conventional systems

MULTI-PURPOSE DUMP WAGON

BIG, STRONG, ECONOMICAL - The Big Orange One

• Works For You • All Year Long • Wet Field Conditions • Variety of Crops

The Most Versatile High Dump Wagon

Thousands of farmers can't be wrong. Many farmers still operate the Richardton High Dump Wagon they bought nearly 15 years ago. They say they'll buy a new one if the old one wears out. Other farmers own two or three Richardton Wagons and use them crop after crop, season after season. Ask the man who owns one.

You May Think They Are Higher Priced Than Forage Boxes — But You May Be Surprised!

STOP IN NOW - WE HAVE SOLD MANY!
YOU TOO CAN BE A SATISFIED OWNER!

ADJA FOAM MARKER

A long lasting Foam Marking System that leaves highly visible strips or balls of foam. The ADJA Foam Marker is a new concept in foam generation which eliminates the need for compressors, pumps, or solution tanks, etc.

The simplicity and reliability of this state-of-the-art marker make it the most reasonably priced marking system presently available to the farming community.

Simple electronic controls allow in-cab control of on-off switch, left or right marking, foam mark size, and distance between marks. The ADJA Foam Marker is ideal for use on a variety of surfaces such as summerfallow, stubble, cultivated or disced stubble, green crops, green grass or brown grass. A totally new formula produces foam that will last for one full day or more.

Axial-Flow Combines

SIMPLY MORE PRODUCTIVE IN THE FIELD

Over the past ten years the Case IH axial-flow combines have proven themselves to be more productive than the combines previously owned by our customers. In tall crops, short crops or down crops; bumper crops or drought crops the axial-flow combines put more crop in the bin and, therefore, return more market dollars to you. The Case IH axial-flow is simply more productive in the field where the bragging stops.

HOOBER: Axial-Flow production specialists

1. Every new combine Hooper sells is expertly predelivered and started in the field by a professional combine mechanic; experienced in setting and adjusting for all common crops.
2. Hooper's professional combine mechanics drive fully equipped combine service trucks, stocked with commonly used wearing parts. When called to service or repair an axial-flow combine, they carry with them the tools and equipment to do the job and get you back to the field fast.
3. Hooper's Parts Department has the largest combine parts inventory in the East. Daily pickups at the Case IH Parts depot help to provide fast emergency parts availability. Hooper's expert combine PARTS service provides you minimum downtime and maximum productivity.

UNIVERSAL MOUNT QUICK-ATTACH LOADER

Model
 1548 Loader

The Long model 1548 loader is designed for mounting on most farm tractors in the 35 to 70 horsepower range. The boom and bucket assembly can easily be mounted or removed in approximately five minutes, making it the ideal utility loader for the farmer who doesn't need a full-time tractor/loader. A variety of buckets are also available for most farm applications.

Look at our rating ...

We've worked hard for the Service Excellence rating from Ford New Holland, Inc. That's why it means a lot to us. And a lot for you, too.

It means we know every part of every machine that leaves our lot. It means we meet tough standards for training, service, tools and performance. And it means we'll fix it right the first time with

- accurate diagnosis • quality guaranteed parts
- the latest in machinery know-how

The Service Excellence rating means hard work for us and machines that stay in the field for you. And that's the way we know you like it.

Dependable is More Than Our Name

BERTHOUD- Agrotec
MODEL C-400 "CANNON"Versatile Sprayer For Many Different
Applications Of Insecticides And Fungicides!Aerodynamic Design Of The "Cannon" Head DeliversMORE AIR!

39" fan produces 280 MPH air speed.
 Allows you to cover 100-130 feet which means fewer trips thru the fields, fewer drive roads and more crop per acre.
 This design gives a well-defined, easily controlled mist, yet small cannon covers crop close to tractor.

MORE PENETRATION!

High air velocity produces a finer mist which penetrates short dense growth or tall crops such as sweet corn. Also allows smaller volumes of water with excellent coverage and fewer trips to

THE NEW ROUND BALE WRAPPER SYSTEM

An Economical Efficient Method Of Making Silage

This is the Silawrap system:

- The lift-arm places the bale on the turn table.
- Silawrap film is then attached to one of the bale strings.
- As the turn table is rotating, the rollers will slowly turn the bale.
- The Silawrap film is stretched around the bale overlapping 2-3-4 or 5 times according to the setting of the gears.
- The film is cut, film end secured and bale tipped off.

PRO-4 SANITIZING TEAT DIP

Don't kid yourself... killing GERMS is only part of the mastitis prevention program! The answer is PRO-4 Teat Dip.

Approved As Of National Mastitis Council
Protocol "A", "B", and "C"

Pro-4 formulation recognizes that killing germs is only half the battle in mastitis control. Maintaining good healthy teat tissue is the other half of the battle that must be won to reduce mastitis. The multiple conditioning action on the teat skin of Pro-4 is superior to any teat dip on the market today. Pro-4 Teat Dip has a record of 15 years of safe and effective use.

INTRODUCING

MAXI-LEAN

New Beef Supplement For High Grain Rations

More For Your Money

When we think of cattle, we think of roughages. But dairy steers and large-framed beef breeds can make fast, efficient gains on high-grain rations.

Maxi-Lean can help you achieve some profitable objectives:

- Fast weight gains
- Excellent feed conversions
- Reduced feed intake
- Excellent carcass grade and yield

And, high-grain ratios with Maxi-Lean are especially attractive when corn prices are low.

Where It Works

The Master Mix Maxi-Lean Program will produce the most favorable results in the following feeding situations:

- Feeding out dairy steers and large-framed beef breeds.
- Feedlots with an economical source of whole-shelled corn.
- Managers who have had experience feeding high-energy rations.
- Feedlots where it is possible to observe cattle regularly to avoid any interruption in feeding.

MAXI-LEAN I-40% (770)

- Formulated to be mixed in with full-feed, whole-shelled corn at the rate of 1.5 pounds per head per day.
- Combines natural protein with 16 percent equivalent protein from non-protein nitrogen for an efficient cost per pound of gain.
- High vitamin, mineral and trace mineral fortification provides the essential nutrients cattle would normally receive from forages.
- Pellets mix well with whole-shelled corn. This enhances consumption and reduces waste.

Here A Chick, There A Chick

BY LISA RISSE

COLEBROOK (Lebanon) — Dale Godwin's chickens are known as far away as Virginia, Minnesota, Michigan, New York, and California. He sells them not for food, but for show. His latest sale was to Philipsburg Manor, a museum and 17th-century Dutch settlement in New York. The museum purchased 12 Hamburg chicks, which are commonly referred to as Dutch Every-Day layers and were developed by the Dutch.

Godwin's chickens have been shown at local fairs as well as the state Farm Show in Harrisburg. At Farm Show he exhibited 100 birds out of which came five breed champions, and a black Hamburg was named champion large pullet out of 162 entries.

His passion for chickens began in 1984 when he moved to a wooded lot in Colebrook. "I wanted chickens mostly for eggs and to let them run around in the woods, so I bought 25 chickens from a commercial operation," he explained. "Then a guy who makes money raising show chickens caught my attention. He pointed out that it doesn't cost any more to raise show chickens, and earning

These two-week-old chicks have about four more weeks before they leave the brooder to join the adults outside.

Dale Godwin raises about a dozen breeds of show chickens including the Sea Bright that he's holding. Others are Hamburg, Cornish, Sultan, Rose Cone, Rhode Island White, and Silky.

Godwin and his chickens have won numerous awards including champion large pullet at the Farm Show in Harrisburg. Here two chicks play among the trophies.

premiums at fairs helps to pay the feed bill."

The first show chickens Godwin purchased were Gold-Pencilled Hamburgs. From there he expanded, adding a new breed as he fell in love with it. "It's an addiction. Every breeder goes through it," commented Godwin. "You start out with one, and you see something at a show and you have to have it."

Godwin owns about a dozen breeds in one or more colorations. "I'm starting to phase out everything but the Hamburgs," he said. "It's hard though." Among the show chickens he has are Silky, Old English, Sea Bright, Polish, Lang Shan, Araucanna, Campine, and Cornish.

Godwin has six varieties of Hamburg chickens: white, black, Silver and Gold Pencilled, and Silver and Gold Spangled. He likes them because "they're a nice bird for our climate. They have a rose comb that won't freeze, and they're excellent layers. And I like them because they're pretty."

Breeding season for Godwin's chickens is February through June. Godwin separates the chickens into breeding trios comprising a cock and two hens. Currently he has 20 breeding pairs or trios. During this time, as the hens lay eggs, he spirits the egg away to be put into an incubator.

"A lot of breeds won't set," Godwin explained. "Hamburgs won't set. They've been bred for production and anti-setting would be bred into them." Among the chickens that will set are the Silkies, which go brooding four to five times a year.

The eggs are set into the 400-egg, 99.5-degree incubator and are turned twice each day. After 21 days, the chicks emerge. Godwin has three brooders where he keeps separate hatchings, one for week-old chicks, one for two-week-old chicks, and another for older chicks. As soon as the chick is pretty well feathered, usually about six weeks, it is turned out with the adults.

Not all the eggs produced are hatched though. "We eat some eggs and give away or sell others. The smaller eggs we feed back to the chicks," said Godwin. "The chicks love hard-boiled eggs. Chickens use the shell to make more eggs; they'll even break their own eggs."

Godwin shares his enthusiasm for chickens with young children at local day-care centers. He encourages visits during which the kids see the adult chickens as well as incubating eggs and chicks in brooders. After a snack break where the children eat chicken-shaped cookies, Godwin takes them on a tractor ride.

Godwin thoroughly enjoys raising his show chickens. "They're always busy. They're always doing something. That's what I enjoy most about them."

Ashley, Godwin's three-year-old daughter, holds a week-old chick by a brooder.

Wool Preparation in a Nutshell

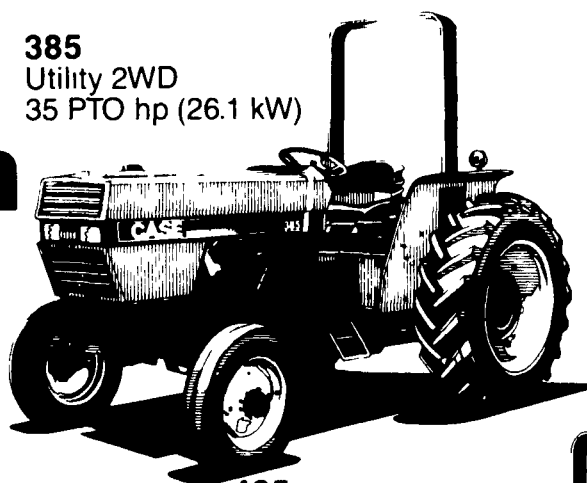

Some buyers consider domestic wool superior to foreign wool. If so, why does it sell for less? Jim Walters, a wool buyer for Pendleton Woolen Mills offers this explanation: Foreign wool is put up to be a value-added package. For instance, in Australia, there is complete skirting and classing - right at the shearing shed. Bellies, short fibers (leg and face wool) and tags are pulled out before each fleece leaves a slotted sorting table. The clear wools are then baled according to grade and the off-sorts likewise defined and packaged in separate lots. When you buy this wool, you know exactly what you're getting. When you buy domestic wool you're never sure what you have. Walters adds, "For years, the U.S. producer had the advantage of not having to prepare his wool because he was guaranteed it would sell. Times are rapidly changing. New technology of wool processing makes it impossible to use wools contaminated with polypropylene, branding paint and high levels of vegetable matter. It is not a matter of buying these contaminated wools at a reduced price, anymore, we are not interested in buying them at all", states Walters.

Wool production is a year-round process. Genetic selection of breeding stock, environment and management all play an integral part. Following are some suggestions that can help place your wool in the "value-added" category.

Genetics

Preparing wool for market begins with your breeding program. Regardless of the breed type (meat or wool) select sheep with fleece uniformity in grade, length and density. Cull ewes having britchy (hair-like) wool in the britch and shoulder areas. Certainly, do not use a ram showing "britchy" wool characteristics. Important to selecting a ram is taking note of fleece uniformity in grade, length and density.

Management

Management of flock affects the quantity and quality of the clip. Adequate nutrition throughout the year is necessary for optimum wool production. The fleece quickly shows results of poor nutrition, sickness, internal and external parasite infestations and heavy contamination of vegetable matter. Since wool is a renewable resource sheep need to be sheared at 8 to 12 month intervals to have staple length wool.

Shearing facility

clean place to shear and package the wool. For the small producer a portable shearing floor constructed of 5/8" plywood built on a 2 x 4 frame with 2 x 4 cross member supports at 2 foot intervals is most practical. Recommended space per shearer is a 8' x 8' area. This provides adequate space between shearers and prevents fleeces from getting contaminated with dirt and straw. The shearing area should be well lighted and conveniently arranged for fleece tying and possible grading and bagging.

Shearer

The shearing method is not as important as the need to get the fleece off in one piece. Shearers need to avoid second cuts which severely reduces the fleece value. Avoid using too much lubricating oil and use only new oil. Used motor oil can permanently stain the wool.

Shearers need to use sanitary measures between flocks and even between sheep that might be infected with Caseous Lymphadenitis. Cutting the skin with contaminated shearing gear infects other sheep. Preventive measures are using a non-corrosive type disinfectant on the combs and cutters between sheep. The disinfectant 2 to 3 inches or enough to submerge the comb and cutter area of the shearing unit can be poured into a flat pan-like container. Some suggested disinfectants are the chlorhexadines (Nolvasan) or the quaternary ammonia compounds (Roccal). Follow the directions on the container for preparing a strong solution.

Fleece grading, skirting and tying

With exception of a few larger Pennsylvania producers (>400 head) fleece grading is primarily a matter of sorting dirty wool from clean wool. That, to some, may be an over simplification, but that is what our buyers are reminding us of to give added value to our predominate medium grade wool.

Skirting if practiced should be done before the fleece is rolled and tied. An easy approach is to ask your shearer to cooperate in pulling out the belly wool and have the tier and/or sweeper separate the tags and the face and leg wool from the fleece before tying.

The question of tying fleeces is an item you need to discuss with your county or regional wool pool directors. Some buyers are informing us that skirted wools do not need tying providing prearrangements are made to have the wool bagged on the farm. These wools would then be "bag graded" and weighed on the pooling date.

Again, the time has come for all producers, big and small to take positive steps to produce and market wool as a value-added commodity. Domestic wool processors want our wool. Poor wool preparation is costing our producers and forcing domestic manufacturers to use more imported wools. It all boils down to that critical few minutes of preparation and packaging which can determine if your clip demands that premium price.

Cross-Fostering Newborn Pigs

Pork producers often cross-foster pigs between litters soon after birth to increase survival rates and the number of pigs weaned per sow. This practice has several advantages, provided it is done properly.

Cross-fostering can pay off when a litter is too large for the sow or gilt to nurse effectively. It also permits producers to better match pig numbers with a gilt or sow's mothering qualities. And it can be used to equalize litter birth weight, thereby improving pig survival rates.

Cross-fostering isn't as simple as it seems, however. For maximum success, before shifting newborn pigs from one sow to another, University of Delaware Extension swine specialist Dr. Kevin Cera advises pork producers to consider the following factors:

Timing — Transfer pigs within three days of birth.

Colostrum — Make sure pigs have received colostrum before transferring them to a sow that has farrowed more than 24 hours earlier.

Teat function — Examine teats to determine how many pigs a sow can nurse. Remember that unused teats generally become nonfunctional after three days.

Pig selection — Match pigs for size when transferring. Emphasize what is best for the most vulnerable pig when cross-fostering smaller and weaker animals. For example, when a litter contains too many pigs, transfer the largest ones. Restless pigs or those that don't seem to have established a teat position usually benefit from a transfer.

Sow selection — Nervous

Disruptions — Minimize disruptions to a given group of baby pigs. Transfer enough to establish the desired litter and then don't alter the group again.

Washington County Plans Steer Show

AMITY (Washington) — The Glyde Ag 4-H Club is sponsoring an Open Jackpot Steer Show at the Washington Fairgrounds on June 25.

The exhibitor of the grand champion steer will receive $250 in prize money. The reserve grand champion's owner will be awarded $100. The first four placings in each class also will receive monetary awards. The trophies are provided by 84 Packing and Dickinson & Son.

There is a $15 registration fee per steer entered before June 15. After that the entry fee is $20. The fee must accompany the entry form. Health papers and TB test are required as is the steer's hip height to determine classes.

Check-in time on the 25th is 11:00 a.m., while show time is 1:00 p.m. Dave Mangione will judge the show.

Agway Announces Sales, Acquisitions By Subsidiary Businesses

SYRACUSE, NY — Following the April meeting of the Agway Board of Directors, William A. Hiller, president and CEO, announced changes in the business mix of several of the cooperative's subsidiaries.

"As an outgrowth of our strategic planning process at Agway and its subsidiaries, a restructuring of several business units in the energy group and food group is taking place," Hiller said.

Hiller announced that Texas City Refinery, Inc. and its parent companies, Agway Petroleum Corporation and Southern States Cooperative, Inc., have entered into a letter of intent to sell some holdings to the Phibro Energy unit of Salomon Inc. of New York, NY. These holdings include the refinery at Texas City, Texas, and two product terminals in North Carolina.

Hiller said the Texas City refinery was originally acquired in the late 1940s to assure farmers of supplies of petroleum products through their cooperatives.

"TCR was a very good investment for many years," Hiller said. "But times have changed and Agway Petroleum can obtain products much closer to home without the risks involved in owning and operating a refinery."

Hiller said the publicly traded Rochester-based Curtice Burns Foods, in which Agway owns controlling interest, has recently acquired the Haley's Food Division of California Home Brands, Inc. Haley's processes and markets "Mariner's Cove" brand clam chowders and other private-label canned products. Additionally, Curtice Burns, one of the fastest-growing regional-brands food companies in the United States, has sold the soft drink franchises held by its National Brands Beverage Division to a group of eleven bottlers.

In another development, Hiller said Boston-based H.P. Hood, a major regional dairy and food products company owned by Agway, has agreed in principle to sell the assets of its Florida-based institutional foodservice group to Coca-Cola Foods, Inc. The pending sale will not affect Hood's retail orange juice business or its extensive dairy, cheese, and other food related businesses.

The Agway leader emphasized these changes will strengthen Agway by allowing concentration on businesses more directly related to profitability in areas of farm supply, energy, and food marketing.

The Pottstown TSC store is celebrating the company's 50 years with give-aways and a $50 gift certificate.

Tractor Supply Celebrates 50 Years Of Service

NASHVILLE, TN — Beginning next week, the Tractor Supply Center Stores are celebrating their 50 years of service to farmers and home owners.

The Pennsylvania stores in Pottstown, Lebanon, and York as well as the Westminster, Maryland store are participating in the anniversary by having promotions and circular specials. Each store also is giving away a $50 gift certificate.

In addition, Tractor Supply Center is celebrating the grand reopening of a store in Carlisle.

During the celebration the stores are offering "The American Farmer Book I and II" for $6.99. That's $3 off the retail price. This limited-time offer is being held in cooperation with the publishers of the books.

The Pottstown store will be having a Manager's First-Year Celebration with many in-store specials plus free drawings for prizes such as a Tuff chest, gift basket, cooler, and many others. There also will be free give aways, free popcorn, and a 50¢ hot dog and coke special.

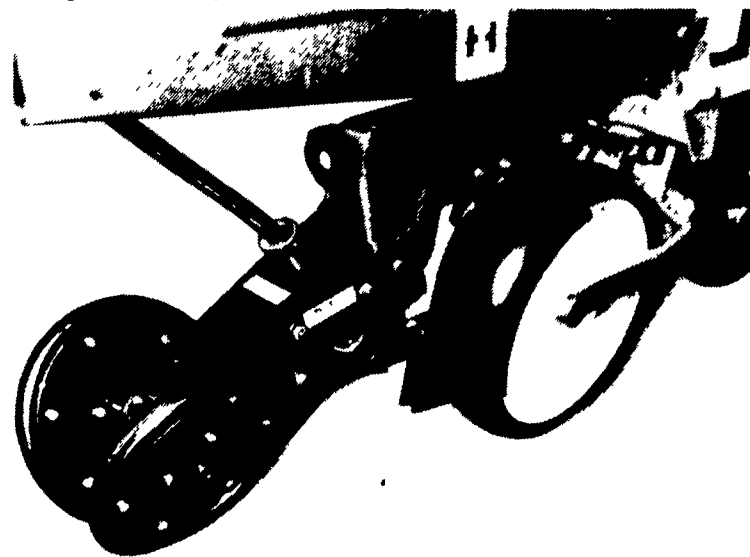

Yetter Introduces V-Wheels

COLCHESTER, IL — Yetter Manufacturing Company's 6200 Series V-wheel closing system is designed to provide uniform planting performance from IH 800 Series planters. The V-wheel planting system creates a firm germination bed for the seeds during planting, yet retains loose soil above them to assure maximum emergence.

The V-wheel system replaces conventional press wheels that do not always work efficiently. This arrangement firmly cradles the seed in solid contact with the soil, but leaves the covering loose so that seedlings can emerge without having to struggle through crust or hard cap. Just one simple adjustment matches downpressure to conditions of individual seedbeds -- a welcome advantage when moving from field to field and differing soil conditions.

Consulting Firm Offers Record Book

LITITZ (Lancaster) — Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service is offering a crop record book at a printing cost of $6 per book. The crop record book contains sufficient record forms to track crop expenses (seed, herbicide, insecticide, fertilizer, machinery costs, land charges, etc.) and harvest information to determine net return per acre. The consulting service also will be offering a computer service that will develop crop budgets for each individual farm situation based on information recorded in the crop record book. The computerized report will be able to rank each client's expenses and profitability to other farmers. This unique ranking system will allow the farmer to compare his results with others, allowing him to quickly identify and change portions of his business which prove less profitable. The computer service is optional and will be offered in the fall of 1988 at an additional cost.

Please contact Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service at (717) 627-0065 to order your crop record book.

CADCO Offers Baby Pig Milk Replacer

DES MOINES, IA — "Cold-flow" manufacturing, Albion-chelated trace minerals and re-formulation with the most nutritious ingredients available for baby pigs mark the re-introduction of Nursing Melk — a baby pig milk replacer originally released with a chocolate flavor more than 10 years ago by Cadco, Inc.

The manufacturing process makes use of the latest "cold-flow" agglomeration technology. This special process employs freezing temperatures to agglomerate the milk and fat particles together.

Consistent quality is achieved without having to use heat. Texture, color and protein availability are thus not altered by the heat normally required during the manufacturing of milk replacers.

In a patented process, Albion-chelated trace minerals are chemically bonded to amino acids, improving absorption and utilization. This increases the bioavailability of iron, zinc, copper, manganese, cobalt and magnesium to baby pigs being fed Nursing Melk.

Fat sources in milk replacers have traditionally contained "long-chain" fatty acids. Nursing Melk, however, contains a source of "medium-chain" fatty acids which university tests in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Ohio have shown to be potentially better for young pigs.

Only palatable and nutritious human-grade protein such as dried whey, whey protein, skim milk and casein are used in the formulation of Nursing Melk. Vegetable proteins derived from soybeans and grain are not used.

Tests have shown baby pigs now stay at the Nursing Melk feeder longer because the taste of chocolate has been replaced with a special flavoring and aroma material that effectively duplicates the natural taste and smell of real sow's milk. Its nutrients are more easily digested by baby pigs because Nursing Melk has been pH-adjusted for more natural intestinal compatibility.

"Baby pigs that cannot compete with their littermates for food can die within 24 hours after birth," reports Cadco's marketing director, Donley Moran. "They have a difficult time maintaining energy because their initial supply is quickly used up, and they are not good at producing energy the first two days of life. As a result, between 13 and 25 percent of pigs born will die between birth and weaning, with up to 70 percent of these losses occurring in the initial three to four days of life."

Here's how Nursing Melk can help the producer overcome these problems:

1. Saving runts. Feeding smaller pigs Nursing Melk either as a free-choice supplement or a total diet gives them the additional nutrition they need to survive and maintain growth.

2. Saving orphans. Orphaned pigs can be raised entirely on Nursing Melk. One other solution is to put the smallest orphans on another sow, raising the strongest littermates on Nursing Melk.

3. Giving the producer feeding management alternatives. He can put some of the larger pigs on Nursing Melk. This gives the smaller pigs more access to the sow so they can catch up with their littermates.

4. Increasing weaning weights. Feed Nursing Melk for a short time after weaning. This helps prevent post-weaning lag, the period when newly weaned pigs typically become dehydrated and stop gaining weight for a few days.

"These are the four primary ways Nursing Melk can help pork producers turn out more uniform litters and wean earlier for the greatest return on their investment," Donley concludes.

Nursing Melk baby pig milk replacer is being marketed by Cadco, Inc., in 3-lb. and 25-lb. bags for easy mixing with hot water to pan-feed or use with automated dispensers.

For more information contact Donley Moran, Marketing Director, Cadco, Inc., P.O. Box 3599, Des Moines, IA 50322.

This milk replacer is pH-adjusted for easier digestibility and trace minerals are chemically bonded to amino acids thereby improving absorption and nutrient utilization.

LAND PRIDE

LANDSCAPE RAKES

A rugged landscape rake from Land Pride is a versatile addition to any landscaping arsenal.

With 11 models in four different series, there is a Land Pride rake to meet your needs.

Rake uses include: clean-up of roots, rocks and other debris prior to seeding, spreading and distributing topsoil and crushed rock, general grooming and soil preparation.

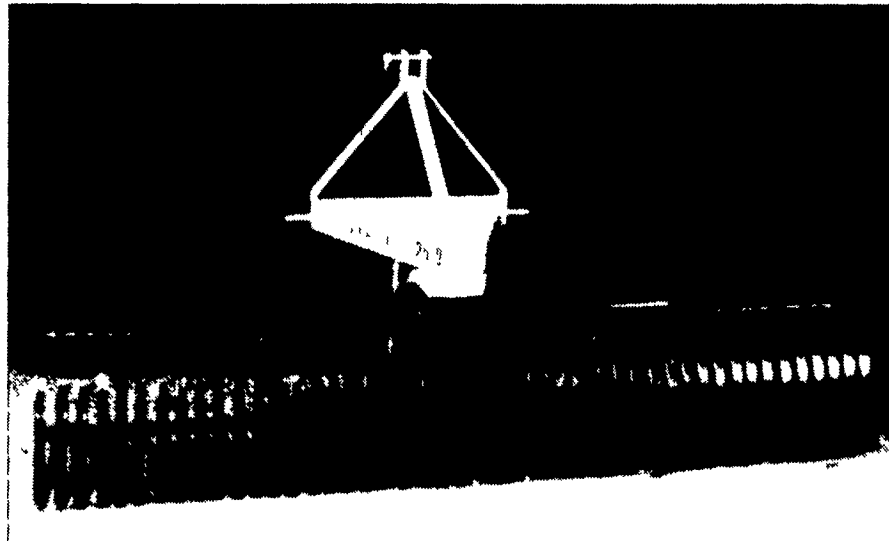

Land Pride rakes feature high-carbon, spring-steel teeth and heavy-duty A-frames for along life. To fine tune performance, options like gauge wheels and flip-down grader blades are available.

Landscape Rake Features:

- High-carbon, spring-steel teeth - 1/4 "x3/4 " on 05 series, 5/16"x1" on 15, 25, and 35.
- Wide range of angle adjustments, including reversible feature on 25 and 35 series.
- Superior clamping design provides added strength by eliminating hole in tooth.
- Full range of options, including flip-down grader blade and gauge wheels.

GROOMING MOWERS

All the features you could ever hope for in a 3-spindle grooming mower are combined in the Land Pride Grooming Mower — at a price comparable to economy units. The profile-stamped air tunnel one-piece deck provides superior grass-cutting due to its ability to lift the grass better and discharge it cleaner — and will less horsepower. The four rugged 10" wheels are standard equipment and provide unmatched contour-following capability.

The Land Pride mower is designed to be easier to attach, adjust, operate, and maintain than competitive units. Standard features like a cast-iron gear box, forged hitch blocks and a commercial-duty V-belt mean you'll spend more time grooming your grass and less time fixing your mower.

Grooming Mower Features:

- Profile stamped air tunnel deck
- Four gauge wheels with 3/4 "x10" solid rubber tires
- 5" height adjustment
- Cast-iron gear box
- 1 1/2 " blade spindle
- Folding, adjustable discharge chute
- Single commercial-duty V-Belt
- Heavy-duty floating forged hitch blocks, adjustable
- Adjustable floating 3-point top link

PULVI-MULCHERS Build a firm clod-free seedbed — one that lets all the seeds germinate at one time.

PULVERIZERS Firms the soil for better seed contact. Folds narrow for road transport and storage, yet offers the ultimate in acre-eating, clod-busting performance.

SURE-STAND SEEDERS Get robust, productive stands every time by putting the seed into the ground where it belongs. Saves up to 50% on seed costs.

SUPER SOIL BUILDERS Expanded frame for residual low-thru without plugging. Coulter gang can be hydraulically controlled to save maintenance dollars.

SOIL GROOMERS The one-pass tool reduces fuel and labor costs by discing, cultivating and leveling all in one trip. Once adjusted, machine stays level.

CART MOUNTED HARROWS Allows each section of the harrow to follow the contour of the ground but also has a cart that converts the machine for easy transport.

RO-CROP CULTIVATORS No-wobble parallel linkage. Set it and forget it. Folds flat for safe, easy transport.

FLAIL SHREDDERS Heaviest gearbox on the market eliminates the number one cause of downtime

Genes From Foreign Breeds Could Boost U.S. Livestock Health

BELTSVILLE, MD — With more genetic boosts from foreign animal breeds, U.S. farm animals could be more productive and disease resistant, yield leaner meat, and supply higher quality wool, leather and other products, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists.

All major U.S. food and fiber animals — even domesticated turkeys bred from the U.S. native wild turkey — were introduced from other countries, said Keith E. Gregory, research geneticist with the Agricultural Research Service.

But, he added, much of the genetic diversity in the world's farm animals has not been investigated for useful traits. "No organized program exists in the U.S. or other countries to sample, evaluate and optimally use the genetic diversity in animals that supply food and fiber to the world," said Gregory recently at the agency's 13th annual Beltsville, Maryland Symposium.

Roger J. Gerrits, who oversees the agency's nationwide research on animal productivity, said, "An animal-genetic resource program must be established to accelerate genetic progress and make meat production more efficient. It would somewhat parallel the decades-old organized efforts to preserve the genetic material of plants."

Greater use of animal gene diversity is more feasible today because of advances in disease diagnosis, the washing of embryos to remove viral pathogens, and the international movement of frozen embryos, said Gregory, of the agency's Roman L. Hruska U.S. Meat Animal Research Center, Clay Center, Neb. At the symposium, he reported several genetic advantages of foreign breeds that could benefit the U.S. livestock industry and consumers:

* Some European swine have genes that give them a higher ratio of lean to fat than American breeds, and some breeds of pigs from the People's Republic of China are more prolific than American breeds.

* Some Bos indicus breeds of cattle in eastern and southern Africa, Pakistan and India have genes for heat tolerance and nutritional stress that could benefit U.S. beef production systems.

* U.S. sheep breeders could benefit from greater access to highly prolific breeds like recently imported Finnsheep from Finland, Booroola Merina from Australia and Romanov sheep that originated in Russia. Other foreign sheep breeds produce leaner carcasses — such as Texel sheep that originated in The Netherlands — or have longer breeding seasons.

* Domestically produced mohair comes from a strain of Angora goats in central Texas that descended from a narrow genetic base. Sampling from the much larger and more genetically diverse Angoras in Turkey and the Republic of South Africa would broaden the genetic base of U.S. animals.

"Animal products provide U.S. consumers with 70 percent of their protein, 35 percent of their energy, 80 percent of their calcium, 60 percent of their phosphorus" and other essential vitamins and minerals, said Gregory.

U.S. livestock also provide wool worth $75 million to millers, cattle hides worth $1.3 billion, $5.2 billion in sales of pet foods, and many other products, according to trade associations.

The Beltsville Symposium's theme this year is "Biotic Diversity and Germplasm Preservation: Global Imperatives." Germplasm is the gene material that stores an organism's inherited traits.

RCMA Premiums Add To Dairy Income

SPRINGFIELD, Ma. — The cost-price squeeze on Northeast dairy farmers eased somewhat in 1987, but is expected to intensify again this year, according to the recently released Agrifax® Dairy Farm Summary. "With federal order minimum prices rapidly falling in recent months, over-order premiums now being paid to dairy farmers by the Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency (RCMA) are becoming increasingly important," said Jim Putman, vice president of research for the Farm Credit Banks of Springfield, the region's largest farm lender.

"In spite of the fact that they did not begin until late in the year, RCMA premiums made an important contribution to Northeast dairy farmer incomes in 1987 based on our Dairy Farm Summary numbers," noted Putman. "The potential in 1988 is much greater and will be much needed."

Putman estimates that milk prices will average 60 to 70 cents less per cwt. this year than in 1987. Most farm costs are 2 to 4 percent higher in 1988, with both feed and fertilizer up considerably. This situation is creating a "cost-price squeeze" that may reduce net farm income by 20 percent this year alone. "RCMA premiums are needed to replace as much of this loss as possible," commented Putman.

The Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency was established by Northeast dairy farmers to stabilize the price of the milk they sell to dealers who, in turn, sell fluid milk products. Over 22,000 Northeast dairy farmers (92 percent of the total) have joined the organization, according to Steve Kerr of The Council of Northeast Farmer Cooperatives. RCMA has paid over $11 million to its members in its first six months.

The 1985 Farm Bill scheduled a series of triggered milk price reductions in order to discourage excess milk production nationally. As of January 1 of this year, the price was decreased to the lowest level of the past nine years. "The Farm Bill permits the Secretary of Agriculture to reduce the support price again next January 1, and he will probably do so," noted Kerr. "This hurts Northeast dairy farmers despite the fact that there is no surplus of milk in our region," he added.

With these discouraging prospects, RCMA premiums will become more and more important in the next several years, according to the Springfield bank's Putnam. "As farm prices fall, a farmer's net margin falls more sharply. RCMA premiums have the potential to offset these federal policy actions. Since there is no cost to the farmer for RCMA membership, any price premium that it negotiates and pays goes directly and entirely to the farmer's bottom line — where it is most needed."

The satisfaction that comes from doing a good job of farming

Liming is one of the most important factors in keeping your soil in the highest productive range. A good pasture with a pH of 6.5 or higher for example will make 300 to 400 lbs of beef per acre and produce up to $100 gross income per acre. This means with the help of lime profits from pastures can compare favorably with feed or grain crops.

Rutgers To Help Farmers Export Goods

NEW BRUNSWICK, NJ — As foreign demand for U.S. produce continues to grow, farmers who once sold their goods only in domestic markets are now exporting substantial amounts of produce to other countries.

Rutgers University has an obligation to help New Jersey farmers take advantage of this trend and to work with foreign countries for the benefit of all, says Dr. Reed Hertford, director of the International Agriculture and Food Program (IAFP) at the State University of New Jersey.

According to Hertford, "It's absolutely essential today that colleges of agriculture recognize the global interdependence and the worldwide nature of agriculture. We all depend as much on what happens in Brazil or Peru or Japan today as what happens in Middlesex County."

A division of Cook College, IAFP engages faculty and students in international agricultural development projects ranging from Central and South America to Europe, from Israel to Taiwan.

The program was officially begun about five years ago but Cook College took part in international projects before that, Hertford said. IAFP was founded with a five-year grant of $100,000 a year from the U.S. Agency for International Development, which Rutgers had to match.

"Farmers are increasingly engaged in international business," Hertford said. "They want to know about it; they want to know how to take advantage of it."

Farmers know they can make more money outside New Jersey."

But a desire to compete successfully in foreign markets is not the only impetus for Rutgers' international involvement. Often, Hertford said, improving a crop may require research in the crop's country of origin.

For example, Hertford said, "If you're a good plant breeder you have to have access to germplasm around the world. The potatoes we are working on here originated in Peru, and we have to go there to draw germplasm to improve the kind of potatoes you want in McDonald's french fries."

Contracts for research, most from the U.S. government, bring in resources to the university and Cook College. A $2.5 million project just completed in Panama with this country's national institute of agricultural research, IDIAP, brought the school revenue as well as valuable research data.

"We're constantly bidding on additional projects," Hertford said. "Competition is very, very stiff. Michigan State University last year did $35 million in contract business in its international program. It's very big business."

And, he noted, as Rutgers continues to make advances in international agricultural research, its stature as a university grows, helping to attract more faculty, students and resources.

For example, Hertford said he hopes the new Agricultural College of the Humid Tropic Region in Costa Rica established by Rutgers and two other universities will bring new students to Cook College.

"This is an undergraduate program," Hertford said. "Most of our faculty involved are members of graduate faculties back home. We're hopeful that following the bachelor's training received in Costa Rica, a good share of those students will be attracted to graduate training at Rutgers."

Rutgers also seeks to help foreign countries help themselves, he said.

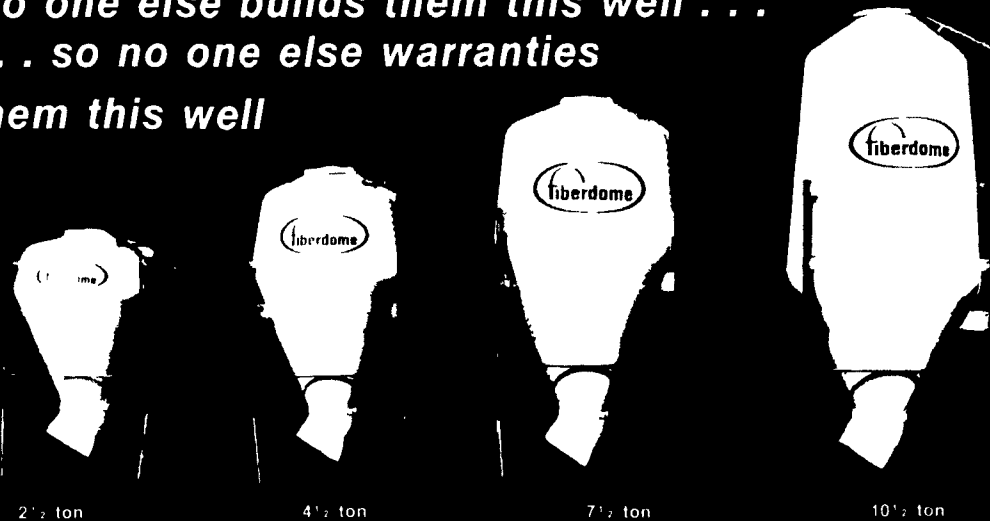

For instance, a program in which graduate students from the Dominican Republic receive advanced training at Cook College grew out of the Dominican Republic's desire to expand its agriculture beyond just sugar, Hertford said, noting sugar prices have dropped worldwide.

"The agriculture of the Dominican Republic has really been neglected," he said. "They want to diversify but the only way they do this is through research, and that requires more highly trained scientists."

While most of IAFP's projects are in Third World countries, faculty have worked in European countries, including France and the Netherlands. Hertford said he hopes proposals for study-abroad programs in Great Britain and Israel are realized. For IAFP, it would be another step in its quest to make Rutgers a leader among universities working internationally.

This rotary rake has a large working width for faster harvesting.

Kuhn Presents New Large And Mid-Size Rotary Rakes

VERNON, NY — Two new single-rotor rakes, representing the largest and most compact-for-storage rotary rakes on the market today, now are available from Kuhn Farm Machinery, Inc.

The Kuhn GA 381 GM and GA 301 GM Gyorakes both feature large working widths for faster, more efficient harvesting. In addition, the Gyorakes also turn windrows, providing faster drying time and easier baling.

The Kuhn GA 381 Gyorake has a working width of 12'5", and is available in both 3-point and towed models. Both have been designed to allow easier transport and more compact storage. Ten removable tine arms reduce overall storage width to just 5'6", and precision maneuverability makes the Kuhn GA 381 Gyorake easy to operate both on and off the field.

Operating ease also is incorporated into the wheel-adjustment design of the GA 381 Gyorake. The GA 381 GM model features individual wheel-height adjustment, and the GA 381 GT's wheels adjust simultaneously. Wide-angle, constant-velocity PTO's available with the GA 381 GT, allow for tight, chatter-free turns at even the sharpest angles.

Smaller in overall size but offering all the features of the GA 381, the Kuhn GA 301 GM Gyorake has a 10'6" working width. Its nine removable tine arms allow the unit to be reduced to a compact transport width of only 4'6", the smallest in the industry.

Engineered for simplicity and convenience, the Kuhn GA 301 GM shares many of the same features highlighted in the GA 381 GM model. Included among these is a closed gearbox that ensures minimal maintenance by protecting components from dust and dirt.

For additional information on the Kuhn GA 381 and GA 301 Gyorake, contact Kuhn Farm Machinery, Inc., P.O. Box 224, Vernon, New York, 13476.

Westfalia Systemat Adds To Regulator Line

ELK GROVE, ILL.—A new vacuum regulator, designed to control up to 350 cubic feet of atmospheric air (ASME) has been introduced by Westfalia Systemat, producer of high-tech dairy equipment.

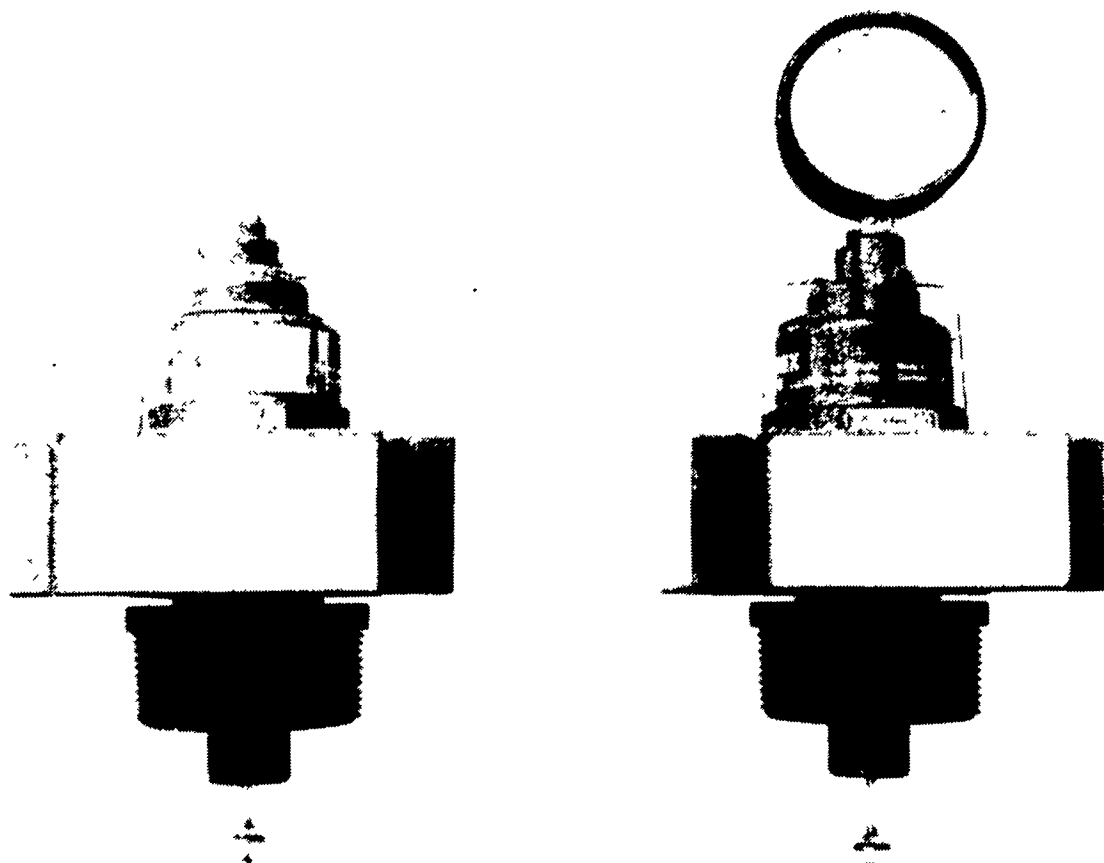

The Vacurex 10,000 is the latest addition to Westfalia's full line of vacuum regulators which includes the Vacurex 5000 and 2400 models. Like its predecessors, the Vacurex 10,000 has an effective range of 9.5 to 16.9 inches of mercury and is designed to regulate systems at specific milking levels.

Stable vacuum levels are responsible for promoting proper milking and optimum udder health. Too high a vacuum can render a cow's udder vulnerable to increased stress, whereas too low a vacuum can cause milking slowdown and incomplete milkout. The Vacurex 10,000 addresses these problems by regulating vacuum fluctuations in milliseconds. A highly pressure-sensitive diaphragm, as opposed to a traditional weight arrangement, allows precise control of vacuum pressure.

In addition to precision engineering, Westfalia has designed their latest vacuum regulator with installation and maintenance ease a top priority. The unit features screw-in attachment and standard screwdriver adjustment for vacuum setting. The dial is large and clearly visible, and the entire device is made up of non-corrosive materials.

For more information on the Vacurex 10,000, contact Westfalia Systemat, 1862 Brummel Drive, Elk Grove Village, IL 60007.

FARM BUSINESS ANALYSIS- THE ULTIMATE USE OF FARM RECORDS PART 1

LARRY C. JENKINS
Extension Economist
Penn State

All successful farm businesses are built on a foundation of sound management. Numerous tools go into that foundation but a good record-keeping system is the cornerstone. Records are the source of information for making day-to-day decisions. They also provide information for long-term planning that determines the future success of the business.

The most common use of farm records is documentation of information on the federal income tax return. A limited number of farmers, who are the Commonwealth's top farm managers, utilize information from their records to complete a farm business analysis.

Farm business analysis is the ultimate goal of record-keeping activity. Without an analysis of the data contained in the farm business's records, the efforts expended are largely wasted.

Recordkeeping activity will not provide necessary insight into financial aspects of the business unless a business analysis is completed and used as a guide to decisions.

To be most useful, the farm business analysis should be consistent from year to year, that is, it should contain the same measurements and elements through time. While the analysis from a single year may provide a preliminary indication of needed change, multi-year analyses are more useful. Major change in organization of the business, in particular, should be based on more than a single year of information.

There is no single "best" approach to farm business analysis. Generally, the analysis should provide a review of transactions occurring in the business during a given year, accounting adjustments that incorporate inventory change and amounts payable or receivable into annual income, an overview of assets and resource use, measures of efficiency, and an analysis of returns. The terms used to describe these features are cash flow, the income (profit and loss) statement, and the balance sheet. These documents are supplemented with measures of efficiency in resource use and returns to those resources.

Cash Flow: A cash flow projection is a listing of anticipated annual cash inflows, both farm and non-farm, and all anticipated cash outflows, including farm operating expenses, new capital investment, family living expenditures, and taxes. The document is most useful if it is converted from an annual basis to a monthly one.

The cash flow projection is a useful tool of analysis because it formalizes the planning process. It provides the "best estimate" of how the farm manager plans to operate the business for the coming year. This establishes a definite set of expectations that become the framework for judging short-term performance.

Comparison of projected and actual cash flow reveals the degree the business is performing as planned. In many cases, cash flow comparisons can serve as an early warning signal of problem areas. Immediate correction of those problems can result in minimal damage to business net profit for the year.

The Income Statement: The income statement, often referred to as a profit and loss statement, accurately measures farm earnings for a year. This document measures earnings more accurately than a simple cash flow because several important adjustments are made in computing the income statement. These adjustments reflect changes in inventory as well as changes in accounts receivable and payable.

There is no single form used for income statements for farm businesses. Nearly every records system that includes an analysis section has an income statement that is slightly different from other income statements. All income statement forms do have common features - generally, the form is designed to provide information about receipts, expenses, and adjustments that are described above.

The Balance Sheet: The balance sheet is one of the most basic tools used in financial management and should be developed at least annually by every farm manager. Different names are used to describe the document that is here called a balance sheet; it is often called a FINANCIAL STATEMENT and sometimes a NET WORTH STATEMENT.

Balance Sheet Analysis: The balance sheet provides a cross-section view of the financial side of a business. A review of the balance sheet provides insight into the financial health of the business. Comparison of balance sheets from a business through time provides a general indication of performance of the business.

An analysis of the balance sheet should begin with a comparison of total assets and total liabilities. The difference is net worth. If total assets exceed total liabilities, the business is said to be solvent.

The net worth of a business on a given date indicates owner equity and is a very general indicator to the lender of the risk involved in making a loan. If net worth is large relative to total assets in the business, the loan can be well secured and the chance of loss is small. A small net worth may present an obstacle to securing credit since risk of loss to the lender is increased.

A comparison of current assets and current liabilities from the balance sheet indicates ability of the business to meet cash obligations as they come due. If a business is able to meet its current cash obligations, it is said to possess liquidity.

The spread between current assets and current liabilities is the source of "working capital" for the business. "Working capital" is the amount of funds available to meet current operating expenses such as feed, fuel, and supplies. If all current assets are used for liabilities, funds are not available to carry out basic production activity, such as tillage and planting, or for current expenses such as feed. This makes it necessary to borrow funds to prevent disruption of the business.

A number of ratios have been developed for balance sheet analysis. Calculation of those ratios and comparison with generally acceptable standards provide a quick but reliable method of evaluating financial health of the business.

CURRENT RATIO: The current ratio is the ratio of current assets to current liabilities. The ratio should be 1.5 or more; that is, there are one and one-half times as many current assets as current liabilities.

PERCENT EQUITY RATIO: The percent equity ratio is the ratio of net worth to total assets. This ratio should be more than .70.

Your farm business analysis should also include farm business efficiency measures. I will discuss these in my next column.

Get Combines Ready To Harvest

MILWAUKEE, WI — Preseason maintenance pays off in less downtime and repair bills during the busy harvest season. Now's the time for farmers to get their combines ready to earn their keep in the field, says Jerry Thurman, Gleaner combine product manager for Deutz-Allis.

"A regular preseason maintenance schedule also preserves the value of the combine over the long term, allowing the grower to make the most of what's likely to be his biggest equipment investment," Thurman says. "Any adjustment or repairs needed should be made in the spring; there's more time to spare than during harvest."

The off-season provides an excellent opportunity for the grower to save money on parts and service bargains. "Deutz-Allis dealers frequently offer specials on parts and service before the harvest rush," Thurman points out.

Thorough cleaning and lubrication of the combine is the first step in preparation for harvest. All fluid levels, including engine oil, hydraulics, transmission, should be checked.

Any engine oil added should be carefully chosen to match operator's manual recommendations, Thurman advises. Once the air cleaner and primary fuel filter have been serviced, checking them should become a daily routine during harvest.

All bearings, flanges, lock collars and sprocket and lock collar setscrews should be checked and tightened, if necessary.

"Run the combine for 10 to 15 minutes, then stop and check for heating and misalignment of bearings, sheaves, belts and chains," Thurman suggests. "After that, run the header and separator for at least 20 minutes. Then check heating and alignment of the drives again."

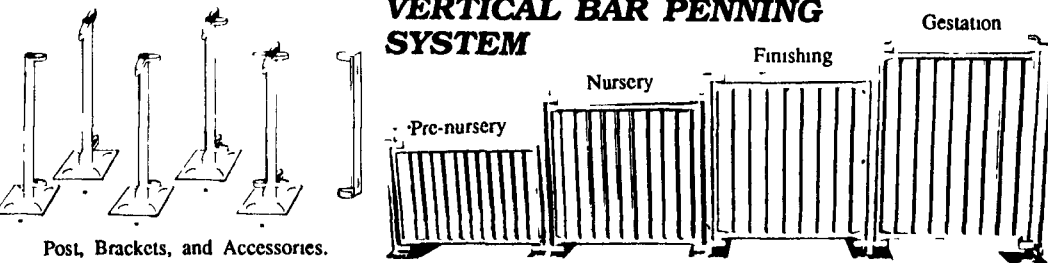

Check all drive belts for tension and alignment. All spring-loaded drive idler arms should be aligned and free to rotate on their hub pivots.

University Property Receives Tree Farm Status

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — A 116-acre tract of woodland, located in Howard Township, Centre County, and owned by Penn State, was recently certified as a tree farm. Certification means the property is recognized by the American Tree Farm System as a "sign of good forestry."

Launched in 1941 by the nation's wood-using industries, the American Tree Farm System encourages private forest owners to do an effective job of growing trees as a crop — with added benefits of improved wildlife habitat, watershed protection, outdoor recreation and aesthetic value.

Under the American Tree Farm System guidelines, Penn State's tree farm will be reinspected by a professional forester about every five years to determine whether the property continues to qualify. Foresters from industry, government and consulting firms volunteer their time to certify and reinspect the more than 59,000 certified tree farms nationwide. These tree farms cover about 88 million acres. Pennsylvania boots more than 1,600 certified tree farms, totaling about 880,000 acres of Penn's Woods.

Penn State's School of Forest Resources manages the 116-acre Howard Township tract as if it were a private forest landowner. That is, the school is taking steps that any private landowner can take to manage a woodland tract.

Penn State purchased the tract in Howard Township in 1984 with monies from the Nell E. and Harry R. Condon Memorial Fund. The Condons donated funds to Penn State in 1977, "to provide the University with capital for the acquisition, ownership and management of forest lands." These lands were to serve as an educational forum for the University to teach, practice and demonstrate expert management in the combined use of land for timber production and utilization, for water and wildlife conservation and for recreational use.

The School of Forest Resources management plan for the 116-acre tract includes practicing sound and economically feasible forestry management, keeping good records to provide information for use in undergraduate and landowner education, and earning a return on its management investments. Profits will be used to provide loans for forest resources students and for continued property management.

In keeping with its plan, school representatives recently decided to remove some of the mature and overmature trees. This would improve the growth rate of the remaining trees and stimulate seed production that will lead to new growth in the openings created. The new growth will be a more diverse ground cover of wildflowers, shrubs and seedlings — habitat conditions important to many birds and animals.

About 70 percent of the timber volume on the tract was black oak and white oak, with the rest a mixture of white pine, chestnut oak, red oak, hickory and ash. This past winter, about half of the timber volume was removed. Access for the logging equipment was needed, so a quarter-mile road was built, with care taken to meet erosion and sediment control standards. The road will be used by hikers and other recreationists, and by University students on field trips.

Another management alternative that will be implemented soon is an improvement cut. This will remove trees that are dying, diseased, deformed, or otherwise defective. The best trees for seed/production will remain. Some dead trees will be kept as wildlife feeding and nesting sites, and some downed logs will be untouched as roosting habitat for nocturnal birds of prey. These white pines also provide a pleasant picnic site.

Eight to 10 years from now, the condition and volume of the trees that had been left uncut and the vigor and species mixture of the regeneration will be evaluated. This information will determine what type of harvest cut will be made next.

Weis Markets Hosts Pennsylvania Growers

SUNBURY (Northumberland) — Senator Edward Helfrick and Representative Merle Phillips joined with officials of Weis Markets and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture at a dinner meeting, held recently at the Country Cupboard Restaurant in Lewisburg, Pennsylvania. Helen Rowe, represented Congressman George Gekas at the event.

The meeting, attended by more than 100 Pennsylvania growers, is hosted annually by Weis Markets. Its purpose is to explore ways to strengthen and enhance Pennsylvania's agricultural base as well as provide an arena for discussion of major trends and issues affecting agriculture.

Over the years, the Weis Grower Distributor Group, comprised of growers, industry leaders, legislators and representatives of the Commonwealth's Department of Agriculture, has worked together, contributing ideas that have acted as a catalyst in determining the future course and direction of local agriculture.

This unique relationship, which was pioneered by Sigfried Weis, president of Weis Markets, has helped shape the direction of programs that have improved the production and marketing of Pennsylvania's agricultural products.

George J. Michalak, vice president, perishables, served as master of ceremonies for the evening. He reminded the guests that a meaningful contribution has been made in the communities served by Weis Markets resulting in an economic benefit to the growers, the rural community and to the Commonwealth. In 1987, more than $65,000,000 was paid to growers by Weis Markets for purchases of Pennsylvania farm-fresh products.

Concerns about BST

BST is the abbreviation for bovine somatotropin, the term that is replacing the earlier, more popularly used term bovine growth hormone (BGH). Early estimates of BST effects were that production per cow would increase by 40 percent and that almost total adoption by the dairy industry would take place in a very short period. This would predispose the industry toward huge, rapid increases in milk production, it was said, thus aggravating the problem of dealing with surpluses already so evident.

If the federal government tried to hold the line on farm milk prices, so the thinking went, government purchases and inventories of nonfat dry milk, butter, and cheese would rise to such levels that the public would declare them totally unacceptable. On the other hand, if prices were allowed to fall somewhere near market-clearing levels, many dairy farmers would be forced out of business. How, some people were asking, could the approval of BST be justified in light of the surplus problem already so worrisome to the industry? What would the general public think of drinking milk from cows that had been administered "drugs"? Are some communities so heavily dependent on dairy farms that the use of BST would cause undue economic hardship where large numbers of dairy farms cease producing milk?

What is BST?

BST has been produced in the pituitary glands of cattle since we've had cattle, and it affects how nutrients are allocated between the production of milk and the growth (or maintenance) of the animal's body. Cows that produce a lot of milk relative to their body presumably produce more BST than cows with lower milk production to body weight ratios. It has been known for over 40 years that the injection of extract from the pituitary glands of dairy cattle stimulates the production of milk in the injected animal. This source of BST was limited and so expensive that large-scale application in commercial dairy herds was not practical.

Times have changed. We have entered the promising (scary to some people) world of biotechnology in a way not possible or perhaps even imagined a few years ago. Through genetic engineering we expect to produce BST at prices that will make its use in commercial dairy herds economically feasible. Several major pharmaceutical companies and universities are researching how well BST works and whether it is harmful to animal health in the long run. The Food and Drug Administration requires this information before it rules on whether BST can be made available for general commercial use.

BST — More of the Same?

Aside from its chemical properties and method of manufacture, BST can be thought of simply as another event in the stream of technologies and practices that have contributed to increases in milk production per cow for as long as mankind has milked cows. To chronicle this stream of developments is not the purpose of this article, but two examples for illustrative purposes would not hurt. The first goes back to the time when people first realized they could store summer-grown crops for winter use. If this did not at first extend the lactation period of the cow, it at least kept the cow in better body condition, with the ultimate effect of increasing production when the cow did freshen. The second illustration in the stream of developments increasing production per cow is artificial insemination. And there is already enough said about that!

BST technology may differ from most other innovations in either or both the magnitude of its effect and the rate of its adoption. As mentioned earlier, some of the earliest estimates of the probable magnitude of BST's effect implied production increases of up to 40 percent per cow. More recent estimates have been in the 10 to 20 percent range. The earlier estimates were based on BST applications in high quality, highly managed, and controlled experimental herds. The latter estimates resulted from a more realistic appraisal of what is likely to happen in more average commercial dairy herds.

But 10 to 20 percent is a big increase when one also considers the time frame within which BST technology can be adopted. Many dairy farmers already have the skills necessary to administer BST themselves (whether by injection or implantation), and it wouldn't take much to train the rest. The most important direct cost of BST adoption is the hormone itself. An important secondary cost is feed which would have to be increased eventually. (Even with BST, cows would not be able to make milk out of just air and water!)

Not all dairy farmers will immediately have all the other skills necessary to fully exploit the potential of BST for their herds. In addition to more feed, a different feed ration is likely to be optimal for cows receiving BST. There is some evidence, too, that cows coming off a BST lactation are in poorer body condition than those coming off a normal lactation. To be "brought up to speed" for the next lactation they will therefore have to be managed differently, and probably with greater skill, than they otherwise would have been.

Long-Term Effects on the Health of the Cow

The long-term effects of BST are still unknown. We have had few long-term experiences or experiments with BST. By the time we do know for sure what these effects are, however, BST will probably already be in widespread use throughout much of the United States (and in other countries as well). If cows do "burn out" sooner (whatever that means), or if they do encounter other unusual health problems the industry will adjust the amount, frequency, or incidence of BST applications to the level commensurate with the risk it wishes to assume. BST seems to be an easily reversible technology since virtually no capital equipment is required for its implementation.

Effects on Milk Composition and Consumption

Studies to date have shown BST has little or no effect on the composition of milk as it comes from the cow. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has already cleared the sale of meat and milk from BST treated cows in FDA-approved research herds. Even if this approval is extended to all commercially produced milk, only a necessary, not a sufficient condition for consumer acceptance has been met. The author knows of no prominent study of the probable consumers' acceptance of BST milk regarding their feelings of BST milk regarding their feelings of how it might fit their purported preference for natural, safe, wholesome, and healthy foods.

Milk from BST cows is unlikely to have any physiological effect on humans because BST is a protein that is inactivated by the human digestive process. Nevertheless, BST could become the object of a negative publicity effort, and the dairy industry could have its hands full counteracting such publicity. Where it would all end is anyone's guess at this point, but BST in itself is unlikely to win any new converts to milk drinking.

The Aggregate or Market Effects of BST

In a very general sense, BST probably will not be viewed much differently by dairy farmers than they have viewed most other technology as it has come along. If they think it will pay them to use it, they will. If longer-term effects then prove it doesn't pay, they will stop using it.

Because individual dairy farms are so small relative to the total dairy industry, individual dairy farmers can largely ignore the effects of their decisions on market quantities and prices. Changes in market prices, of course, do not in turn ignore individual dairy farmers. How is BST likely to affect market prices? More importantly, how is BST likely to affect dairy farm profits?

The nature of adopted technology has been to make certain dairy farm tasks less difficult or less distasteful (about the only way early mechanical barn cleaners could be justified), or to reduce costs of production. Most cost reducing technology has increased output, and this is clearly the nature of BST.

With increased individual farm output would come increased market output. In the case of milk, the federal government could hold to the existing level of price support and simply buy the increased production in the form of dairy products. That doesn't seem to square with the current mood of congress or the administration!

Ultimately, the government will allow the price received by farmers in the market to decline. Aside from the possibility of playing out their possible dislike of BST milk in the marketplace by lowering their levels of consumption, consumers will likely purchase more milk and dairy products at these lower prices, but not in great enough volume to stop the prices from continuing to fall. At some point, the reduction in price received will exceed the savings in production costs as farm level adjustments take place. These adjustments are likely to be the same as they almost always have been — fewer, but larger, dairy farms. If BST ever comes closer to living up to its promise, the long-term ongoing trend toward fewer and larger farms is likely to accelerate, but there is little reason to expect the industry to crash out of control.

If and When BST Will Be Used Commercially

Many people believe BST will eventually be approved for general use, and many people are guessing it will happen in time for adoption sometime in 1990. Early adopters of technology that later proves to be sound usually benefit most from the new technology. They get the benefits of lower costs of production before falling market prices take the benefits away. This is likely to be especially true of BST because it will be so easy to adopt, and the payoff to the early adopters may be unusually short-lived.

Interfarm, Interregional, and International Comparative Advantages

BST will benefit some adopters more than others, even if they adopt it at the same time. It was implied earlier that those with higher levels of management skills will probably "milk" more out of BST technology than those with lower levels of management skills. But, then, that is true of almost all technological change. Some researchers suggest higher-producing cows will respond more to BST than will lower-producing ones. It might even be the other way around, but few people are willing to make such a suggestion. Others say little difference can be expected. Almost everyone says BST won't make good cows and good managers out of poor cows and poor managers.

The most comprehensive study to date of the probable consequences of BST was released by the U.S. Department of Agriculture in October 1987. This report is titled BST and the Dairy Industry, A National, Regional, and Farm-Level Analysis, published by the U.S. Government Printing Office and numbered 1987-180-917/60586. The report asserts that of four policy scenarios evaluated, in no case was BST expected to have much effect on the regional location of milk production. Each of the four policy scenarios differed primarily as to the level of price that the federal government would try to maintain in the United States through conventional price support activities. These four scenarios were:

Scenario I assumes a support price for manufacturing-grade milk of $10.10 per cwt in 1990 when BST is introduced. No further adjustments are allowed through 1996.

Scenario II assumes a support price of $9.60 by 1990 when BST is introduced. This figure is the statutory price reduction limit of the Food Security Act of 1985. No further changes in the support price are assumed through 1996.

Scenario III, following current provisions of the 1985 act and extending them through 1996, also assumes a support price of $9.60 in 1990. This scenario then allows two further 50-cent annual reductions in the support price (not provided for in the 1985 act) if government purchases are projected to exceed 5 billion pounds in any calendar year. The lowest support price allowed in this scenario is $8.60.

Scenario IV maintains the support price at the October 1987 level of $11.10 per cwt through 1996, regardless of supply and demand conditions and government purchases. This scenario allows more marginal producers to stay in business.

The major factor allowed to vary under each of the four policy scenarios was the pattern and rate of adoption of BST by dairy farmers. USDA researchers assumed BST would be adopted more rapidly and to higher overall levels of adoption as the effective support price for milk was kept at higher rather than lower levels. Thus, Scenario IV resulted in the most rapid and highest level of adoption while Scenario III resulted in the slowest and lowest levels of adoption.

With or without BST, the general trends already evident in the U.S. dairy industry will continue. That is, the number of dairy farms and the number of dairy cows will continue downward while production per cow will continue upward. What will happen to milk production, milk prices, and government purchases will continue to depend on the level of the support price. Differential (with and without BST) regional effects are greatest under Scenarios III and IV. These two scenarios are probably the least likely to become reality, however, and the differences are in fact quite minor.

The USDA report predicts the use of BST under current international trade rules would have little effect on U.S. competitiveness in the world dairy market under present circumstances. If, however, a change to a freer international trade environment were to take place, and other countries were to adopt BST while the United States did not, U.S. dairy farmers would be put at a considerable disadvantage. In this connection, the United Kingdom recently approved the use of BST in the British Isles, as the Ministry of Agriculture there expressed the belief BST milk poses no risk to human health. Australia, New Zealand, the European Community, and other countries are researching BST, but when any of them may approve its use is uncertain at this time.

What Should Dairy Farmers Do?

Watch developments regarding further research into the effects of BST on milk production per cow, its effects on the cows themselves, and on how the cows must be managed for optimum results. Learn how BST should be applied and how all the probable costs of BST adoption will compare its probable benefits. Keep track of BST developments and experiences in the British Isles, and in other countries that might also approve the use of BST in their commercial dairy herds. Know when BST is approved for use in the United States. Then, if you are convinced BST adoption would be a good business decision in your own situation, don't procrastinate. The early adopters are the ones most likely to benefit from adoption. The longer you wait, the harder it will be for you to stay competitive with your neighbor, with dairy farmers in other regions, and with dairy farmers in other countries.

Summary

Bovine somatotropin will likely have less effect on the dairy industry than it was earlier commonly thought. Cows produce more milk at less cost when injected with BST—a protein that occurs naturally in cattle. Synthetic BST can now be produced at commercially attractive prices. Dairy farmers are likely to use synthetic BST if the Food and Drug Administration approves it for commercial distribution because early users of the new technology will realize significantly higher returns.

If government support programs allow prices to drop enough to balance production and commercial use, the lower milk prices generated by larger supplies eventually will offset the BST-induced savings in production costs. Hence, the effect of BST will depend largely on the flexibility of the price support program.

An inflexible program with high supports would lead to significantly larger government outlays and accumulating supplies. With supports frozen at current levels, government purchases would rise sharply to more than 30 billion pounds a year by the mid-1990s, compared with about 5 billion pounds today. A flexible program will translate BST-related efficiency gains into lower consumer prices.

Available to all operators, BST will require little additional capital or operational changes. Thus, BST use should reinforce, but not fundamentally change, structural trends already under way. One major such trend is toward fewer but larger dairy farms.

Use of BST would have little effect on the U.S. position in the world dairy market under current trade policy. Under more liberal trade policies, however, U.S. competitiveness could suffer if BST were adopted abroad but not here.

TWO GREAT PRODUCTS FOR TWO DIFFERENT JOBS

HAY CURE

Aids in curing hay up to 30% moisture, thus saving protein rich leaves. It also aids in getting hay, which is not quite dry, in ahead of bad weather.

ADVANTAGES OF HAY CURE:

- Has a lower PH reading
- Dry, free-flowing, absorbent material
- Less corrosive - easier on equipment
- Easy handling
- More economical
- Contains 30% propionic acid
- Lower cost of application
- Proven effective on farm test

SILAGE CURE

An aid to making good silage better by stimulating fermentation during the first 72 hours after ensiling, thus promoting rapid acidification and reducing heat and energy loss.

A Proven Blend of Enzymes and Bacteria
